Cagers Open NCAA Tournament Tonight

By ERNIE MOORE

RALEIGH, North Carolina, March 20—Penn State and the University of Kentucky lift the lid on the 1952 NCAA basketball tournament here tomorrow night as the Eastern regional eliminations begin in the Williams J. Reynolds Fieldhouse.

The Wildcats, Southeastern Conference champions, take on the Penn State cagers at 7:30 p.m. North Carolina State, Southern Conference champions, and St. Johns meet in the second game.

The two winners will play tomorrow night, while the losers will meet in a consolation game.

Stiffest Test

Penn State arrived here this afternoon in time for a workout in the fieldhouse.

Coach Elmer Gross' Nittany Lion courtmen, will face their stiffest test of the year when they take on Coach Adolph Rupp's Kentucky team. With a 28-2 record for the 1951-52 season, the Wildcats are rated the nation's top team for the second straight year. The Bluegrass court aggregation is also defending NCAA champions.

Zone vs. Firehouse

Paced by their All-American center Cliff Hagan and a second team All-American, Frank Ramsey, the Wildcats have run roughshod over all but two opponents. Their only losses came at the hands of St. Louis and Minnesota, in upsets.

The game tonight will be a battle between Penn State's famous zone defense and Kentucky's score-happy offense. With a record of 20 wins and four losses for the year, Gross' courtmen have allowed their opponents an average of 55 points per game.

A Phi O Contest Begins

The Alpha Phi Omega picture identification contest, being run in connection with this year's Ugly Man contest, begins today.

Pictures of the 37 contestants in this year's Ugly Man contest will appear today in the Athletic Store window. The student who can correctly identify the most candidates by Tuesday will receive a free ticket to the IFC-Panhel Ball to be held April 4 in Recreation Hall. In case of a tie, the winner will be chosen by lot.

Contest officials said entry blanks will be available inside the store and are to be returned there when they are completed. No entrant in the Ugly Man contest may participate in the identification competition, officials said.

The Ugly Man contest will be held from March 26 to 28. Voting will take place on the Mall at Pollock road. Students may vote for their favorite candidate by placing money in designated containers. The contestant with the most money-votes will be "Ugly Man for 1952."

Proceeds of this year's Ugly Man contest will go to the Campus Chest.

Deadline for picking up tickets for the thirteenth annual Gridiron Banquet to be held at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Nittany Lion Inn, is noon Saturday at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Moylan Mills, president of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic fraternity, which is sponsoring the lampoon dinner, said that invitations would have to be shown in order to pick up the tickets.

More than 350 invitations have been sent out to prominent student, faculty, administrative, and town personalities. The banquet, patterned after the National Press Club affair in Washington, D.C., will poke fun at campus and town personalities and events.

Guests of honor will be President Milton S. Eisenhower and Louis H. Bell, director of public information, who will defend the administration in the rebuttal speech following the dinner and the skits.

Union Plans To Resume Negotiations

Officials of local 67 of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFL), yesterday were expecting an early resumption of negotiations with College officials after the union membership voted Wednesday night to delay strike action until April 23.

All five union demands will be presented to the College again, Edward P. Dailey, international representative of the union, said yesterday, "in the hope that some agreement can be arrived at before the April meeting."

The decision to postpone action on a walkout came after Dailey read an eight-page letter from President Milton S. Eisenhower explaining the Colleges' stand to the 200 union members who attended the meeting.

The delay will permit the College to refer the points at issue to the Board of Trustees, which holds its regular spring meeting at the College March 28.

"The employees clearly indicated that they would go through with the contemplated action at the April meeting," Dailey told the Daily Collegian after the meeting. "The amount of money which would be necessary to achieve a complete settlement of requested wage adjustments and straighten out inequalities, would not be in excess of $700 or $800 a month," he added.

Dixieland Session Listed for Sunday

The program for the Sunday afternoon jam session at the TUB this week will feature New Orleans Dixieland music.

Richard Brady, who is in charge of the sessions, stated that conflicting student activities have interfered with the jam sessions during the past few weeks. The programs, sponsored by the Dean of Men's office, will be resumed on a weekly basis for the remainder of the semester.

Cabinet Gets Fee, Customs Plans

Asks Board For Women's, Men's Rules

All-College Cabinet last night heard the first reading of a proposed amendment to the All-College Constitution for a joint Freshman Customs Board.

The amendment, which would replace Article III, Section 5 of the present Constitution, provides for the setting up of a customs board composed of four upperclassmen and four upperclasswomen, with the chairman of Tribunal and the chairman of the Freshman Customs and Regulations Board serving as co-chairmen.

Mary Jane Woodrow, who presented the amendment, explained that the amendment provides that the chairman of Tribunal appoint the other three men, and that the Women's Student Government Association Senate approve the other three women members of the board. The amendment specifies that of the three other women members, one must be the chairman of Judicial, and the other two, members of the FCRB.

Before Year-End

The joint customs board would try all cases in which customs are violated, with the chairman of Tribunal presiding when male cases appear, and the chairman of the FCRB presiding over the cases of women students. Neither chairman would have the right to vote. In cases of ties, male cases would be referred to Tribunal and female cases to the FCRB.

Marvin Krasnansky, chairman of the Board of Publications and a member of the customs committee, pointed out that joint regulations will be presented to cabinet before the end of this year for approval. The board would have the power to see that these are enforced, and it would also handle joint enforcement days.

The second reading of the amendment will be next week, and after the third reading, a vote will be taken.

Student Government Day

Cabinet heard the second reading of the amendment proposed by Krasnansky at the last cabinet meeting which would give the Board of Publications the power to determine additional members

Spring's Arrival Signifies Close Of Snow Season

Spring brought the sun along when it came to the campus yesterday, melting Wednesday's seven inch snow and, College weather station officials say, putting an end to Penn State's snowy season for the year.

