

School of Agriculture To Hold Open House

The School of Agriculture will hold its first annual Open House today to acquaint high school seniors with the school's functions and courses in agriculture.

The all-day program, sponsored by the Ag Student Council, consists of guided tours over the farms, buildings and classrooms on the Hill. Visiting groups, supplied with pamphlets giving information on the equipment, will be escorted through the laboratories and barns.

Drinking Prohibited In Parks

A letter from the State Department of Forests and Waters pointing out that regulations specifically prohibit the use of alcoholic beverages in the state's parks was received recently by the Dean of Men's office.

The letter, written by Walter L. Wirth, director of the Bureau of Parks, asked the dean's office to cooperate with the bureau in attempting to alleviate the problem of unrestrained drinking in the parks.

Wirth also asked the help of the dean's office in stopping what he termed the "promiscuous disposal" of beer cans and bottles at the parks. It was pointed out that bottles have been found in the water and throughout the picnic area.

In part, the letter stated: "Since we have noted, and have received numerous complaints from family groups using the park (Whipple Dam State Park) this year, we are asking your assistance in attempting to reduce the practice of disregarding to public property.

"Aside from taking much away from the beauty of the park, this practice contributes to a pertinent and dangerous safety factor to the swimmer and the barefooted person on the beach and the picnic area.

"Department regulations specifically prohibit the use of alcoholic beverages in the state parks of Pennsylvania."

Last week the President's office announced that disciplinary action would be taken whenever specific evidence of conduct prejudicial to the name of the College was presented.

Choir to Present Brahms' Requiem In 2d Concert

The Chapel Choir will present its second performance of "A German Requiem" by Johannes Brahms at 8 tonight in Schwab Auditorium. Doors will open at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Willa C. Taylor, associate professor of music education, will direct the choir in the presentation of its fifth annual spring concert.

Concert artists Barbara Troxell, soprano, and Chester Watson, bass-baritone, who have assisted the choir in previous performances, will be included in this year's program.

Miss Troxell has participated in all five of the spring concerts, and Watson was soloist in the choir's presentation of Mendelssohn's "Elijah" in 1948 and 1950 and Verdi's "Requiem" last year.

Applications Available For Two Scholarships

Application blanks for two Kroger scholarships, each worth $200, can be secured in the main office of the Home Economics building. These scholarships are open to freshmen who have high scholastic standing, show professional promise, and need financial help. All applications must be in by June 1.

NPA Head to Speak

Lawrence A. Fox, chief of the export program staff, National Production Authority, will speak at 8 tonight in 217 Willard. He will discuss college preparation for government service, civil service exams, and job opportunities in government.

Cheerleader Cuts Set For Tonight

Cuts for the Penn State cheerleading squad will take place at 7 tonight at the Little Theater, basement of Old Main, head cheerleader Thomas Hanna said yesterday.

Candidates for cheerleading will meet at 6:30 tonight in front of Old Main.

The plan will cut four of the present junior men to two senior men, three junior women to two senior women, four sophomore men to two junior men, and four sophomore women to two junior women.

In addition, the three new men and three new women freshmen will be cut to two men and two women when they become sophomores.

Hanna explained that the cut was planned because of difficulty in arranging practice sessions as well as the students' difficulty in keeping together during cheers.

Cutting will be done by a committee consisting of Hummel Fishburn, professor of music education and a member of the Senate advisory committee on athletics; Eugene Wettstone, gymnastics coach; Carl P. Schott, dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics; Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics; and Hanna.

Dorm Adviser Form Deadline Set for Today

Applications of men students wishing to become assistant dormitory counselors for next year are due today in the Dean of Men's office, 109 Old Main.

Students must be in their seventh semester next year and have a 1.5 All-College average. They must be willing to forego or resign election or appointment to any campus political office; however, they may be members of honorary and professional societies.

Six positions will be filled from the applications. Those chosen will be exempted from $110 fees per semester.

The Dean of Men's office is asking for applicants from dormitory, fraternity, and town men. Applicants need not be active in campus activities.

