

Troops Survive A-Blast

ATOM BOMB SITE, Nev., April 22—(AP)—An atom bomb, its searing heat and blast of unusual ferocity, was exploded today as 1500 troops huddled in foxholes along an Atomic warfare "battlefront."

The soldiers were unhurt by the mighty explosion, proving that foxholes can shelter men from even the world's most destructive weapon. Seconds after the explosion of the bomb, dropped from a B-50 and detonated at 3500 feet only about 3 1/2 miles from the troops, the soldiers and the generals who were with them stood up and laughed.

These men were nearer than any human had been, except in heavy concrete bunkers—and except for the people of Hiroshima and Nagasaki who saw the bomb closer and died.

Lt. Gen. Joseph M. Swing, one of three generals in the foxholes, was flown back to the observers' post to report. He said:

"The young men were laughing and cracking jokes. They are confident that ordinary fortification can protect them."

Swing, Sixth Army commander, his coveralls gray with the dust that blanketed the troops in a tremendous cloud as the explosion hammered the desert floor, said that "the worst that most of us got was a mouthful of dirt."

There is no place in Denmark which is more than 506 feet above sea level.

Ask Truman Impeachment

WASHINGTON, April 22—(AP)—Senatorial critics of President Truman's seizure of the steel industry failed by a narrow margin today in a move to deprive him entirely of federal funds to operate the mills.

In the house, meanwhile, a resolution was introduced to impeach him for the seizure. There were predictions it probably never would come to a House vote.

But the Senate banking committee launched a move which may exert more pressure on the administration. It voted to investigate government handling of the steel dispute—and to hold up action meantime on a bill to extend the wage-price controls program.

There are over 250,000 ostriches now grown in Cape Colony, Africa for their plumes alone.

The World At a Glance

WASHINGTON, April 22—(AP)—The National Science Foundation announced today grants totalling $406,660 for research in biological and physical sciences. The institutions at which the work will be conducted, the director of each project and amount of grants, include: Pennsylvania State College, Dr. Arthur H. Waynick, $12,800.

JACKSON, Mich., April 22—(AP)—Quarreling mutineers purged their ranks of dissenters tonight in a grim-siege at riot-torn Southern Michigan prison.

Six convicts, apparently wavering in the mutiny that began Sunday night, were thrown out of cellblock 15. This is the disciplinary block where 173 diehards are making their last stand.

RAHWAY, N.J., April 22—(AP)—A haggard band of 231 convicts—their defiance dissipated to meekness—today ended a five-day revolt at Rahway state prison farm and freed unharmed eight guards held as hostages.
