

Rushing Nears End With Coffee Hours

Spring rushing will draw to a close with formal coffee hours tonight and signing of preferential cards tonight and tomorrow.

Rushees may pick up coffee hour invitations at 9:30 a.m. today, and return them at 1:30 p.m. to the Panel post office in Woman's Building.

To balance the number attending the coffee hours for each sorority, the post office will assign the times each rushee is to attend the coffee hours of her choice. Times will be distributed at 4:30 p.m. Coffee hours will be held from 6:30 to 8 and from 8:30 to 10 tonight.

Sign Preferential Cards
Freshmen will be granted 10 o'clock permissions to attend these affairs. Sorority members will call for rushees at their dormitories. Coffee hours are the only event of formal rushing which may be held outside the suite.

Rushees may sign preferential cards from 9:30 to 11 tonight in Thompson Hall, and from 7:30 a.m. to noon tomorrow in the Dean of Women's office in 105 Old Main. Each rushee may list her first and second choice.

Preferences Kept Confidential
Sororities will turn in their bid lists tomorrow at the Dean of Women's office. According to the preferential bidding system, the Dean of Women's office will match the rushee's preferences with the sorority's bid list.

The office will make up the lists of acceptances for each sorority. All preferences will be kept confidential.

Written bids will be distributed at 5 p.m. tomorrow, with ribboning following at 7 p.m.

Judge Ivan Walker administered the oath at the special program arranged to fulfill the requirements of the Pechan law passed by the last session of the legislature.

Leonides To Affiliate With NISA

Leonides Council unanimously approved a proposal to affiliate with the National Independent Student Association and to send representatives to the NISA convention April 10 to 12 at the University of Oklahoma. The action was taken Monday night.

Betty Johnson, vice president, and Susan Crumley, chairman of the unit plan committee, were suggested as possible delegates.

Miss Johnson said the Association of Independent Men-Leonides dance will be held April 18 in the West Dorm lounge. The Campuseers will play at the semi-formal affair. A barn dance and a costume ball were suggested for April 19.

The council unanimously approved the preferential seating plan which was presented to All-College Cabinet Thursday. By a 10-8 vote, the council favored the amendment to the All-College constitution concerning changes in student fees.

Miss Crumley presented an outline for dormitory living-unit programs. She suggested that each unit hold regular meetings on the second and fourth Mondays of the month.

Speakers, coffee hours, picnics, hikes, seasonal parties with dates, and sports events were listed as suggestions for get-togethers.

Patricia Hall was appointed parliamentarian.

Blue to Predominate In Spring Jewelry

Black may be the color of his true love's hair, as the old song goes, but chances are that if she is up on her fashion news, blue will be the color of her jewelry this season.

Jewelry fashion authorities have predicted that blue will be more important in jewelry collections this spring than any single color has been in a long time. Blues will range from the delicate shades seen in moonstones, through the water shades of blue crystal, and into sapphire.

The second most popular color for spring and summer jewelry, according to fashion analysts, will be white. Chalk white beads will add a frosting to the neckline of a dress; pins made of white beads in varying sizes will be highlighted here and there with shining crystal; and earrings will be shaped like large white ovals framed in gold, similar to old family portraits, or will be large irregular beads in white or quartz colors caged into place by prominent gold prongs.

Earring Trends

Mother-of-pearl is featured in the new collections, too, sometimes in natural color, sometimes tinted to pastel shades or the natural smoke color.

In silhouette, jewelry has a new look. The trend in earrings is toward the larger button type rather than the drop, which had been a fashion favorite during the past several seasons. Manufacturers, however, will continue to supply drop styles for those who still like them best.

The choker continues to be fashion's favorite necklace, though it seems to follow a slightly different line than in former years. The new style choker rests higher on the neck, right at the base of the throat, like the collar on a round-necked dress.

Cause Talk

Pins, one of the most important jewelry fashion accessories, are taking the opposite trend from earrings and are growing smaller. The newest styles are worn in pairs or triplets, either graduated from medium-sized to small, or all of the same size.

Pins are often conversation pieces, such as proud little puddles, coy miniature turtles, or humming birds poised in flight.

The bangle bracelet, so the jewelry fashion authorities say, has grown so popular that there is little likelihood that it will soon be replaced. The tendency is to add another similar bangle to present collections, so that spring songs can be jingled in an even more definite key this year.

LeBaron to Serve On Rating Board

Dr. Helen R. LeBaron, assistant dean of the School of Home Economics, will serve on an evaluating committee that will visit Albright College, Reading, this week.

The committee, a part of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, will make the visit in line with the association's policy of visiting all institutions on the accredited list once every 12 years.

President M. Ellis Orake of Alfred University, Alfred, N.Y., is chairman of the committee.
