

Counselor Jobs Open to Seniors

Students who will be seniors next year may apply for positions as assistant resident dormitory counselors, the Dean of Men's office announced yesterday.

The use of seniors as counselors is an experiment and only six will be chosen for the first year. Students who will be in their seventh semester this fall may apply if they have at least a .15 All-College average and provided they are willing to forego or resign election or appointment to any campus political office.

Counselors will be allowed to be members of and hold offices in honoraries and professional societies, but may not hold All-College or dormitory council positions.

Applications may be obtained in the Dean of Men's Office, 109 Old Main, and must be returned by May 22.

Students selected to be counselors will be notified before the end of this semester. They will be exempted from fees to the amount of $110.

The positions are open to anyone who has leadership abilities. Assistant counselors will not be responsible for the discipline in their dormitories but will be expected to stimulate interest in student government and activities. The positions are not restricted to persons living in dormitories, but are open to dormitory, town, and fraternity students.

Tentative plans call for this plan to be tried in McKee Hall and four of the Nittany dormitories. Three senior counselors will be under the supervision of one graduate counselor, who will be responsible for disciplinary matters. In McKee, each of the senior counselors will live in a floor suite and will be supervised by a graduate counselor living in the dormitory. In Nittany, four dormitories will be grouped together with a graduate counselor in one dormitory and assistant counselors in the other three.

Ag Open House Guides To Meet for Instructions

Volunteer guides for the School of Agriculture Open House on May 22 will meet at 2 p.m. today and tomorrow and at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Stock Pavilion.

They will receive instructions from J. Keith Thornton, associate professor of farm crops and superintendent of the department of farm operations and service.

Carnival Crowds Promised Rain Before Nightfall

The College Weather Station has come through in the old Penn State tradition, predicting rain for the carnival today. Showers are predicted for just about the time the carnival booths open up for their biggest crowds.

Charles Hosler, of the weather station, said the morning's weather will be good and fair, becoming cloudy in the afternoon, with showers starting sometime before nightfall.

"It won't snow, though," Hosler said yesterday. He added, "People should have more flexible schedules to go with the weather."

Classes have been canceled for the day, which has been declared the official Spring Holiday. They will resume at 8 a.m. tomorrow.

Spring Concert Will Feature Three Soloists

A presentation of the Beethoven "Triple Concerto" will highlight the College Symphony Orchestra program to be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday in Schwab Auditorium. Theodore K. Karhan, director of the orchestra, announced.

The concerto, seldom heard because of the prohibitive cost of the three necessary soloists, will be presented by Ruth McNitt, junior in music education, playing the piano; Barbara Thomas, a special student in music, playing the violin; and John Swartz, a senior in music education, playing the violoncello.

The program will also include the performance of Tchaikowsky's own arrangement of his "Swan Lake Ballet" in the form of an orchestral suite, excerpts from Wagner's "Parsifal," "Walk to Paradise Garden" (Delius), and Brahms' "Academic Festival Overture."

Late Hours Granted

All upperclasswomen will have 12 o'clock permissions and all first semester women, 11 o'clocks for the carnival tonight. The permissions were granted by the Women's Student Government Association Senate.

Sauer Named Head Of Phys Department

Dr. John A. Sauer, professor and head of the Department of Engineering Mechanics, has been named head of the Department of Physics by President Milton S. Eisenhower. The appointment will follow Sauer's return from a ten-month sabbatical leave.

Sauer will fill the vacancy that resulted when Dr. Harold K. Schilling was appointed dean of the Graduate School in 1950. Sauer will relieve Dr. David C. Duncan, professor of Physics, who has been acting as head of the department.

During his leave, Sauer will travel to Europe and will present a technical paper before the Eighth International Congress of Applied Mechanics at Istanbul, Turkey. He will then study at the University of Copenhagen in Denmark and the University of Oxford in England.