Under tentative plans, the six selected will be divided into two groups, one group to be in the West Dorms and one in the Nittany area. Three assistant counselors will be under the supervision of a graduate counselor.

Assistant counselors will not be required to enforce discipline in their dorms.

The 14 clubs connected with the Ag school will be responsible for showing off their respective departments. Special displays ranging from insects to dairy machinery will be featured in the tours.

The permanent insect collection of the Department of Zoology and Entomology will be exhibited today. The display shows the habits of insects, all labeled, and represents a large number of common insects.

A tour of the beekeeping laboratory will be included in the program. Visitors will be shown the equipment used for filtering and uncapping honey and facilities for artificially breeding queens. The display was formerly used in a study to promote sales and uses of honey.

The longest tour of the Open House will be the dairy barns. Information on the feeding and management of the five dairy breeds on display will be given by the guides. The storing and drying of hay will be explained, and the different types of stalls will be pointed out to the visitors.

The Poultry Club will serve chicken and turkey sandwiches to the visitors in the pavilion for lunch, and frankfurters will be served by the Pre-Vet Club. The Dairy Science Club will sell dairy products.

Hoerr Appointed New Inklings Editor

John Hoerr, a sixth semester arts and letters major, has been named editor of Inklings, campus literary magazine. The announcement was made yesterday by Florenz Fenton, retiring editor.

Richard E. Smith, a sixth semester commerce and finance major, has been named business manager. Other members of the new staff include Edwin Steel, advertising manager; Jane Metz, art editor; Herman Golomb, promotion manager; and Ronald Isenberg, circulation manager.

The third issue of Inklings is being planned for next fall, Hoerr announced. He also indicated that a spring issue would be published if the fall issue was successful.

Lehman Explains Alumni Groups

Local alumni clubs are organized "to furnish their members with direct contacts with the College," Ross B. Lehman, assistant executive secretary of the Alumni Association, explained yesterday.

District club meetings, he said, feature campus speakers, advance scholarships, and aid the College with various projects.

Seniors May Join

Included in these projects is a $100 yearly donation by the Williamsport Alumni Club to the Pattee library and women's academic scholarships sponsored by the Scranton and Lancaster alumnae, Lehman said.

Graduating seniors may become members of the Alumni Association by paying the special rate of $2, effective until after Commencement Day.

The regular rate of $3 per year will go back into effect after Commencement Day, Lehman said.

The College and the alumni exchange ideas, Lehman asserted. "The Alumni Association tells them what they can do for the College—for example, admission to Penn State—and the alumni might consult us on a town problem concerning engineering."

The local clubs also serve as publicity agents, Lehman said, by giving awards to various outstanding alumni. Included in this category is the Alumnus of the Year award presented by the Philadelphia district.

Faculty members sent to speak at alumni gatherings sometimes select their topics according to the geographical region, Lehman explained. Lehman said that a representative from the Mineral Industries school might speak to an alumni group in a coal-region town, such as Hazleton.

"President Milton S. Eisenhower often speaks to various alumni groups, including many from out of State," Lehman said.

"In fact, he has just completed a spring tour of Williamsport, Norristown, Allentown, Elmira, N.Y., and Wilmington, Del.," he said.

Pennsylvania is composed of 39 alumni district clubs, including 28 alumni and 11 alumnae, Lehman pointed out. There are also 25 clubs from out of state and one in Puerto Rico, he said.

2 Honor Societies To Initiate Tonight

Phi Kappa Phi and Phi Beta Kappa, national honor societies, will hold initiation dinners tonight.

Phi Kappa Phi will initiate 24 undergraduate students and two faculty members at a banquet at 6:30 p.m. in the State College Presbyterian Church. Phi Beta Kappa will initiate 23 graduates and seniors at the annual spring dinner at 5:30 p.m. at the Nittany Lion Inn.

