Senate Establishes Loyalty Study Panel

The faculty panel of a loyalty review board was set up in a special meeting of the College Senate yesterday, according to President Milton S. Eisenhower.

The President also outlined the organization of a board panel for non-academic personnel, and the procedures for the loyalty certification of all state employees.

Eisenhower Announces Work Plans

With May 30 scheduled as a holiday, President Milton S. Eisenhower has reminded deans and administrative officers that May 31 will be a regular work day.

President Eisenhower also listed provisions for the summer work schedule, and some summer schedules for offices.

Offices and departments that close on Saturdays during the summer will be closed beginning June 14, and will continue this schedule to and including Sept. 6.

In connection with Orientation Week activities, certain offices will operate with complete staffs Sept. 6 and 7. Deans and administrative officers whose employees work those two days will provide for the adjustment of the overtime, according to the College policy.

The first provision of the summer work schedule is that an employee who normally works a 41½-hour week will work a 37½-hour week of five seven and one-hour days from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with 1½ hours off for lunch.

The second provision is that an employee who normally works a 44-hour week will work a 40-hour week of five eight-hour days from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with one hour off for lunch.

The third provision states that an employee who normally works a 48-hour week will continue this schedule but will be given one additional day off every two weeks.

George Ceiga will play "Ave Maria" (Arcadelt-Liszt) as the offertory.

Under the direction of Mrs. Willa C. Taylor, the Chapel Choir will sing "Light of Light, Enlighten Me" (Ahle Bach), "Then Round About the Starry Throne" (Handel), and "Open Thou Our Lips" (Rachmaninoff).

The panel for non-academic personnel will be made up of the College provost, comptroller, and three elected members of the faculty. An election was held yesterday to choose the three faculty members, but the results will not be known until today, he said.

Loyalty Board May Certify
The panel for non-academic personnel will be made up of the College provost, comptroller, and three elected members of the faculty. An election was held yesterday to choose the three faculty members, but the results will not be known until today, he said.

In outlining the certification procedures, President Eisenhower said each department head in both the academic and non-academic departments will certify the loyalty of his department members. These certifications will be sent to the President so that he can forward loyalty certification for the College to the Governor.

There are three alternative methods of certifying loyalty. If an employee's loyalty cannot be certified by any of these methods, he will be brought before the loyalty board for certification.

Lists Second Method
The first method applies to anyone who has been cleared by the Federal Bureau of Investigation or the military intelligence for classified work such as the Ordnance Research Laboratory. Anyone in this classification will be certified, the President said.

The second method applies to employees who, because of their cooperative work with federal or state agencies, are required to take a loyalty oath. An example of this type of employee is found in some extension programs of the College. Employees in this classification will be certified, President Eisenhower explained.

Anyone May Take Oath
The third method is in the form of a brief standard questionnaire which will be used for all other employees as a basis of certification.

"Finally," the President said, "while an oath for other employees is not required and is not part of the standard certification plan, no one is denied the privilege of taking the oath if he wishes to do so." "Other" employees in this case applies to those who are not required by the Pennsylvania Loyalty Oath Act to do so.

2000 to March in Third Armed Forces Parade

More than 2000 Army, Navy, and Air Force ROTC cadets will parade today as State College marks Armed Forces Day for the third year.

President Milton S. Eisenhower, as chief marshal, will lead the parade, as far as the reviewing stand. The stand is located at the main campus gate leading to the Mall at Allen street. The parade will begin at 2 p.m. on E. College avenue at Shortlidge road.

When the parade reaches the stand, President Eisenhower will stop marching and review the remainder of the parade. At the stand, the President will be joined by Col. Lucien E. Bolduc,

The State College Police have announced that during the parade there will be no parking on College avenue except between Pugh and Allen streets on the campus side of the street.

professor of military science and tactics; Lt. Col. Jack Dieterle, professor of air science and tactics; Capt. John L. Woodbury, professor of naval science in charge of the parade; and E. K.

TKPhi, ZTA Place 1st in Spring Week

Theta Kappa Phi and Zeta Tau Alpha were awarded the first place trophy for Spring Week participation at the Senior Ball last night. Sigma Chi and Delta Gamma, and Delta Tau Delta and Kappa Delta won second and third place trophies.

Theta Kappa Phi and Zeta Tau Alpha took in the largest number of tickets at the carnival, 3161, to win the trophy with 2535 points. They had 780 points for Mad-Hatter's Day, 30 points from the Miss Penn State contest, and 150 points for the He-Man contest.

Sigma Chi and Delta Gamma won their trophy with 1945 points. They collected 2385 carnival tickets and received 590 points for having 59 Mad-Hatters, 30 for Miss Penn State entries, and 150 for He-Man entries.

25 Points for 50 Tickets
Delta Tau Delta and Kappa Delta have a total of 1925 points. They collected 2151 tickets at the carnival and had 66 Mad-Hatters, 40 points for Miss Penn State contestants, and 150 points for two He-Man entries.

