More Courses Required For New LA Freshmen

Incoming freshmen in the School of Liberal Arts will be required to take more history, literature, philosophy, social science, and art or music courses.

The plan will not affect present students, according to Ben Euwema, dean of the School of Liberal Arts. The changed curriculum was passed by the Liberal Arts faculty and the College Senate.

Summer Ed Conferences Scheduled

Over 15,000 persons from all over the world are expected to attend a variety of educational conferences on the campus in June, July, and August.

Russell E. Clark, director of housing, said that more than 66 groups already have made arrangements for summer meetings.

The International Grasslands Conference, the largest of the conferences to be on the campus this summer, will be held the week of Aug. 16. An estimated 2500 persons will attend the conference, the first of its kind to be held in this country.

More than 1400 Future Farmers of America will arrive June 10 for their annual sessions, while in August 1200 4-H Club boys and girls will hold their meetings. Both groups have had their conferences at Penn State for more than 30 years.

The Pennsylvania Bankers Association will conduct a summer school, the first of its kind, in August. Steelworkers, experts on underwater ballistics, and school administrators also have meetings scheduled.

President Milton S. Eisenhower will address several of the meetings this summer.

Selective Service Test to Be Given

The Selective Service College Qualification Test will be given Thursday to students who missed the Dec. 13 test with a valid reason. Only students who submitted applications before May 10 may take the test.

A student is eligible for the test if he is a selective service registrant who intends to request deferment as a student, is pursuing a college course, and has not taken the test before.

The criteria for deferment are a grade of 70 or better in the test or class standing in the upper half of the freshman, upper two-thirds of the sophomore, or upper three-fourths of the junior class males.

Cheerleading Cut Set for Thursday

Cheerleading cuts will take place at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Little Theater, basement of Old Main, Thomas Hanna, head cheerleader, said yesterday.

Hanna said that the final squad positions will be decided by a committee consisting of Eugene Wettstone, gymnastic coach; Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics; Hummel Fishburn, professor of music education and a member of the Senate advisory committee on athletics; Carl P. Schott, dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics; and Hanna.

Final positions on the squad will be decided by the judging of regulation cheers, Hanna said. All new candidates and the present cheerleaders will be included in the tryouts.

Counselor Jobs Open; 10-15 Apply

Between ten and 15 students have applied for positions as assistant dormitory counselors next fall, the Dean of Men's office reported yesterday.

The students, who will be seniors next year, will be chosen by the office of the Dean of Men to take the six positions which have been opened as an experiment. They will be exempted from $110 fees.

Students who will be in their seventh semester this fall may apply if they have at least a 1.5 All-College average, provided they will forego or resign election or appointment to any campus political office.

Counselors will be allowed to be members of honorary and professional societies, however.

Applications may be obtained from the Dean of Men's office, 109 Old Main, and must be returned by Thursday. Both independent and fraternity students may apply.

West Dorms Plan Dance Saturday

A semi-formal dance will be held Saturday night in the West Dorm lounge, Charles Brewer, West Dorm Council social chairman, announced at the final council meeting last night. Jack Huber's orchestra will play for the dance.

The activities of the social committee were reviewed by Brewer. He said that the council had sponsored 13 band dances and nine record dances in the lounge. He said the exchange dinners sponsored by the council were also successful.

Food Preference Surveyed by FMA

The Fraternity Management Association agency, which will set up a large scale buying plan for fraternities next semester, is conducting a food survey among fraternities asking for information about the types and quantities of food consumed each month in the respective houses.

Forms requesting information about the proposed FMA buying plan and questionnaires have been sent to each of the houses. The questionnaires will ask information about brands, forms, and grades of food currently in use. This information will be used as a basis for ordering food when the plan goes into action next fall.

Large Scale Purchasing Cooperation on the part of each house is asked by William Hafley, acting chairman of the committee. He urged each house to give serious thought about the plan and the savings that are offered to members.

Under the proposed plan, fraternities will join the association and purchase food on a large scale. Food will be ordered from dealers offering quality goods for the most reasonable prices. Through this large-scale buy-

Indian Ag Institute Needs Financial Aid

(This is the first of two articles which will discuss the proposed Chapel fund projects.)

The Allahabad Agricultural Institute is a joint undertaking of American and British missionary societies, and the one Christian college of rural life in India.

Having an enrollment of 325 students in 1950, the Institute has made outstanding contributions in the areas of dairying and agricultural engineering. It maintains a 700-acre farm on which a wide variety of agricultural practices are tested. A large portion of the work is being done in horticultural and agronomic research.

In addition to resident instruction and research, the institute operates the first Department of Extension organized in any agricultural college in India.

Needs Financial Support The institute has four major extension activities. These are projects under full-time extension agents, short courses and conferences, publications, and extension counseling.

The services of a man trained in agriculture would be appreciated by the institute as well as the financial support, advice, and cooperation of an American university.

The Board of Founders has an office at 156 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Silliman University was founded in 1901 as an elementary school at Dumaguete City, Philippine Islands, by the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

Penn State Graduates The university is now operated and supported by representatives of this board, the American Commissioners of Foreign Missions (Congregational), and the United Evangelical Church of the Philippines.

The president of the university, Dr. Arthur L. Carson, and the head of the Department of Agriculture, Boyd A. Bell, are graduates of the College.

The institution, which was the first private school founded under the American flag in the Philippines, was badly damaged in World War II.

On the faculty that instructs the 3500 students enrolled are 32 Americans. There are 1750 students on the college level.

This university, which carries on research, resident instruction, and extension work, has six colleges and a graduate school. These colleges include arts and science, business administration, education, engineering, law, and theology. The university also has a normal school and a school of nursing.

The College would be considered especially helpful in the development of the agricultural curriculum and in the development of agricultural extension work.

The World Student Service Fund is a world university program for mutual assistance. It is to help students learn from the heritage of older cultures; to contribute technical and material aid, and to share in developing international understanding through education.

Means of Exchange The projects of WSSF include financing the bare subsistence of refugee students, special medical projects, and furnishing books and laboratory equipment. WSSF also sponsors conferences and seminars so people can meet and think together on international problems.

The means of affiliation among specific universities around the world through exchange of ideas, materials, and personnel are provided by this group.

WSSF works through the World University Service to promote international university solidarity and mutual service within and among the universities of the world. This is done by encouraging all efforts to meet the basic needs and make universities the centers of national and international life.

Sponsors Specific projects needing help are the Punjab Camp College for refugees in India; the Agricultural College at Jorhat, Assam; the Engineering College of the University of Sind, Karachi, West Pakistan; and the German institution for refugees from Eastern Germany.

The Hillel Foundation, Newman Club Federation, National Student Association, and the United Student Christian Council of the United States sponsor WSSF.

Senior Gift Voting to End

Balloting for the senior class gift and for senior honor men and women will continue until 5 p.m. today, Bryson Craine, chairman of the class gift committee, said yesterday.

David Olmsted, president of the graduating class, will present the class gift to President Milton S. Eisenhower, who will accept it for the College at Class Night exercises at 7:30 p.m. June 8 in Recreation Hall. Craine said that the selection of the gift will not be announced until that time.

The 11 honor seniors, also selected by balloting, will be recognized at Class Night. Men's honors include spoon man, barrel man, cane man, pipe orator, and class donor. Six women will be named as bow girl, slipper girl, fan girl, mirror girl, class donor, and class poet.

Keys will be presented to outstanding graduating members of All-College Cabinet. The program will be traditionally opened by the class salutatorian, Louise Black, and closed by the valedictorian, Jean Richards.

Craine said that seniors may pick up their LaVies until the end of the semester.
