STATE COLLEGE, PA., SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 5, 1952

FIVE CENTS

'Ugly Man' Whelan Crowned by Engle

Peter Whelan, eighth semester student in arts and letters, was crowned "Ugly Man of 1952" at intermission of the IFC-Panhel Ball in Recreation Hall last night.

Whelan was presented with a silver key by head football coach Charles A. "Rip" Engle. Phi Kappa Sigma, the group that sponsored Whelan, will receive a plaque.

Before

Alpha Phi Omega, sponsor of the contest, last night turned over the $250.16 contest proceeds to the Campus Chest.

The new Ugly Man also received a kiss from Barbara Klopp, "Miss Penn State."

The Ugly Man contest was held March 26-28 on the Mall at Pollock road.

Whelan won the title by securing the highest total of money-votes cast among 35 contestants. Students contributed $64.62 to Whelan's ugliness. John Albarano was second with $25.24. Other leaders were Edward Shanken, $24.37; John Schwering, $19.55; and Robert Leyburn, $19.44.

Most handsome of the 35 contestants, as far as voting went, was Robert Shultz, who amassed 28 cents. He was close pressed for the honor by Bryson Craine, 31 cents, and Myron Demcio, 33 cents.

College To Provide Fire Funds

The College has agreed to contribute $14,000 to the borough toward the purchase of an aerial ladder fire truck, and has agreed to pay $4000 annually to the borough for fire protection for College property, according to H. K. Hostetter, comptroller.

The annual $4000 payment will be made under the terms of a ten-year agreement which was approved March 28. Of this amount, $3200 will be applied to maintenance and operation of equipment, and $800 will enter a sinking fund.

The agreement also provides that the borough shall maintain in a constant state of readiness the fire fighting equipment which it now owns or which may be purchased later, and shall answer fire alarms received from the College.

Hostetter also explained that negotiations between the College and the borough for construction of a joint sewage disposal plant and the extension of sewage lines in the borough are continuing to make progress.

In announcing completion of the fire protection agreement, Hostetter said that the College is appreciative of the efficient fire protection services rendered by the borough through the Alpha Fire Co. in past years.

Graduation Exercises Set For June 9

Spring semester commencement exercises will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday, June 9, on Beaver Field, President Milton S. Eisenhower announced yesterday.

If weather conditions do not permit the outdoor exercises, two commencement programs will be held in Recreation Hall. The first, at 10:30 p.m., will be held for students in the Schools of Education, Home Economics, Liberal Arts, and Physical Education and Athletics. Students to be graduated in the Schools of Agriculture, Chemistry and Physics, Engineering, and Mineral Industries would receive their degrees at 2 p.m.

Students in the Graduate school will be graduated with the school in which they have majored.

Graduates will receive three tickets for the indoor exercises when they pick up their caps and gowns. No tickets will be needed if the weather is fair and the program is held in Beaver Field.

Hillel Hits Close, Disavows Lecture

Drops Tie With Forum For Monday

See editorial, page four
By RON BONN

The Hillel Foundation yesterday disaffiliated itself from Community Forum sponsorship of Upton Close, on the eve of the controversial speaker's appearance Monday.

Citing Close for attempting "to weaken America through fomenting racial and religious dissension," the statement issued to the Daily Collegian by Hillel yesterday said, "This is one case . . . in which we cannot go along with those who would, on the basis of a doctrine of absolute free speech, give a platform to a person whose past identifications and attitudes would destroy our system of democracy in which free speech (responsible, not absolute) can flourish."

Close, whose scheduled appearance aroused a wave of controversy after the Daily Collegian uncovered his allegedly anti-Semitic background, will speak on "Is It Time for World Government" at 8 p.m. Monday in Schwab Auditorium.

Close was engaged as bonus speaker before the forum executive committee knew of his record. When it was revealed, the committee retained him, primarily on the grounds that to cancel his appearance after he had been contracted for would be an infringement on his freedom of speech, but it emphasized the fact that no forum member or group engaged.

Chapel Choir Will Present Easter Music

The College Chapel Choir, assisted by 39 members of the Symphony Orchestra, will present a special program of Easter music at 10:55 a.m. and 3 p.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

The 110-voice choir will present "O Sacred Head Now Wounded" by Hassler-Bach; "O Vos Omnes," Victoria; "Lamb of God, Our Saviour," from Cantata 23 by Bach; "Jesu Word of God Incarnate," Mozart; and "Stabat Mater," Verdi.

