College Employees Ease Strike Threat

By JIM GROMILLER

The threat of a strike by College service employees was greatly eased last night when the union acknowledged that considerable progress had been made and agreed to continue negotiations with the College.

The union passed up strike action after Robert A. Callahan, state union representative, reported that four of the five union demands had been satisfactorily met and that the fifth was in the process of negotiation.

The College has accepted the union's steward program and agreed to certain individual grievances, Callahan said. Others were withdrawn or considered unfounded by the grievance committee, he said.

The special meeting of the union had been set a month ago after union members voted to postpone strike action in order to permit the College Board of Trustees to discuss the five point demands.

Later the College agreed to a union suggestion that grievances be heard on a group basis, and grievance meetings on a departmental basis have been in progress for some time.

The major factor in the list of union demands, the wage equalization issue, has not been satisfied, but the report to the union membership indicated that some agreement on that point with College officials might be expected.

The action by the union came after Callahan asked that the College be given a chance. He indicated that a great number of grievances had been withdrawn at the last minute, and these, he said, consumed considerable time in investigation on the part of the grievance committee.

The union is local 67 of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFL).

Students must bring admission tickets which were mailed to applicants from the Educational Testing Service, Dr. Davidson said. In addition, he said, students should bring a Selective Service form 110, classification; 391, identification; or SS document, and a pen or pencil.

Students who miss classes to take the examination may obtain excuses at the Dean of Men's office tomorrow.

Police Arrest Six for Racing

Six students were arrested Tuesday night by state police for blocking off a state highway and attempting to race hot rods on it.

From 300 to 500 spectators witnessed the racing of about ten cars in time trials and competition on the road near the College flower gardens. Members of the campus patrol tried to break up the crowd, but were ignored, according to Cpl. George W. Finnin, of the Pleasant Gap state police sub-station.

When students attempted to race Monday night the police also broke up the crowd. While some students were racing, others were putting on "Hollywood mufflers."

The students will probably lose their licenses for 90 days or six months, depending on previous records, Finnin said.

Blood Drive Hits Quota; 200 Sign, More Refused

The present campus blood drive reached its quota of 200 yesterday, and more volunteers had to be turned away, according to Ted Allen, campus Red Cross representative.

Ronald Zimmerman, second-semester commerce and finance student, and Donald Ludwig, sixth-semester electrical engineering student, and a faculty member, Ray Conger, associate professor of physical education, aided the drive, Allen said.

Zimmerman campaigned for the drive at the Mall from his car. Allen said that within an hour Zimmerman had signed up about 30 persons. Ludwig campaigned in the East dormitories, while Conger pushed the drive in the classroom.

Allen said that the chapter was sorry to turn down the extra volunteers. However, the Blood-

2250, 24%, Cast Ballots Despite Rain

By DAVE PELLNITZ

Despite bad weather, an estimated record of 2250 students cast ballots yesterday for All-College, senior class, junior class, and Athletic Association officers in the 1952 All-College elections.

The vote, the largest first-day balloting in the history of Penn State, represented almost 24 per cent of the students eligible to vote. A total of 9367 are eligible to cast ballots.

The ballot boxes will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today in the lounge on the second floor of Old Main.

About 1420 votes are needed to break the all-time record of 3671 set in 1950.

Ballots will be counted after the polls close tonight, Carrol Chapman, chairman of the elections committee, said yesterday.

Chapman said he was "very pleased" with the large turnout, and said he hoped to see a new record set. He pointed out that the larger the vote cast, the more representative student government would be next year.

Those eligible to vote for: All-College officers—all students.

Senior class officers—sixth and seventh-semester students. Junior class officers—fourth and fifth-semester students.

Athletic Association officers—all male students.

Matriculation cards must be presented before a student may vote.

Party leaders also expressed pleasure at the large vote. Ray Evert, Lion Party chairman, said he hoped at least 50 per cent of the students would vote, adding that such a percentage should not be difficult to attain in a community the size of the College.

Thomas Farrell, State Party clique chairman, also said the sound truck used by the elections committee to encourage the students to vote was an important factor in the large turn-out. The elections committee said yesterday that the sound equipment would be used only during the (Continued on page eight)

Schott was given a wallet. Last year Charles Speidel, wrestling coach, received the award.

Also present when the award was made were Walter Hall, vice president of Blue Key, Nathaniel Hamilton, secretary treasurer; and William Shomberg.
