tough Grice Whitely in 1:45 of the third. Johnny built up a big lead in the first two rounds, but the stubborn Whitely refused to heed Albarano's blows.

Cavalier Captain Pete Potter, definitely the visitors' best man, gave the Cavaliers their first win, topping Gerry Spotts in the 156-pound bout. Working well both to the head and body, Potter built up big point margins in every round.

Eastern champ Lou Koszarek started slowly in the 165-pound bout with Ronald Hertzwig, but in the later rounds, looked like the Koszarek of old, and decisively outscored his man, 29-26.

Light heavyweights Adam Kois and Bill Marrick didn't even get a chance to warm up. Kois opened a cut over Merrick's eye in the first round, and the referee halted the bout, calling it a draw, according to EIBA rules.

Lions didn't see the ball again until the end of the quarter when Arnelle again tossed in a foul. Pitt's only score was made by the entire period. Joe Piorkowski scored a foul shortly after the Mickey Zernich on a foul shot. State led at halftime, 9-4.

During the entire half, George Ceiga played such selections as "A Tisket-A-Tasket," "Farmer in the Dell," and "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," on the organ, while the Pitt players calmly stood around holding the ball. Once, when Zernich sat down on the floor, a coed came out and offered him her knitting.

The third quarter was even better than the first. Virostek tapped the jump ball to Clarence and he stood with it for nine minutes while the Lions stayed back in their zone. With one minute to go, the Panthers began to pass but didn't shoot until there were only three seconds left. Zernich scored on a one hander and State, led 9-6.

The final period opened with the same tactics by Pitt, with Burch holding the ball. But with six minutes to go in the game, the Panthers began to play basketball and from then on the result was never in doubt. Sherry, McMahan, and Arnelle (2) and Williams tossed in field goals and Arnelle, (3) Piorkowski, and Williams scored on fouls to complete Penn State scoring for the evening. Clarence Burch got a field goal and Zernich tossed in a foul for Pitt. Final score: 24-9 Penn State.