The orchestra alone will present Handel's "Adagio from the Faithful Shepherd"; "Intermezzo from the Seven Last Words of Christ," by Ceiga-Haydn; and "Wilt Now Walk Before the Lord," by Valerius-Kindler.

Three students will assist Chaplain Luther H. Harshbarger in the reading of the Scripture.

Clark Receives White Award

Ralph Clark, senior in mathematics, has been awarded the $600 John W. White Fellowship, Robert L. Weber, chairman of the Senate committee on scholarships and awards, announced yesterday.

Robert Alderdice, senior in arts and letters, was named alternate. The award is given annually to a member of the graduating class who possesses, in the opinion of the committee, "those qualities of ability and personality that will enable him or her to profit best by graduate study at this College or elsewhere under the direction of the president of the College."

Third Herd Sounds off

Parties, Plays To Complete Greek Week

With half of the Interfraternity Council-Panhellenic weekend already gone in the form of the Woody Herman jazz concert yesterday afternoon and the IFC-Panhel Ball last night, weekenders windup their activities today with open houses, parties, and dramatic performances.

Hundreds of students packed Schwab Auditorium yesterday afternoon to hear the 1952 Herman Herd give a jazz concert. Not too long after, many of these same students, and more, tripped the light fantastic at the IFC-Panhel Ball at Recreation Hall. Here again, the Herman Herd provided the music and the entertainment.

Though it was cloudy yesterday, the rain contained itself until late afternoon. However, College Weather Station officials predicted continued rain for this morning, probably until noon. This afternoon is predicted to be a windy and cloudy one in State College. It is expected that it will clear up by evening, and tomorrow's weather will be cool and (Continued on page eight)

PSCA Ends Store Project At 9 Tonight

Today is the final day for the Penn State Christian Association to operate College Sportswear, Inc.

PSCA took over the store last Monday at the suggestion of owner John Baldwin to make money for the PSCA treasury. The organization will get ten per cent of the gross sales made during the week.

Approximately 100 students, members and supporters of the PSCA, and members of Alpha Phi Omega, service honorary, worked in the store during some of their free hours. The store will be open today from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

David Bain is general chairman of the project, assisted by Doris Price, personnel manager; Elizabeth Byrem, poster committee chairman; and William Griffith, publicity chairman.

This is the second year that the PSCA has undertaken the project to raise money for its treasury.

Baldwin will give a party or picnic later in the spring for the students who helped with the project.

Tuesday Is Miss Penn State Deadline

Noon Tuesday is the deadline for submitting entries for the 1952 Miss Penn State contest.

Any undergraduate coed sponsored by a campus organization is eligible to enter the contest. All entries must be five-by-seven-inch portraits, submitted with the following information: name of the contestant, curriculum, age, height, hometown address, College address, and name of the organization sponsoring the contestant.

According to James Geffert, Spring Week chairman, the portraits will be sent Wednesday to Don Taylor, Hollywood star and a '42 College graduate, who will pick the five finalists for the contest. Geffert said that there was a 50-50 chance that Taylor would be present for the final judging of the contest.

Miss Penn State will be crowned May 12 in a special ceremony in Schwab Auditorium, and will reign as queen over the ensuing Spring Week activities. Barbara Klopp, Miss Penn State of 1951, will crown the new queen.

For the first time there will also be a king of Spring Week. He will be the winner of the Herman contest which will be held on the lacrosse field the evening of May 13.

Deadline for entries in the contest is April 26. Any undergraduate male is eligible for entry providing he is sponsored by a campus organization. The field events in the contest will include sack races, a greased pig chase, and a pole-climb.

Early in May a semi-formal round of eliminations will be held to cut down to about 15 the number of contestants in the final eliminations. The semi-final will be a type of I. Q. test.

Harry Cover, former All-College vice president, will provide a running commentary of the events, which will be a burlesque of the jousts of the feudal days and the carnival field events of Scotland. James Schulte is in charge of the events.

As an added incentive to increase the Miss Penn State contest entries, Geffert announced that the five finalists chosen by Taylor will be entered in a national contest to discover the girl who best personifies the "fresh, young, natural American look."

Winner of the contest, which is being conducted by Max Factor & Co., will be crowned "The Max Factor Girl." She will be awarded many prizes, including a $1000 scholarship, an all-expense-paid one-week summer vacation trip for two persons to Hollywood, a 17-jewel diamond-and-gold wrist watch, a three-piece set of luggage, a portable record player, and a table model radio.
