

Political Parties Favor Expanded Medical Aid

State Proposes Town Doctor House Calls

The full text of the State Party platform, released by the All-College elections committee yesterday, is printed below:

The State Party, conceived upon the principles of service to you, the students of Penn State, now offers you the opportunity to elect sincere and competent students, who, with your continued cooperation and support, will enable us to preserve student government.

In order to fulfill this responsibility we pledge to investigate fully and take all steps necessary to accomplish the fulfillment of the following proposals:

1. To work for the establishment of a student press to print campus publications.
2. To hasten the expansion of the facilities of the College hospital in order to insure a more adequate health service.
3. To conclude an agreement with town doctors to provide for house calls to dormitories and fraternity houses in cases of emergency.
4. To establish a men's housing bureau for all off-campus rooms in order to provide for improved and safe living conditions.

School Council Election Dates Set by Board

Student council elections will be held in all schools except Agriculture and Engineering April 28, 29 and 30 the Interstudent Council Board decided at a meeting recently.

Edward Shanken, board president, said that nominations will be made between April 21 and 25.

Shanken said that the Engineering Council election will be held on April 28 and 29. The Agriculture council will be chosen by the various student organizations in the School of Agriculture.

The council rejected a proposal of Donald Herbein that the school council elections be held at the same time as the All-College elections. Most of the board members felt that it would involve the councils in politics and a better student response within each school could be attained if the elections were held separately.

The council also decided to ask the inter-class finance committee for $50 in the new All-College budget. Shanken said the money would be used to coordinate the work of the various student councils.

Final Nominees For IFC Named

The final list of nominees for Interfraternity Council offices was announced at last night's IFC meeting. Elections of the officers will be held April 7.

The nominees are: president, Arthur Rosfeld and William Dorsey; vice president, Clifford Stewart, Thomas Geffert, William Hirsch, Thomas Judge, and Joseph Brown; secretary treasurer, Richard Bunnell, Thomas Fleming, and Hudson Samson.

Richard Gibbs was appointed to look into cost reduction for big weekend photographs. He will report his findings at the next meeting. Stanley Wengert, IFC president, announced that the Outstanding Fraternity Trophy has been revived and will be awarded this year. Forms have been given out for fraternities to list activities and their members in important jobs on campus.

Copies of the Work Shop discussion booklet are now available at the Dean of Men's office. Only one copy per house will be given out. Additional booklets will cost $1.

Floral Agency Issues Last Call

Today is the last day for students to order corsages through the Student Floral Agency, which represents the three floral shops downtown — McMullen's, Woodring's, and the State College Floral Shop.

The agency enables students to order flowers in the dorm areas from 5 to 7 p.m. during the week preceding a big weekend. Offices are at the West Dorm mail room and the Nittany-Pollock dining hall.

Members of the agency include Joseph Sutovsky, manager, Walter Service, James Ramsay, and Thomas Kraynak.

Eight Leave For Eastern Debate Meet

Eight debaters, representing the men's and women's debate squads, left yesterday to compete in the first annual Eastern Intercollegiate Debate Tournament at Princeton University.

The tournament is sponsored by the eastern division of the American Forensic Association.

Nancy Nelsen and Peggy Crooks will debate the affirmative for the women, while Susan Holtzinger and Greta Weaver will be debating the negative.

For the men, Eugene Kolber and David Lewis will uphold the affirmative, with Clair George and Robert Alderdice supporting the negative side.

All debates are on the national intercollegiate debate topic, resolved: That the federal government should adopt a permanent program of wage and price controls.

Miss Weaver and Lewis will also enter the extemporaneous speaking competition at the tournament. Lewis recently placed second in the state extemporaneous contest, while Miss Weaver placed third in extemporaneous competition at the state tournament last year.

Forty schools from the eastern part of the United States, from Maine to Virginia, will have delegations at the tournament.

Elections Set For Chem-Phys

Nominations for four senior, four junior, and two sophomore seats on the Chem-Phys student council will be received April 21 to 25, and elections will be held April 28, 29 and 30, Bryson Craine, council president, said last night.

Craine also said that present council members would elect officers for next year at the April 30 meeting of the council.

Charles Ferguson, a member of the Open House committee, appealed to members of the council to visit their high schools during spring vacation to help promote the school's Open House which will be held May 10.

In other action the Council approved the Freshman Customs Board Amendment which will be voted upon at tonight's meeting of All-College Cabinet.

Lions Advocate More Activity For Blue Band

The full text of the Lion Party platform, released by the All-College elections committee yesterday, is printed below:

The Lion Party believes that student government at Penn State can be strengthened to the benefit of all Penn State students.

To accomplish this increase in the powers of student government, the Lion Party favors increased student participation, greater cooperation among the governmental agencies, and further recognition of student government by the College administration.

The platform points stated below are the immediate aims of the Lion Party.

1. A program of inspection of downtown housing facilities and the issuing of a list of recommended houses through the office of the Dean of Men.
2. Initiation of action to make personal property insurance available for campus and town students at reasonable rates.
3. Establishment of a student press for student publications.
4. Encouraging the administration to ease requirements compelling students living on campus to contract for College dining services.
5. Expansion of College medical facilities and services.
6. The participation of part of the Blue Band at indoor athletic events, particularly basketball.

Pugh, White Medal Winners To Be Named

Winners of the Evan Pugh medals, awarded to juniors and seniors for outstanding academic achievement, will be announced today by the College Senate as will the recipients of the John W. White fellowship and the John W. White medal.

