

Champion Showman Award

G. W. SLOCUM, left, of the Dairymen's League, presents the Grand Champion Showman Cup to Edgar Fehnel as Charles Brosius, manager of the 27th annual Dairy Exposition, looks on.

14 Receive First Awards In Dairy Livestock Show

Fourteen students won first places in the 27th annual Dairy Exposition held Saturday at the Livestock Pavilion. The show, sponsored by the Dairy Science Club, featured the fitting and showing of five classes of livestock.

Winners of the fitting contest were Howard Seymour, Brown Swiss; Norman Summers, Jersey; Harry Douth, Holstein; John Sarikianos, Guernsey; and Donald Taylor, Hershire. The grand champion fitter was John Sarikianos. Reserve grand champion fitter was Harry Douth.

Grand champion of the showing division was Edgar Fehnel, and Harry Roth placed as reserve champion showman. Other winning showmen were Norman Fischer, Brown Swiss; Summers, Jersey; Fehnel, Holstein; Sarikianos, Guernsey; and Robert Miller, Hershire.

The manufacturing division of the Dairy Exposition took place on Friday. In the ice cream and milk judging contest there were seven winners. Winners in the amateur division were Sarikianos, milk; and Edward Reinsel, ice cream. Robert Jenson, milk; Leslie Shallenberger, ice cream; Earl Rumberger, sweepstakes; and William Hershey, ice cream mold; were winners in the professional division of the contest.

The dairy cattle judging contest, also part of the Dairy Exposition, took place May 3. Taking first, second, and third prizes in the amateur division were James Hall, William Phipps, and Donald Cope. Fehnel took first place in the professional division, with William Crawford and Roth winning second and third prizes respectively.

Vice-dean Russel B. Dickerson was winner of the professor's milking contest. Dickerson was also winner in 1950.

Charles Windsor was given the Breed Manager's Award of five dollars for outstanding work done in preparation for the show.