Points were awarded at the rate of 25 for every 50 tickets collected at the carnival, 150 points for parade winners, 15 points for each entry in the Miss Penn State contest, 10 additional points for a Miss Penn State finalist, 75 points for each entry in the He-Man contest, and 10 points for each Mad-Hatter.

All-College Cabinet has not decided what will be done with the money from the carnival after Spring Week expenses have been paid.

Shows Take Tickets
Delta Chi and Gamma Phi Beta's pie throwing booth took in the third highest number of tickets at the carnival, but the organizations had not received as many points for earlier Spring Week activities as Delta Tau Delta and Kappa Delta.

Phi Kappa Tau and Alpha Omicron Pi's minstrel show took in 1945 tickets; Beta Theta Pi and Alpha Chi Omega's "Dogpatch Follies," 1910; and Triangle and Phi Mu's "South Sea Sacrifice," 1801.

Theta Kappa Phi and Zeta Tau Alpha's first place booth was "Wing Ding's Opium Den." Sigma Chi and Delta Gamma featured the "Golden Nugget Saloon." Delta Tau Delta and Kappa Delta had the "Squeeze-a-Delt" booth.

This year, for the first time in the four-year history of the carnival, there was no rain. Threatening weather in the morning caused some doubt about the success of the carnival, but at the close of the day, members of the Spring Week committee called it the most successful of all spring carnivals.

Concert Slated For Tomorrow

The College Symphony Orchestra, directed by Theodore K. Karhan, assistant professor of music, will present its annual spring concert at 3 p.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

Highlighting the program will be the presentation of Beethoven's "Triple Concerto," which is seldom heard because of the prohibitive cost of getting three adequate musicians to perform the solo parts.

The three students presenting it are Ruth McNitt, junior in music education, pianist; Barbara Thomas, special student in music, playing the violinist; and John Swartz, senior in music education, violoncellist.

The program will include excerpts from Wagner's "Parsifal," Delius' "Walk to Paradise Garden," Brahms' "Academic Festival Overture," and the performance of Tchaikowsky's "Swan Lake Ballet" in the form of an orchestral suite.

Summer Jobs Still Available For Students

It is not too late for students seeking summer jobs to use the facilities of the Student Employment Service to obtain work, John J. Huber, supervisor of part-time student employment, said yesterday.

Now is the time when camps are hiring counselors and resorts are looking for employees, Huber said. More than 160 camps and 50 resorts are on file at the student employment office for the students to use.

The camps and resorts which are filed in the student employment office vary in size and are located from Maine to Michigan and as far west as Texas.

The office has also prepared forms to aid students in writing good applications, he said. The office is open from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 5 p.m. daily except Saturday.

Chemistry and Physics, Physical Education, and Mineral Industries seniors may pick up their copies of the 1952 LaVie today, and vote for the senior class gift and '52 men and women honor students at the Student Union desk in Old Main. Today will be the last time seniors may vote.

Coat Judging Canceled Due to Disinterest

The scheduled judging of seniors' decorated Lion Coats was canceled yesterday because too few students participated, Robert Koons, chairman of the Lion coat committee, said.

Judging of the Lion coats was originally slated for 7:30 p.m. Spring Carnival Day and was then postponed until 4 p.m. yesterday.

Freshman, PI Director Get Awards

Loa Joan Packard, second semester freshman majoring in journalism, and Louis H. Bell, director of public information, were recipients of editorial awards presented last night by Col. LeRoy Green, chairman of the judging committee, at the dinner meeting of the annual Pennsylvania Press Conference at the Nittany Lion Inn.

Miss Packard received honorable mention for her human interest story, "Shave and a Hair Cut, Two Bits," which appeared in the Morrison Cove Herald. There were 269 entries in this classification.

In the local column division, Bell received honorable mention for his column, "Once Over Lightly," which appears every day in the Centre Daily Times. The winning entry was his column of Feb. 7. There were 176 entries in this classification.

The editorial awards are presented annually by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association, Pennsylvania Society of Newspaper Editors, and the Department of Journalism. Ninety-four awards were presented this year.

V. M. Newton, Jr., managing editor of the Tampa, Fla., Morning Tribune, will be guest speaker tonight at the closing dinner meeting of the two-day conference. His topic will be "The Obligation of the Free American Press Toward Good Government."

AIM to Discuss Reese Situation

The Board of Governors of the Association of Independent Men will meet at 4:30 p.m. today in 104 Willard to discuss and attempt to solve a situation created by AIM President-elect Franklin Reese not having the required 1.0 All-College average.

The meeting was called Thursday by John Laubach, president. The AIM constitution requires a candidate for any of the AIM offices to have an average greater than 1.0. Reese's average is less than 1.0.

Laubach said that one solution to the problem is to allow the present officers to resign their posts and to hold new elections. These elections would be held at today's meeting. The meeting will be open.

If new nominations are held, the nominating committee will not be required to present the candidates, Laubach said. He said the committee fulfilled its duties when it made the first nominations.
