

'Greatest Shows of Century' Collection Given to Library

"The Greatest Shows of the Century," a collection of 28 record albums bought by the junior class, was presented to the Pattee Library yesterday at a short dedication ceremony.

The collection was purchased with a $100 fund set aside each year for the class project. Robert Sherman, committee chairman, said his group hoped to interest the present sophomore class in the project with a view toward building up the collection next year.

The albums, all of the 33 1/3 rpm speed, will circulate from the reserve book room of the library for a three-day period. A matriculation card must be presented to obtain an album and, for the present, only one album at a time will be signed out to a person.

Fines similar to those on reserve room books will be applied to any album kept over the three-day period. Breakage charges will be assessed at the list price of an album and will be paid if an album is lost or damaged.

Included in the collection are "Anything Goes," "Porgy and Bess," "Vagabond King," "Annie Get Your Gun," "An American in Paris," "Show Boat," "Babes in Toyland," "I'll See You in My Dreams," "Songs by Jane Froman," "The New Moon," "Robertta," "Blossom Time," "Call Me Madam."

"Desert Song," "Guys and Dolls," "The King and I," "Oklahoma," "Song of Norway," "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," "Excerpts from 'The Student Prince' and 'The Chocolate Soldier,'" "Brigadoon," "Sweethearts," "Naughty Marietta," "Rose Marie," "Night and Day," "South Pacific," "Carousel," and "Kiss Me Kate."

School Plans Open House

Agriculture school students are planning an open house to be held on May 22 primarily for high school seniors and their parents.

The event, a new feature for the school, will coincide with the school's visiting day of the summer series.

David Stabler, Agriculture Student Council president, has named William Griffith and Theodore Kimmel as co-chairmen of a committee working with the faculty to plan for the occasion. Tentative plans call for students to serve as hosts to visitors to guide them to points of interest on campus and answer questions concerning courses, classes, and college life.

J. Keith Thornton, superintendent of the college farms and head of the School of Agriculture's public relations committee is arranging the student program as part of the visiting tours.

Clements Publishes Scholarship Article

Dr. Robert J. Clements, professor and head of the Romance language department at the College, has contributed an article entitled "A Centennial of American Scholarship in the Romance Languages and Literatures" to the 1952 volume of the "Romanistisches Jahrbuch," published by the University of Hamburg.

The article reviews the entire field of scholarship in the Romance philology during the period when European scholars were out of contact with America due to the war and postwar conditions.

Riding Club to Show Two Movies Tonight

Two movie shorts will be shown at a meeting of the Riding Club at 7 tonight in 217 Willard Hall.

"Bluebloods," a 12 minute sound film, is about the training of horses. The other, "Swinging Mallets," pertains to polo horses. A short business meeting concerning the forthcoming horse show will be held prior to the movies.

Woodward Concert To Be Postponed Until May 12

The concert to be presented by the Philadelphia Woodwind Quintet, sponsored by the State College Choral Society and originally scheduled for March 31, has been postponed to May 12, Dr. John De Novo, chairman of the society, has announced.

The postponement is due to the illness of John De Lancia, associate solo oboist with the Philadelphia Orchestra and one of the five members of the quintet. Other members of the group are William Kincaid, solo flutist with the Philadelphia Orchestra; Anthony Gigliotti, associate solo clarinetist; Mason Jones, solo horn; and Sol Schoenbach, principal bassoonist.

The concert will be presented at 8 p.m., May 12, in the State College High School auditorium. The program will consist of original works for woodwinds by Haydn, Beethoven, Hindemith, Milhaud, Persichetti, Wally, and Ibert.

Gilmore to Speak To Dairy Group

The dairy cattle drawing for the Dairy Exposition will be conducted 7 p.m. tomorrow in 117 Dairy building, according to William Griffith, publicity manager of the Dairy Science Club.

Herbert C. Gilmore, assistant professor of Dairy Husbandry extension, will address the club Thursday night on "The Value of Dairy Herd Improvement Association Records."

Charles Brosius has been named production manager of the Dairy Exposition scheduled for May 10. Any student may select a cow to show in the exposition, Griffith added.

Ag Engineers to Hear Two Students Tonight

Two agricultural engineering students will speak at a meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers at 7 tonight in 105 Agricultural Engineering.

The Penn State Grange will be the guests of the ASAE.

Shunil Roy, graduate student from India, will talk on agriculture in India. Mark Shaw, agricultural engineering student at the College, will tell of his experiences in China.

The first poster, or placard, was made by Jules Charet, a Frenchman, in 1867.

Council Makes $15 Allotment

Fifteen dollars was appropriated by Pollock Council at a meeting last night to provide sheepskins for the council. The proposal was made by Frank Schrey, chairman of the sheepskins committee.