Authorized 15 Papers

Sauer has been a member of the Penn State faculty since 1945. Before coming to the College he taught at Union County Junior College, Rutgers University, Carnegie Institute of Technology, and The University of Pittsburgh. He came to Penn State as professor and head of the Department of Engineering Mechanics and from 1950 to 1952 he served as acting head of the Department of Aeronautical Engineering.

Member of Sigma Xi

A native of Elizabeth, N.J., Sauer received his Bachelor of Science degree in mechanics at Rutgers University, and a doctor of philosophy degree in mathematical physics from Cambridge University. He also has done graduate work at Harvard University.

Sauer is a member of Sigma Xi, graduate scientific society; Sigma Pi Sigma, physics honorary; Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary; American Physical Society; American Association for the Advancement of Science; and American Association for Engineering Education.

New Physics Head

Dr. John A. Sauer

Six Frizzell Finalists Pick Speech Topics

Topics for the final rounds of the John Henry Frizzell Extempore Speaking Contest, sponsored annually by the Department of Speech, have been chosen by the contestants, Clayton H. Schug, chairman of the contest committee, said yesterday.

Those competing and their topics are Sally Lowry, "The Army Life of an Army Wife;" Mary Yandow, "The Importance of the Insignificant;" Susan Holtzinger, "David or Goliath?" Shirley Gallagher, "Are You a Dependant?" Eugene Kolber, "A Living Lie;" and David Lewis, "The Terrible Burden of Destiny."

The finals of the contest will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in 10 Sparks. Judges for the contest will be members of the Speech department.

Each contestant will speak from eight to ten minutes without notes.

First prize in the contest is the Pennsylvania State College prize of $50 and the John Henry Frizzell award of merit in extempore speaking. Second place winner will receive the Forensic Council prize of $25 and the John Henry Frizzell award of merit.

College to Host Press Meeting

"Press Freedom at the Local Level" is the theme of the annual Pennsylvania Press Conference to be held tomorrow and Saturday at the College.

Sponsors of the conference are the Pennsylvania Society of Newspaper Editors, Pennsylvania Women's Press Association, Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association, and the Department of Journalism.

Three students have received awards in the semi-annual advertising layout contest sponsored by the PNPA, Theodore A. Serrill, general manager, announced.

Recipients of the awards this semester are Ernest Schomberger, first award of $15; Mary Elizabeth Gassner, second award of $10; and Margaret Becht, third award of $5.

62 Tapped By Junior Hat Groups

Androcles and Blue Key, junior men's hat societies, yesterday announced the tapping of 62 sophomore men. Richard Rostmeyer, president of Androcles, announced that his organization has tapped 35, and Arthur Rosfeld, head of Blue Key, has named 27 tappers.

Tapped by Blue Key were Thomas Anderson, Ronald Angerman, John Baffa, Theodore Browne, Jack C. Diehl, David Fishburn, John Flanagan, Charles Gibbs, Richard Gibbs, George Greer, Richard Grossman, Donald Herbein, Clifford Holgate, Harold Irvin, Michael Jordan, Jerry Kintigh, Edwin Kohn, Jr., William Musser, Franklin W. Reese, Harry Shank, George Richards, Gail Shaver, Kenneth Shearer, Harry Solomon, Bruce Wagner, Jack White, and Ronald Wint.

Androcles selections include David Arnold, Robert Brooks, Samuel Butler, Richard E. Call, Robert Carruthers, Robert Chamberlain, James DeVoe, Bernard Dillon, Marshall Donley, Myron Enelow, Thomas Farrell, Fury Feraco, Gerald Foreman, Herman Golomb, Philip Greenberg, Warren Hafner, James Hand, David Heckel, Ronald Isenberg, Andrew Jaros, Richard Kirschner, Donald Lauck, Arnold Leider, Richard Lemyre, Ronald Lench, Mark Loevner, Charles Mathias, Charles McClintock, Charles Obertance, Thomas Pyle, Arnold Roseberg, Fred Sawczyn, Rodney Stegall, Burton Triester, and Kenneth White.

