

Project to Open Greek Program

By TED SOENS

This Saturday will see the start of something new on campus—Greek Week. As part of a week-long program of fraternity and sorority activities, designed to strengthen relationships with townspeople, Saturday has been designated as community project day.

Beginning at 10 a.m. and lasting till 5 p.m., approximately 1000 fraternity and sorority members will cooperate to help clean up State College recreational areas.

These areas are the Sunset and Holmes Foster playgrounds and the community fields.

The work schedules have been planned by Michael Kirshner, chairman of the project, so that no group will work longer than two hours. The work will entail the cutting of trees for fire wood, pulling out weeds, raking, and the painting and cleaning of the borough ambulance and fire equipment.

Patricia Acosta and Gerry Gibson, co-chairmen of Greek Week, announced that the sorority and fraternity having the greatest participation in the project will receive recognition. They stressed the hope that the sororities and fraternities will give their wholehearted cooperation to make the week a success.

Debate Duo To Compete At West Point

Robert Alderdice and David Lewis will be among four teams representing the middle Atlantic district in the West Point national tournament April 23-26.

The championship College duo, which recently brought home the Boston National Invitational Tournament cup, was chosen at run-offs at Georgetown University this weekend. The other three teams are George Washington University, Howard University, and Georgetown University. Twenty-two schools participated.

During the seven rounds of debate, Alderdice and Lewis beat Catholic University, Georgetown, Navy, Westminster College and Grove City College. They lost to the University of Pittsburgh and St. Peters College.

At the end of the first five rounds of debate Penn State had the highest median rating of any team in the tournament, with an average of 43 out of a possible 50. Prof. Joseph F. O'Brien, men's debate coach, accompanied the team.

... by land and air. "Hitler said he would respect our independence," Dr. Schuschnigg states. "I hoped he would keep his word."

A political figure since 1927 when he was elected deputy of the Christian-Social Party to Parliament, he says he has "absolutely no intention of returning to politics even after the occupying powers withdraw from Austria."

"Every age has its politicians," he says, "and my time is past. I think I could still help my country, but not in politics."

Dr. Schuschnigg was born at Riva, South-Tyrol, and attended a Jesuit school.

He served as an artillery lieutenant during World War I, and went into politics following a stint as a lawyer.

He has written two books dealing with his homeland. They are "My Austria," and "Austrian Requiem."

Tree Spraying Brings Warning To Drivers

Walter W. Trainer, supervisor of landscape construction, has warned automobile owners and others on campus that College workers will be spraying trees during the next two weeks.

Trainer said that although the milky oil spray will not injure car paint, human skin, or dress fabric, it should be avoided if possible. He suggested that no cars be parked in areas where there are many large trees.

"If your car or coat is splashed," he added, "don't get excited. It won't harm the car or stain the dress." No effort should be made to wipe the oil film from the car until after the water in it has evaporated, about an hour after the liquid hits the car, he explained.

He said workers will do everything possible to avoid splashing, and will spray the more heavily congested areas over the weekend.