The Pugh awards are made by the Honor Society Council to students who have been selected by the Senate committee on scholarships and awards. The senior medals are gold; the junior medals are silver.

The John W. White fellowship is a grant of $600 awarded to a member of the graduating class for graduate study.

The White gold medal is a senior scholarship award.

A revised academic calendar for 1953-54 is also on the Senate agenda. At its last meeting, a month ago, the Senate refused to accept the calendar committee's recommendation because of the lack of sufficient time between final examinations and spring registration.

Ernest W. Callenbach, chairman of the committee, said yesterday that his committee will be prepared to present a revised calendar at today's meeting.

No action is expected on the plan to increase normal graduation credit requirements as a penalty for cutting classes before and after vacations.

That proposal was made to the Senate two months ago and at the last Senate meeting early in March the matter was referred to a special committee for extensive study.

Betz Wins Contest For Poster Design

Fred Betz, junior in architectural engineering, won the first prize of $5 for designing a poster for the School of Engineering open house program.

Second prize of $3 in the competition among sophomores and juniors was won by Michael Sabo and third prize of $2 by Thomas Kearns.

Honorable mention, with prizes of $1 each, went to Robert Carr, Thomas Geffert, Donald Lenker, Cynthia Palmer, and Douglas Stender.

Navy Professor Will Transfer To Sea Duty

Capt. John L. Woodbury, professor of naval science, will be transferred to sea duty in early June, the Department of Naval Science has announced.

Captain Woodbury will return to sea in command of a transport division amphibious force attached to the Atlantic fleet. He assumed his present position in July 1949, and has been campus coordinator of military affairs since last year.

Capt. Frank P. Mitchell Jr. is expected to take over the duties as naval science professor when Woodbury leaves. Comdr. Richard L. Billings, associate professor of naval science, said. At present, Captain Mitchell is commanding officer on the attack transport, USS Sarasota. Billings said Mitchell has a varied and well-rounded sea, land, and executive record.

Prexy, Steidle Praise Group

Members of the Mineral Industries Student Council heard letters from Pres. Milton S. Eisenhower and Edward Steidle, dean of the MI school, commending their testimonial banquet honoring John J. Forbes, head of the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

The letters commended the organization and management of the dinner which was held March 22. The affair was termed successful by Millard Rehburg, president of the council. Harold Meabon, financial chairman of the banquet, gave a financial report and also called the banquet a success.

Tentative plans for elections of council officers and sophomore and junior representatives were made. Officers will be elected shortly after the return from the spring vacation, while representatives will be elected late in the month.

Debaters to Hold Intrasquad Tourney

The men's debate squad will hold an intrasquad tournament this year for the first time, according to Clair George, manager.

Each of the 14 teams debated once last night and will debate twice next week before the results will be announced. The winning team from each class will receive an award.

All members of the squad except those who regularly compete in intercollegiate tournaments were eligible to enter the tournament.

Candidates Seek Posts In PSCA

Jane Ifft and Allen Marshall will vie for the presidency of the Penn State Christian Association in elections which will begin tomorrow, and last until Tuesday.

Voting will take place in the PSCA headquarters, 304 Old Main, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday and between 9 a.m. and 12 noon Saturday. Approximately 400 students are eligible to vote, but each must present his PSCA membership card to do so.

Competing for vice president are Robert James and Robert Keener; for secretary, Patricia Jones and Elizabeth Bortz, and for treasurer, Charles Douds, Richard Smith, and Warren Hommas.

Elections for Directors

Running for committee chairmanships are LaVonne Althouse and Shirley Pritchard, program; David Howell and Merritt Dinnage, finance; Kirk Garber, Ruth Freed, and Joyce Gardner, membership; Nancy Barth, LaVere Applegate, and David Bain, new students; and Elizabeth Byrem and Dorothy Osterhout, public relations.

Five will be elected to the PSCA board of directors for a three-year term. Dr. Ralph J. Garber, Dr. Merwin W. Humphrey, Norman R. Thielke, Dr. Mary L. Willard, Paul E. Lenner, MacDonald Heebner, Dr. William G. Mather, Ted C. Allen, and Dr. Harold W. Perkins are the nominees.

3 Ministers on Board

Board members nominated for a one-year term are Dr. M. K. Gingrich, Dr. John A. Mourant, Mrs. Dorothy C. Jones, John Truby, Mrs. Lucey Doan, Dr. Henry W. Knerr, Dr. Charles M. Long, and John E. Nicholas. Four will be elected from these.

Three ministers will be selected for board membership from among the Rev. Edwerth E. Korte, the Rev. Robert H. Eads, the Rev. Frank W. Montgomery, the Rev. Andrew E. Newcomer, and the Rev. Albert S. Asendorf.

Two students, Garry Norris and Martha Heckman, were nominated to represent students on the board of directors.

Physics Professor To Speak Tonight

Dr. David H. Rank, research professor of physics, will give a talk on "Planetary Atmospheres" at 8:30 tonight in 119 Osmond Laboratory.

The lecture, sponsored by Sigma Xi, science honorary, will follow the annual Sigma Xi initiation banquet to be held at the Nittany Lion Inn at 6:15 p.m. The lecture is open to the public.

A review of the present knowledge of the planetary atmospheres and possible implications of this knowledge with respect to future work will be included in the talk.
