

Princeton Prof To Give Talk On Humanities

Dr. Whitney J. Oakes, professor of classics and chairman of the special program in the humanities at Princeton University, will speak on "The Humanities: The Core of Living Experience" at 4:15 p.m. Monday in 121 Sparks. Oakes will discuss the developments in the field of general education at the second lecture of the sixth annual Simmons series. He has taken all his degrees at Princeton University and is widely known for his work in ancient philosophy and classical studies. For seven years Oakes participated in the "Invitation to Learning" program of the Columbia Broadcasting system and for one year held an appointment as Rockefeller Post-War Fellow.

Final State Party Workshop Tonight

The final State Party workshop meeting will be held at 7 tonight in Sparks. Various groups of the workshop will meet in 11, 12, 13, 14, 134, and 125 Sparks. Due to a ruling by the All-College elections committee, the workshop meetings can not be counted toward the two-meeting attendance required for clique membership. It had previously been announced that the meetings would be counted. Thomas Farrell, clique chairman, requested that suggestions for the party platform be turned in to Melvin Rubin and Joseph Simone, platform committee, co-chairmen, at the meeting tonight.

Busses Scheduled For Easter Traffic

Special express busses will leave for major points in Pennsylvania, April 9, to accommodate Easter traffic, according to Fred Sawczyn, new chairman of the student transportation committee. They will leave the parking lot south of Recreation Hall, 1 p.m.

Cabinet --

(Continued from page one) fee raise. The suggested boost was raised to 25 cents at cabinet's last meeting. Cabinet will also hear the second reading of a proposed amendment to the All-College Constitution for a joint Freshman Customs Board. The amendment would replace Article III, Section 5 of the constitution and provides for establishment of a customs board composed of four upperclassmen and four upperclasswomen.

Cabinet will vote on a proposed amendment which would give the Board of Publications the power to determine additional members by a three-fourths vote of the board, subject to cabinet approval. Under the present set-up, the All-College Constitution must be amended each time a new member is added to the board. Marvin Krasnansky, chairman of the Board of Publications, will ask cabinet to go on record as being opposed to the recent Senate committee on athletics' ruling that limits College entrants in NCAA championship tournaments to Eastern champions.

The Senate ruling has already been criticized by James Worth, All-College president; Liberal Arts Student Council; Interfraternity Council, and by an editorial in Tuesday's Daily Collegian.

Cabinet will vote on payment of $150 dues to the National Student Association. Milton Bernstein will present a Religion-in-Life Week report and Stanley Wengert will open discussion on the Association of College Unions Convention.

Poor Turnout Ends Junior's Meeting

Because only four members of the junior class turned out for a class meeting last night, Michael Hanek, class president, canceled the meeting. Hanek expressed the belief that student apathy is really a great problem.

A consensus was taken on the proposed increase of 25 cents in student fees, with the four members favoring the fee. The group also favored the joint customs board.

New Radio Show To Start Tonight

The first in the series of a new 15-minute radio program entitled "Call Card" will be presented at 9:15 tonight over WMAJ. The series will be sponsored by the Radio Guild and will feature short stories, poetry, and scenes from plays.

Tonight Barbara Klopp will present an oral interpretation of "A Portrait of Jennie" by Robert Nathan. The story is a philosophical fantasy about a painter who needs love for inspiration, but the one woman he could love was born many years too soon. Seeing this, the woman returns to him as a young girl and gives him the inspiration, he needs to paint his masterpiece. Don Barry will be announcer.

Players' Workshop

The Players' construction workshop will meet at 8 tonight in 219 Willard.