Rosfeld and Rostmeyer both asked members of their respective groups to wear their hats during Spring Week activities. The two societies will operate refreshment booths at the Spring Carnival as part of the new members' pledge duties.

Navy to Offer Flight Training

Officer candidates in the United States Naval Academy, Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps, Officers Candidate School, and Reserve Officers Corps may now, for the first time, apply for flight training before they receive their commissions.

Actual training, however, will not begin until after acceptance of the commission, Lt. Cmdr. Raymond S. Osterhoudt announced yesterday.

This plan will enable the student to get his name in early for flight training, Osterhoudt said. It will eliminate the possibility of the student being sent to a first duty station for a long time while his application goes through channels.

Many inquiries have been made in the past concerning the possibility of NROTC graduates acquiring flight training, Osterhoudt added. Seniors who are interested are asked to contact Osterhoudt without delay.

2 Coeds Will Read On Radio Tonight

Betty Lou Morgan and Joada Oswald will be featured on "Thursday at Eight" tonight on WMAJ.

Miss Oswald will read cuttings from "The Shadow of a Girl," a Harper's prize story by E. B. Ashton. Miss Morgan will read from Maxwell Anderson's "Ann of a Thousand Days."

Others participating in the show are Patricia Hathaway, director; Diana Koppelman, sound and music; and John Henry, engineer.

'Voice' to Broadcast Prof, Student Talks

By HELEN LUYBEN

When the Voice of America broadcasts a program, "America Calling the Philippines," May 31, the voices of a professor and an agronomy student at Penn State will be heard, tape-recorded from a room in the Agriculture building.

Prof. Paul H. Margolf and Paul Krause will tell the story of Boyd Bell, a 1940 graduate of Penn State, now at Silliman University, Dumaguete, Philippine Islands.

Bell's story started back in 1948 when he was working as field representative for a farmer's purchasing cooperative in State College. That year Bell attended the College's Religion in Life Week meetings and was inspired to become an agricultural missionary.

Poultry Department Helps
This led him eventually to Silliman University. Bell is now dean of the Agriculture department there, teaches, does extension work among the farmers, and conducts research.

Shortly after arriving in the Philippines Bell wrote to a church here asking for a ton of fertilizer. The church sent $150 worth of fertilizer and several small hand tools that could be used by the primitive Filipinos.

Last fall the Poultry Husbandry department also decided to help Silliman. Professor Margolf, whose voice is heard on the broadcast, explained in an interview how Penn State entered into the picture.

All Ag Hill got interested in helping out, he said. With the profits of the Ag Hill Party, sponsored by the student council and 17 clubs of the agriculture school, Penn State was able to purchase a small incubator, an oil burning brooder, and other poultry equipment. Eggs or day-old chicks will be sent by air to Bell in the Philippines from Hawaii University.

Farmers Eat Everything
The project doesn't stop with poultry. Paul Krause will explain on the Voice broadcast the work being done by Penn State students. Grain and legume seeds have been sent to Silliman by the Clover Club, and the Horticulture Club is sending vegetable seeds. Library and textbooks are being assembled by the agricultural economics students.

Bell reported from Silliman that producing enough food for people to live on, let alone producing a surplus for animals, is a huge task. He said the Filipino farmers "eat everything but the squeal of the pig."

Aid Program Forming
In a letter to Professor Margolf, he wrote: "Honestly, you would not only be amazed but also ashamed when you think that the Philippines were under American control for 50 years and still conditions are as they are."

But at least one international aid program is forming on one American campus—Penn State. And the Voice of America is telling it to all the world.

Always a wise choice

Brown and white or blue and white Spectators for Big Weekend and all weekends thereafter will look stunning with dressy cottons, summer suits, and your best dresses.

Also stockings by Larkwood and Handbags to complete your outfit.

Simon's