

Johnson, Peterson To Vie in Elections

Elizabeth Johnson and Vivian Peterson will compete for the presidency of Leonides, independent women's organization, in elections tomorrow.

All independent women are eligible to vote from 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. tomorrow, with the exception of the dinner hour, in all dormitory lobbies except Grange Dorm. Women living in Grange, home management houses, and in town will vote in McAllister Hall.

Susan Crumley and Hilda Hoggland are the candidates for vice president; Guyla Woodward and Eleanor Weary, recording secretary; Patricia Shaffer and Gertrude Kreider, corresponding secretary; and Marilyn McComb and Susan Gingrich, treasurer.

This is the second year that all independent women are able to vote in the elections since they were previously restricted to council members. Edna Baylson, retiring president, said that she hopes all eligible coeds will take advantage of their voting opportunity.

Posters containing pictures of candidates will be placed at all polling places. Door to door campaigning is forbidden by the elections code adopted by the council, and posters in the dormitories are limited to bulletin boards.

AIM to Sponsor Starlight Dance

The Association of Independent Men will sponsor the Spring Week starlight dance following the finals in the Mad-Hatter's Day contest at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow. The AIM houseparty will be held in the main lounge of the West Dormitories from 9 to 12 p.m. Saturday.

Jim Erb's orchestra will play for both affairs. The AIM houseparty will be open and no admission will be charged.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Oswalt of Butler have announced the engagement of their daughter, Joada, to Lieut. Dale Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Justice Campbell of Lancaster.

Miss Oswalt is a senior in speech and dramatics and is a member of Delta Gamma sorority.

Lieut. Campbell was graduated from the College last June and is now stationed at Vance Air Force Base, Enid, Okla. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha.

Enoch-McDowell

Mrs. A. S. McDowell of Reading has announced the engagement of her grand-daughter, Margaret, to Frederick Enoch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Enoch of Reading.

Miss McDowell was graduated from the College in February and is now a teacher in the Reading school district.

Mr. Enoch is a senior in electrical engineering and a member of Triangle.

Kappa Sigma

Newly elected officers of Kappa Sigma are Joseph Simone, president; Joseph Henry, vice president; Joseph Jackson, grand master of ceremonies; Thomas Dunbar, secretary; and Thomas Goldsworthy, treasurer.

Special Room Selection Set

Women students who will be student teaching or living in home management houses during the fall semester will draw numbers for room selection from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 5 p.m. tomorrow in 105 Old Main.

Mrs. Cordelia L. Hibbs, assistant to the dean of women, announced that room selection for seventh, sixth, and fifth semester women will be from 6:30 to 7 p.m. tomorrow in the Dean of Women's office. Fourth semester women will choose rooms from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

Room arrangements in sorority suites for student teachers and those living in the home management houses for an eight-week period should have been made by sorority presidents, Mrs. Hibbs said. She requested that any difficulties or questions pertaining to those living in the suites be brought to her tomorrow.

PI Receives Third Successive Award

The Department of Public Information has been cited for the third successive year for distinguished achievement by the American College Public Relations Association.

The association, which sponsors a competition annually to determine outstanding achievements in public relations, has also given the Public Information department a second place certificate for the treatment given to a "sports project for improved public relations."

The prize-winning effort detailed the promotion through the press and Beaver Field Pictorial of "Band Day" which was a football Saturday event instituted at the College two years ago.

Senior Women Offered Commissions in WAC

The deadline for senior women to submit applications for commissions in the Women's Army Corps has been extended to May 30, according to the U.S. recruiting station in Altoona.

Applications may be obtained from the Dean of Women, professors of military science and tactics, or the WAC/WAF section, U.S. Army and U.S. Air Force Recruiting Station, Altoona.

Women who are accepted will be commissioned as second lieutenants in the Reserve Corps and will be called to active duty Aug. 8 to attend the WAC company officer's course at Fort Lee, Va. After completing four months of training, they will be commissioned as second lieutenants in the regular Army and will be assigned to active duty with a WAC unit.

Applicants must be between the ages of 21 and 27, American citizens, unmarried, and have no dependents under 18 years of age. They must also be physically fit and of good moral character. Applicants may not be, or have been, members of a subversive organization.

Women accepted for commissions will receive pay from $255.75 to $315.75 monthly as well as medical and dental care, $10,000 free insurance and 30 days paid vacation each year. An allowance of $250 is given to officers to purchase uniforms.

Men Invade Dorms 2d Time

By HELEN LUYBEN

For the second time this spring, men invaded the women's dormitories. But this time it was all legal and orderly, as Mother's Day opened up seven women's dorms to fond parents and friends.

Housemothers reported no damage after the open houses and teas held from 2 to 3 p.m. Saturday. Most of the guests seemed to fall in love with the idea of being in a women's dormitory and were reluctant to leave when Old Main struck three.

Or perhaps it was the rain. At any rate, an hour after the open house was officially closed again, a gentleman walked nonchalantly down from the third floor of Atherton with his wife and daughter.

At 3 p.m. hostesses walked through the halls bemoaning the fact that they didn't know if all the men were out of the buildings.

Most of the men looked flustered to be found walking through the halls. Some, dressed in jeans and old jackets, eyed the kitchen, where punch and dainty cookies tempted them, but seemed embarrassed to go down to the teas in the lounges.

One spectator, a waiter, looked happy to be seeing more than the dining room of a women's dormitory at last.

It was funny to see a well-known Penn. State athlete calling for his girl at her room, and especially when said girl's mother opened the door to him. It was almost like "way back home."

The mother's reaction followed this general pattern: "I notice you cleaned your room, but I bet you don't have it this way all the time." Father would have been content to lie down on a bed somewhere and just stay there 'til the whole affair was over.

Little Brother and Boyfriend went for the splashy, cluttered bulletin boards in the rooms and the punch and cookies in that order.

One coed's father got to a ringing phone before she did, only to hear a surprised masculine voice ask for his daughter. Said father, "I bet that young man was wondering who I was answering your phone."

At 4 p.m., as lace tablecloths were snatched from tea tables and coeds washed the last stack of teacups, housemothers sank into deep chairs and the whole dormitory heaved a sigh of relief for another year.

COMPLETE is the Word

The school year isn't complete without Miss Penn State's coronation, the carnival, and Spring Week . . .

"and a coed's outfit isn't complete without the right make-up plus the right perfume to give her that 'finished' look," says Marlene Heyman, president of Pan Hellenic Council.

And Marlene knows that McLANAHAN'S is the store that will help you attain that finished, complete look.

Not only does McLANAHAN'S have the largest, most complete cosmetic counter in State College, but there are experienced clerks to aid you in choosing the right make-up . . . for the "complete" look you desire.