Students to be initiated by Phi Kappa Phi are Mrs. Arlene Harris, education; Mrs. Barbara Pintar, education; Charlotte Zislin, zoology and entomology; Robert Alderdice, arts and letters; Edward Andrysick, industrial engineering; Patricia Bush, education; Lillian Cassover, arts and letters; Ralph D. Clark, arts and letters; William Englert, ceramics; David Fetterman, aeronautical engineering; John Harrison, metallurgy; Andrew Harvey, mechanical engineering; Marilyn E. Jones, education; Thomas Jurcak, animal husbandry; Walter Lewis, history; Kay Liner, education; Marjorie Lohse, arts and letters; Chester Olweiler, horticulture; Sparhawk, electrical engineering; John Stenstrom, civil engineering; Myron Cox, meteorology; Sheldon Einhorn, meteorology; and Marcia Garbrick, education. Faculty members to be initiated are John D. Lawther, professor of physical education and former basketball coach; and Frederick R. Matson, professor of ceramics.

Dickson to Speak

Those to be initiated by Phi Beta Kappa were listed in the May 13 Daily Collegian.

Dr. Harold E. Dickson, professor of fine arts, will address Phi Kappa Phi on "The Arts in the Land-Grant College."

Tickets for the banquet may be obtained from Charles M. Speidel, 301 Recreation Hall.

Richard H. Heindel, deputy director of the staff of the U.S. National Commission for United Nations Economic, Social, and Cultural Organization, will speak at the Phi Beta Kappa dinner. Heindel's topic will be "The Horizons of Patriotism."

Faculty Members Selected

Both Phi Kappa Phi and Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's leading honor societies, require top scholastic averages. Admission to Phi Kappa Phi is open to undergraduates in all curricula of the colleges which have chapters. The Penn State chapter is one of the three groups which founded the society in 1897.

Faculty members are selected for their record of professional attainment and ability to inspire students to maximum development of their own potential abilities, according to Charles C. Dillio, College chapter president.

Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest Greek letter society in the United States.

Young Republicans Club To Hold Final Meeting

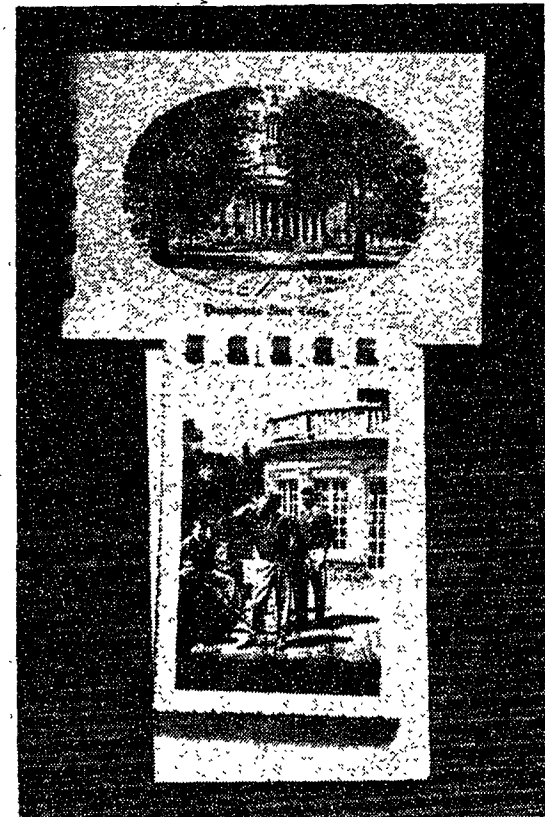

The College Young Republicans Club will hold its final meeting of the semester at 7 tonight in 202 Willard.

Donald Douglas, chairman of the constitutional committee, will submit a proposed constitution for ratification. Final arrangements for affiliation with the national organization of Young Republican Clubs will be made.

Grad Faculty to Meet

A graduate faculty meeting will be held at 4:10 p.m. today in 121 Sparks.

The system of FM broadcasting was developed by Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong.

Free folders for your pictures . . .

Don't let your pictures get lost or mixed up with someone else's! With every roll of film you have developed and printed, with all reprints, you receive—at no extra charge—a folder with the prints inside. It has an attractive picture of Old Main on the front and is something to remember your College days and College pictures by.

Come in today . . . We give you 24 hour service!

CENTRE COUNTY FILM LAB

122 W. Beaver Ave.