

Penn State Faces Tough Rutgers Nine Tomorrow

By JIM PETERS

Rutgers University will invade Beaver Field tomorrow to do battle with Coach Joe Bedenk's unbeaten Lion diamondmen. The Lions then will face a heavy four-game card away from home next week.

The Scarlet, coached by the former base-stealing champion of the Washington Senators, George Case, will bring a veteran team headed by catcher Jim Monaghan. Last year, Monaghan played right field and batted in the clean-up slot for Rutgers, but was switched to backstop duties this spring.

Other returning players who saw action against the Lions last year when State edged its way to a 2-1 win are first baseman Chris Tussis, shortstop Bob Koperwhatz, third sacker Rudy Scanvel, and centerfielder Ted McDonough.

Foster Starting Hurler

Case will probably use newcomers Vince Abbatiello at second, Walter Porter in right, and Larry Valis in left field. Valis is considered the club's top clutch hitter.

Tom Foster, who finished with a 4-1 slate last season, will head the Scarlet's mound crew.

Case is in his third season as head mentor of the Rutgers nine, and in his first two seasons came up with winning teams. In 1950, the Scarlet had a 20-6 record which won them the NCAA District 2 championship, and later finished runners-up in the NCAA World Series. Last year, the Casemen compiled a 15-8 record.

Vesling May Hurl

Since Case took over the helm in 1950, Rutgers has been known nationally as a definite team threat in the base-stealing department, having pilfered an amazing total of 158 bases in two seasons of play, or a little better than three stolen bases per game.

Bedenk said yesterday that he would like to use sophomore hurler Keith Vesling against Rutgers if it could work out that the young fireballer would be ready again by Tuesday for the annual game with Navy at Annapolis, Md. Should Vesling hurl tomorrow, Bill Everson would probably be Bedenk's choice for the important Villanova game Monday.

Reporters Face Double Trouble

Sports reporters covering the Northeastern College, Mass., baseball games have to be extremely careful about whom they are writing. Northeastern has two pitchers who are identical twins Donald and Ronald Eason.

One wears the numbers 23 and the other 32, to add to the confusion. Their battery mate can't tell them apart until Donald picks up his glove. It is reputed that Donald is the southpaw.

IM Track To Begin May 20

The 1952 intramural track events will begin May 20, the intramural department announced today. Three field events and three running events will make up this year's competition.

In the running events, the 100 yd. dash, 440 yd. dash and the 880 yd. relay (four men to run 220 yds. each) will be featured, while the high jump, broad jump, and shot put will make up the field events.

Entries are open to both fraternity and independent teams, and separate groups. Independent students need not be members of a team, but may enter one or more events as unattached individuals.

Trial heats for the running events will be run Tuesday May 20. The six lowest times recorded in the trials will qualify for the finals which will be run May 22. The field events are scheduled for May 21. The first five places in the finals will be scored.

All entries for the events must be turned in at the intramural office in Rec Hall by Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. Contestants entering in the running events are required to enter themselves personally by calling at the intramural office. These entrants are required to take physicals. Physicals may be taken in the Dispensary from Monday to May 16. Officials have asked that entrants take their examinations early to prevent a last minute rush in the Dispensary.

One major change marks this year's event. Contestants this year will throw a 16 lb. regulation college shot instead of the 12 lb. shot which was formerly used.

7 Win in Frat IM Handball

Seven fraternities posted victories Tuesday night to move into the third round of intramural handball.

Ken Newman-Joe Ryniewicz, Phi Kappa, defeated Joe Gratson-Bud Wolfram, Phi Kappa Psi, 21-13, 21-15, while Charles Teller-John Mattie, Sigma Phi Sigma, edged Bob Veit-Dick Blythe, Pi Kappa Phi, 21-7, 17-21, 21-16.

Lloyd Lupfer-Stan Engle, Alpha Chi Sigma, trounced Cushner-Weisman, Sigma Alpha Mu, 21-0, 21-2. Losing their first match 12-21, Jim Pickett-Ken Minchin, Phi Delta Theta, made a strong comeback to defeat Jim Dooley-Patsy Ferrito, Sigma Phi Epsilon, 21-6, 21-14.

Dick Colodi-Dean Harbold, Delta Upsilon, won easily from Frengle-Resh, Lambda Chi Alpha, 21-4, 21-5. Emerson Knyrim-Ed True, Delta Chi, beat Cole-Grove, Alpha Zeta, 21-13, 21-12.