Any snow that hits the campus from now on will be nothing more than flurries. Charles L. Hosler of the weather station said yesterday. Now, he said, there are sunny days ahead.

Hosler said temperatures will rise into the 60's today. Yesterday's sunshine sent the thermometer up to 58 degrees, with the low at 40 degrees.

The weather here will be warm until tomorrow, when there will be some rain and coolness, Hosler predicted.

The sudden shift from snow to sunshine is typical weather for this time of the year, he reported. A three-foot snowfall in 1942 disappeared in the same manner, he said.

Senior AROTC Applications Due April 1

Applications for admission into the advanced Air Force ROTC course for 1952-53 must be submitted to the Department of Air Science and Tactics before April 1, Lt. Col. Jack W. Dieterle, professor of air science and tactics has announced.

All applicants must have four or more semesters of college remaining, Dieterle said, and must have completed two years of basic ROTC or have served with the U.S. armed forces on active duty for one year. Established physical standards must be met and a satisfactory academic record must also be achieved, Dieterle said.

Dieterle added that successful advance Air ROTC applicants will be deferred from induction under the Selective Service Act and may expect an Air Force commission upon graduation. Additional information is available in 107 Armory, Dieterle said.

25-Cent Raise In Student Fees Is Suggested

By DAVE PELLNITZ

All-College Cabinet last night approved a recommendation that all students be assessed 25 cents for the support of the Penn State Intercollegiate Judging Teams, and that the present agriculture activities' fee of $1 be reduced by 75 cents.

The recommendation for a fee change will have to be approved by cabinet next week before it can go to the trustees.

Cabinet also approved the parking plan, proposed by David Mutchler, Tribunal chairman, which would provide that parking stickers be distributed only in accordance with the number of parking lots available. This plan would practically eliminate student driving on campus during school hours.

Marilyn Levitt, Panhellenic Council president, made the proposal that instead of requiring agriculture students to pay 85 cents toward the judging teams and all other students to pay 10 cents, the amount should be evenly distributed over all students. Miss Levitt said it was "grossly unfair" to require the Ag students to pay 68 per cent of the costs while all other students pay only 32 per cent.

David Stabler, president of the Ag student council, explained to cabinet that under the present set-up, the judging teams are supported entirely by the students enrolled in the School of Agriculture, adding that team members had to pay their own food and insurance expenses while

Schuschnigg To Speak At Forum

Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, former chancellor of Austria and Nazi prisoner for seven years, will speak on the fourth Community Forum program at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Schwab Auditorium.

Now a professor at St. Louis University, Schuschnigg was appointed chancellor in 1934 and remained chief of the Austrian government until March, 1938, when Hitler invaded Austria. Schuschnigg was placed in solitary confinement by S.S. troops, and remained there until the American Fifth and British Eighth Armies freed him.

Schuschnigg, who has "absolutely no intention of returning to politics even after the occupying powers withdraw from Austria," has delivered over 350 lectures in the United States on problems concerning Central Europe.

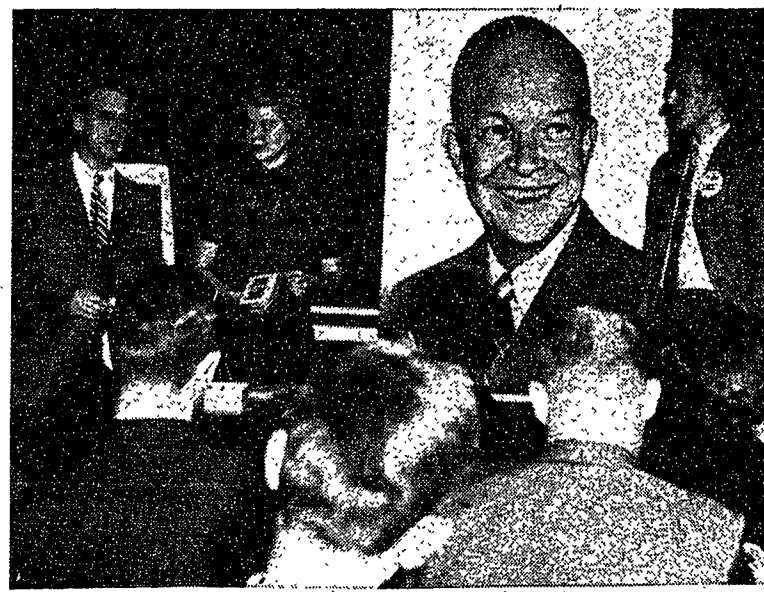

"Every age has its politicians," he says, "and my time is past. I think I could still help my country, but not in politics."

In reply to questions asked him at a New York conference regarding his capitulation to Hitler at Berchtesgaden in February, 1938, he said, "Before the war I was called a clerical communist by the Nazis and an Austrian fascist by the communists. But I was never a partisan of dictatorship. I did my best to fight for independence."

When Schuschnigg was called to Berchtesgaden, presumably for a casual talk, Hitler informed him that the Germans were ready to invade Austria by land and air.

"Hitler said he would respect our independence," Dr. Schuschnigg said. "I hoped he would keep his word. I had no choice."

'Ike' Campaign Starts

ANN HOMIRE (center) has just received an Eisenhower pamphlet and a membership card of the Americans for Eisenhower committee from Jay Heady, (left) while Chairman Benjamin Sinclair looks on. About 20 persons attended the meeting last night, which was called to outline the organization and plans of the group to interested students. The committee, which is trying to increase support for Eisenhower among the voting students and faculty, is planning a political rally for which no date has been set.
