'Connecticut Yankee' Is Very Imaginative Show

By BETTIE LOUX

Not only because of the sheer spectacle of dazzling color and rich effects but for the imaginative script and humable-after-the-show score as well, "A Connecticut Yankee" did Thespians proud last night as they played to the first of their IFC weekend audiences.

Froth Names Kinnaird, Neuweiler

Richard Neuweiler and Laird Kinnaird have been named the co-editors of Froth for the 1952-53 season, Ronald Bonn, present editor, announced yesterday.

Neuweiler, a journalism major, is at present a member of the editorial junior board. Kinnaird, a major in aeronautical engineering, is managing editor.

Joseph Klein, advertising major, was appointed business manager of the new senior board and Thomas Eastland, a major in advertising, was named advertising director. Both are presently members of the advertising junior board. Myron Enelow, commerce and finance major and now serv-

The enthusiasm of the large crowd, which at first simply chuckled to itself, rose quickly to such a pitch that by the middle of the first act each number was getting at least one round of spirited applause.

It was probably with a few misgivings at least that the song-and-dance group tackled a show they had previously spurned as too difficult to attempt. But "Yankee" has turned out to be an example of maximum effort being put forth when sights are set high.

The show was expensive and looks expensive. The 21-man cast, elaborately costumed in wigs, shining helmets, and tinsel-decked robes, might have stepped out of a DeMille extravaganza. Happily its Hollywood glamour, which could have been simply a coverup for an otherwise amateurish show, is not just cake frosting.

Getting off to a rousing start with Isabella Cooper claiming she wants a "night to howl," "Yankee" holds together from the first number to the finish, a ra-

Cabinet Gives OK To Radio Proposal

By DAVE PELLNITZ

After prolonged debate, All-College Cabinet last night went on record as favoring the proposed FM-slave transmitter radio system with the condition that the College committee, which is to look further into the matter, include a qualified engineer who can provide the group with technical data and information with regard to costs.

Chief point of debate during the discussion on the proposed radio plan concerned itself as to whether cabinet should approve the plan without knowing just what costs would be involved in putting it into operation. It was pointed out that no really qualified estimate of such cost had been submitted, and that while cabinet might approve the FM-slave transmitter proposal, full backing could not be extended without first obtaining an accurate estimate of the costs involved.

At the meeting, which was the last for most of the present cabinet representatives, final approval was also given to the amendment to the All-College Constitution which establishes a joint Freshman Customs Board. The group also discussed the matter of how the station would be supported if and when it is established, but it was pointed out that for the present these questions were irrelevant to the proposal on the floor.

Cabinet had last week tabled the proposal to go on record as favoring the system in order that the representatives of men living downtown might discuss the situation with their groups. These men will not initially be covered by the radio set-up.

John Laubach, president of the Association of Independent Men, reported that he had taken the matter up with the Board of Governors of AIM and that the group felt the system as proposed was

Cabinet Approves Budget

By DAVE JONES

All-College Cabinet last night approved its 1952-53 budget calling for expenditures amounting to $11,555. The budget was presented to cabinet by Thomas Jurchak, All-College secretary treasurer.

Jurchak said the budget is based on estimated income which should amount to $11,800. The estimated income would be composed of $9000 from class dues and $2800 from class dances.

In other action, cabinet heard the first reading of a proposed constitutional amendment that would make the president of the Radio Guild a member of the Board of Dramatics and Forensics. The amendment must be read at three cabinet meetings before a vote may be taken.

Cabinet also approved a five-point plan concerning representation to the National Student Association. Under the plan, presented by William Klisanin, NSA chairman, the All-College vice president will automatically be-

Engle to Crown 1952 Ugly Man At Ball Tonight

Rip Engle, head football coach, will crown this year's Ugly Man at intermission of the IFC-Panhel Ball tonight in Recreation Hall.

The Ugly Man will receive a silver key and the group that sponsored him will receive a plaque.

Although the contest was held March 26 to 28, the Ugly Man will not be named until coronation time.

Students voted for their favorite uglies by placing money in designated containers. The Ugly Man will be the contestant with the most money-votes.

Proceeds of the contest, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will go to the Campus Chest. Total income in this year's contest was $292.47, prior to expense deductions.

There were 35 entrants in this year's contest.

181-Car Parking Lot Passed by Trustees

See page two for drawing

Construction of a 181-car parking area west of Beaver Field was approved by the Board of Trustees at its recent meeting at the College.

The lot, which will have approaches from Curtin road and Park avenue, will be built on an area which once was an unpaved service drive to the baseball field. Because of the parking problem, motorists have been using the area as a parking lot, resulting in considerable damage to the fringe of Hort Woods.

According to a statement made by Walter H. Wiegand, director of the physical plant, at last week's meeting of All-College Cabinet, the lot could be completed within four months if construction is begun immediately. He said that both commuting students and staff members would be allotted parking spaces in the new lot.

Wiegand also said plans are being considered to provide more parking space north of the Jordan fertility plots on east campus. He added that the widening of Shortlidge road, which is in front of Simmons and McElwain Halls, to allow short term parking near the dorms is being considered.

Plans for the new area provide for the construction of a 20-foot-wide macadam road along the sidewalk paralleling the fence along Beaver Field, Wiegand said.

According to a report by the Hort Woods management committee, building of the proposed lot will require the removal of only 13 good trees. Of the other trees and shrubbery that will have to be removed, all are either dead or damaged in some way.

All-College Cabinet and the Agriculture Student Council had approved the plan prior to its submission to the trustees.

Jazz Concert to Start IFC Weekend

Interfraternity Council—Pan-hellenic weekend begins this afternoon at 3 p.m. when the doors of Schwab Auditorium will open for the Woody Herman jazz concert.

The concert, beginning at 3:30 p.m., launches the second big weekend of the year. Tickets for the concert are still available at the Student Union desk in Old Main for $1.25 per person.

Charles Weintraub, graduate assistant at the College Weather Station, said yesterday that although it will be cloudy most of today, the weather maps thus far indicate that there will be clear weather with mild temperatures for the rest of the weekend.

Recreation Hall will be the site of the IFC-Panhel Ball tonight from 9 to 1. Woody Herman's 1952 Third Herd will provide the music and entertainment.

The Thespians' "A Connecticut Yankee" will be showing in Schwab Auditorium at 7:30 tonight and tomorrow night and a matinee performance at 2 p.m. tomorrow. Ed Rolf is playing the role of the Yankee. A limited number of tickets, priced at $1.25, are still available for the three performances.

Easter Busses To Be Express

The special busses leaving for Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton, and Reading at 1 p.m. Wednesday are express and will make no stops until they reach their destination, Fred Sawczyn, chairman of the student transportation committee, said yesterday.

Students planning to ride these busses must buy their tickets at the Greyhound Post House by 10 p.m. Tuesday night.

Busses will depart from the parking lot in back of Recreation hall.

'Connecticut Yankee' Tickets Still Available

Tickets are still available for the three remaining performances of the Thespians' musical comedy, "Connecticut Yankee," which opened last night in Schwab Auditorium.

Tickets for the three weekend performances are $1.25. They are on sale at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

PS Farmer Available

The April issue of the Penn State Farmer will be available to Agriculture students today. The issue will contain 20 pages and will feature an article on the feeding of aureomycin to calves.
