

School of Agriculture Announces Dean's List

4-H Club Gets Scholarship From Oil Firm

A $400 scholarship for 4-H Club members has been established at the College by the Esso Standard Oil Co.

Amounting to $100 per year for each of the four years that the recipient shall meet qualifications, the scholarship will go to a student who satisfactorily completed at least three years of 4-H Club work.

Other requisites are that the student has graduated in the upper half of his high school class, that he has been active in 4-H the year preceding selection, and that he agree to enroll in a course related to agriculture. The recipients, who must be residents of Pennsylvania, will be chosen on a basis of need, merit, and ability.

Two alternates will be selected in addition to each recipient, by the director of Agriculture Extension, the state 4-H Club leader, and the dean of the School of Agriculture.

Scientist Talks Tonight at 7:30

Dr. Henry N. Baumann Jr., of the research and development division of the Carborundum Company, Niagara Falls, will give an illustrated lecture at 7:30 tonight in the Mineral Industries Art Gallery.

The subject of his talk is "Exploration Through a High Temperature Microscope." It will be presented by the Penn State chapter of Keramos, National Ceramic Honor Society, as its annual lecture.

Baumann has pioneered in the use of the thermal microscope in the study of ceramic reactions, according to Frederick R. Matson, professor of ceramics. He will show colored movies of glass-attacking refractories and other high temperature phenomena taken through the microscope. The lecture is open to the public.

Alderfer Money Still Not Returned

The $300 stolen from the coat of Henrietta Alderfer as it was hanging outside a Sparks classroom late last month has not been returned, Miss Alderfer said yesterday.

Miss Alderfer had the money in her coat pocket and was planning to return it to a professor who lent her that amount to pay spring semester fees. Another $175 in the coat was untouched.

Miss Alderfer has requested the return of the money and said no questions will be asked. It may be returned to the Daily Collegian office in Carnegie Hall or to her room, 410 Thomson Hall.

2 Councils Divided on Airport Site

State College and Bellefonte borough councils split Monday night on accepting the County Airport Authority-backed Black Moshannon site for a Centre County Airport.

The Bellefonte council supported the authority's choice unanimously but the State College Council turned the site down, 5-1.

The action followed final reports by the Centre County Airport Authority to both councils.

The Centre County Board of Commissioners, meanwhile, indicated it planned no action on the recommendation.

H. D. Albright, president of the authority, said in his report that the Moshannon field was chosen as the authority's final site at a meeting last Wednesday.

At that meeting the three State College representatives on the authority voted against the Moshannon site.

About 30 State College residents appeared at the special meeting of the State College council. Their suggestions touched on various aspects of the airport situation, ranging from a plea for endorsement of the present Air Depot as the county's airport to a suggestion that the entire matter be shelved.

Riding Club to See 2 Film Shorts Tonight

Two sound motion picture shorts will be shown to the Riding Club at 7 tonight in 217 Wilard Hall.

The pictures are "Bit and Bridle" and "Blue Grass." The club will also hold a business meeting to discuss the horse show to be held May 3 and 4.

cost approximately $150 each and would at first be set up to cover nine areas; Atherton, Simmons, McElwain, MacAllister, Grange, West Dorms, Women's Building, and the Nittany and Pollock Dorms.

As funds became available, additional slave transmitters could be set up to cover Windcrest, fraternity houses, and similar housing units downtown. These transmitters could probably be built at much less than $150, since they would cover a much smaller area.

The advantages of this system, as set forth by the All-College Cabinet radio station committee, are that a Federal Communications Commission license could be easily and speedily obtained, that operating schedules are very flexible, and that installation and later expansion costs would be small in comparison to other broadcast systems.

The major disadvantage of the FM transmission is that few radios in the area are equipped to receive it. The slave transmitter system, however, could eventually overcome this disadvantage, the report points out.