It was announced at the meeting that an exchange dinner and dance will be held March 28. Dorms 1, 2, 21, and 22, will have an exchange dinner with McAllister Hall. Everyone is invited to the dance, according to Richard Morman, secretary.

William Haines, president, named Morman to represent the council at the All-College committee meeting that will plan Penn State's 10th Annual Pan-American Day celebration.

Students to Show Horticulture Booth

Living flowers, grass shrubbery and trees grown in greenhouses will be used by students in horticulture who will sponsor a large educational booth at the Philadelphia Flower Show, which opens Monday.

Dr. John G. Seely, professor of floriculture, and Milton T. Lewis, professor of plant breeding, are supervising the exhibit, in which students are putting to work lessons learned in classrooms.

The show will last until March 29.

Several varieties of tuberous begonia, vinca, and crocus have been specially grown for the exhibit which was designed, painted, and built by the students. Textbooks used by the horticulture students will also be featured at the educational display.

Students May Join Enrollment Group

Application blanks for those students interested in joining the All-College enrollment committee will be available all day today in the second floor lounge of Old Main.

John Allison, co-chairman of the committee, said that advance notice will be sent to the high school principal but that the student will arrange his own time for the speech which is intended to increase enrollment at the College.

Brochures, pamphlets, and catalogs will be provided by the committee and sent to the high schools of the committee members as well as outside schools.

Students who apply will be contacted later by committee members, Allison said.

Pivot Will Accept Contributions

Contributions for Pivot, campus literary publication for poetry, may now be submitted for the spring issue, which will appear the last of April. The Fred Lewis Pattee annual award of $25 will be given to the author of the best poem or group of poems which appeared in the fall issue or will be published in the forthcoming magazine.

Contributions may be turned in at the English Composition office, 243 Sparks, or to one of the student staff members. Patricia Chandler is editor of the spring Pivot. Her associates are Margot Grossman and Sally Johnson.

College Chess Meet Entrants To Sign up

Students interested in entering a College chess tournament may submit their names and 25 cent entrance fees at the Penn State Chess Club meeting at 7 tonight in 3 Sparks, David Keller, club president, has announced.

The tournament, an annual affair, will be played on Wednesday nights starting next week. Students interested in entering the competition and unable to attend tonight's meeting may contact Keller before March 26.

The winner will be awarded a medal purchased with the 25 cent entrance fees. Second and third place winners will also receive medals.

This tournament will also help to determine which players will represent Penn State in a meet against St. Francis College and Gettysburg next month. The team winning this match will go to Harrisburg and participate in a match to decide the state chess championship.

Penn State's chess team won the state championship last year.

WD Exhibits La Vie Display

An exhibit on the production of the 1952 La Vie is on display at the West Dormitories foyer.

The display shows the original page plans for the 1952 book and continues through the printed pages of sections which now are completed and awaiting binding.

The exhibit, arranged by the La Vie staff and Student Union, also includes copies of the six Penn State yearbooks that have won All-American honors in national competition.

James Geffert, editor of the La Vie, said that the books are expected for distribution by the middle of May.

Council Asks Detailed Report On Air Depot

Centre County's airport authority was asked Monday night by State College borough council to prepare a complete report on the airport situation for a special meeting of council March 31.

The request for the detailed report came after nearly two hours of discussion on the airport situation at council's monthly meeting, during which an organized group protested the air depot site and the use of tax funds for airport improvements.

Meantime, council asked Borough Manager R. Y. Edwards to learn from the county commissioners the last possible date a ballot may be prepared on the airport problem for the April 22 primaries.

The proposed site for the airport at the present air depot has met with considerable opposition from some county residents who would rather see the airport constructed at the present Black Moshannon Airport.

ADS to Show Journ Movies

Two movies, "The Story of Printing" and "Do You Belong in Advertising?" will be shown at 3:10 p.m. tomorrow in 119 Osmond laboratory. The films will be sponsored by Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising fraternity.

"Do You Belong in Advertising?" is a 30-minute, color and sound film, the only vocational advertising film ever produced. It is being distributed by the Advertising Federation of America to colleges throughout the United States.

James Dunmire, head of the ADS committee for the films, announced that the showing will be open to all students and faculty.

Leonides Approves 10 Cent Fee Raise

Leonides Council Monday night unanimously approved the School of Agriculture Student Council's proposal to assess each student ten cents to pay judging teams' expenses.

The council gave the executive committee the power to choose the delegates for the National Independent Student Association convention April 10 to 12 at the University of Oklahoma.

Susan Crumley was appointed Leonides representative for the Pan-American week committee.