Joe Policastro-Bob Goodell, TKE, went three matches before defeating Koons-Clark, Sigma Pi, 21-15, 18-21, 21-16. The only forfeit of the evening was gained by Tony Pinnie-Ilvio Dal Farra, Alpha Phi Delta.

Between the Lions

What do you have when you add 15 days, two lettermen, and the weather together? The result is an inexperienced golf team! This lack of experience is the problem Coach Bob Rutherford faces as the 1952 Penn State golf campaign gets under way.

The season didn't begin until April 14 when the golf course was opened, and that left only 15 days before the opening match against the Gettysburg Bullets yesterday. And when you subtract most of those days because of the weather, that didn't leave much time for the golfers to get in shape.

Most of the other teams have already played several matches. Gettysburg's season opened some four weeks ago and they had already played six games before they met the Lions.

Of course they aren't hampered as much by the rain as the Lions are. The remainder of the opposition will have already hit its stride when the Eastern Intercollegiates roll around on May 10-12, whereas the Lions will have just begun to work the kinks out of their muscles.

And while we're on the subject of the Intercollegiates, it seems like a funny time of the season to have them. In most of the other sports the schedule ends with tournament play. Basketball has its NCAA and NIT and football has the bowl games to look forward to. But in golf the tournament comes as sort of an anti-climax. Too bad it can't be moved up to the end of the season too as a windup.

Only two men returned from last year's team, Hud Samson and Captain Bob Bowers. This meant that Coach Bob Rutherford had to fill five vacancies with inexperienced men. A third letterman, John Wylie, was expected back but was lost for the rest of the season when he twisted his knee playing handball.

But it's not all "thorns" for Rutherford. He can always look to the fact that of the 13 men the team has been cut to, 11 will be back next year. There are five freshmen, two sophomores, and four juniors among the present members. This means the team next year should be all veterans, and experience means a lot when it comes to a winning team.

Maybe we ought to emphasize the phrase, "should be all veterans," for with the draft being the way it is, one can ever tell.

Although most of the team hasn't had experience in college competition, several of the members have had considerable experience either here or on other courses. For example, Bill Albert took top honors last year when he won the fraternity medal play and the all-College tourney, and sophomore Rod Eaken was PIAA golf champion in '48.

The Gettysburg match yesterday was canceled because of rain. It looks as if "Old Man" weather has something against State. First the tennis team had two games called off and now the golf team. Let's hope this doesn't become a habit. Now we'll have to wait till Saturday's match with Cornell to see what our "green team" can do.

Baseball Parade

As they say in Brooklyn, "de woim has toined." The formerly pitiful St. Louis Browns split a double header with the formerly mighty Yankees, taking the opener 9-4. The Yanks came back in the second one, 4-1.

In a complete reversal of form, the Browns unleashed a 13-hit attack in the first game, five of them off Vic Raschi, who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the second.

Bob Cain was aided to his third victory against no defeats by archaic Satchel Paige who extinguished a Yank threat in the seventh and pitched one-hit ball from there on.

Allie Reynolds put the Indian sign on Hornsby's charges in the second game, allowing four hits.

Branch Rickey's rookie-laden Pittsburgh Pirates finally broke out of the worst major league slump of the season by clubbing the Braves 11-5.

Even so, the feeble Pirate mound corps gave up three homers. Murry Dickson won his first victory after three losses, but Ted Wilks had to come in to rescue him from a five-hit Tribe attack.

The Braves' pitching was even worse. Dave Cole, who started, was derricked in the fifth with bases loaded and none out after he had walked eight. Ernie Johnson came in to give up five runs in that same inning.

The New York Giants, who aren't doing so well as they did at the end, nor as badly as they did at the beginning of last season, chalked up a 4-1 victory over Cincinnati.

Larry Jansen hurled a neat three-hitter and was aided by the four straight hits of Rookie Second Sacker Davey Williams.

The lone Red run came on a 390-foot circuit drive by Hank Edwards in the fifth.

Ted Williams said goodbye to baseball with a game-winning two-run homer to give the Red

Sox a 5-3 win over the hapless Detroit Tigers.

Williams, who leaves today to rejoin the Marine flyers, made his first appearance in the starting lineup since he pulled a leg muscle in the opener in Washington.

Mel Parnell got his third win of the season, and Dizzy Trout took the loss.

The fast-moving Chicago Cubs jumped into runner up spot in the Senior Circuit by squeaking past the Phillies, 9-8.

Bob Addis, ex-Dodger chattel, doubled in the twelfth with two out to score another ex-Dodger, Bob Ramazzotti, with the game-breaking run.
