

Summer Class Sessions Offer Special Courses

Courses for undergraduate and graduate students, as well as several workshops and special feature courses, will be offered at the 43d annual College summer sessions program, according to John E. Miller, admissions assistant to the director of summer sessions.

Visitors Tour Ag Open House

Approximately nine groups of visitors, including high school seniors, a group of war veterans, and vocational agriculture students, were taken on 12 different tours at the first annual Agriculture Open House yesterday.

The visitors, numbering more than 400, were taken on guided tours through the dairy barns, the College creamery, and the farms. In the all-day program, sponsored by the Agriculture Student Council, 20 points of interest in the Ag school were featured.

A tour of all the agricultural engineering laboratories and shops was included in the program. Visitors were shown equipment of the College farms and all power-operated machinery used in connection with agriculture. The dairy purebreds were featured, and visitors were able to see the College horses, sheep and poultry.

A display of preserved animal tissue, featuring a two-headed pig, was shown by the Pre-Vet Club in the Pavilion. An exhibition of refrigeration and latest developments in farm machinery was also located in the Pavilion. The exhibition was sponsored by the Agricultural Engineering department.

Visitors were served a lunch of turkey and chicken sandwiches by the Poultry Club. Frankfurters and dairy products were sold all day by the Pre-Vet Club and the Dairy Science Club.

Co-chairmen of the planning committee for the Open House were William Griffith and Theodore Kimmel.

Cheerleaders Named for '52

Senior Alan McChesney was chosen head cheerleader for the coming year last night as Penn State's cheerleading squad was cut from 20 to 14.

Other members for the squad next year as announced by former head cheerleader Thomas Hanna are:

Seniors—Howard R. Wright, Peggy Mayberry, and Nancy Wiant; juniors—Audrey Shultz, Louise Robertson, Fiorentino Ferraco, and Bruce Wagner; sophomores—Sandra Dahlinger, Ann Hilburn, Barbara Sherts, James Schultz, Jay Schultz, and Bruce Coble.

The sophomores, Hanna explained, will be cut to two men and two women when they become juniors.

The cutting was done by a committee consisting of Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics; Eugene Wettstone, gymnastics coach; Carl P. Schott, dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics; and Hanna.

26 Students To Receive Merit Keys

Service keys, awarded by All-College Cabinet for service to the College through student government, will be given to 26 students who chaired standing or special committees of cabinet or were of special significance to the functioning of cabinet, James Worth, past All-College president, said yesterday.

The presentation of certificates with the keys, a former custom, has been discontinued, Worth added. Students may pick up their keys in the office of Miss Helen Buttorf, 102 Old Main.

Students who will receive keys are John Allison, Robert Amole, John Apgar, Joseph Arnold, Barr Asplundh, Milton Bernstein, Carroll Chapman, Merritt Dinnage, Florenz Fenton, James Geffert, William Griffith, Janet Herd, Marlene Heyman, George Jeffries, William Klisanin, Robert Leyburn, Marion Morgan, Richard Mills, Jean Nisley, William Raymond, Walter Sachs, Sara Shoemaker, Harry Solomon, John Stoudf, Constance Wellen, and James Wharton.

In addition, Worth said, keys have been presented to President Milton S. Eisenhower, and to the cabinet advisers, George Donovan, Ross B. Lehman, Dean of Women Pearl O. Weston, Dean of Men H. K. Wilson, and Miss Buttorf.

41 Women to Assist In Fall Orientation

Forty-one women have been chosen to assist in the women's orientation program for the fall, Patricia Thompson, assistant to the dean of women in charge of orientation, has announced.

The women, composed of members of Cwens and Chimes, women's hat societies, and leaders of women's student organizations on campus, will help new students become acquainted with the campus as well as the traditions and standards of the College.

The orientation crew, which returns to campus a day before orientation begins Sept. 6, will greet new students, help them locate their room assignments, plan and present skits at evening meetings depicting various campus functions, and supervise informal discussion periods in the dormitories after each evening meeting.

The women chosen are Aurelia Arre, Marilyn Buzby, Nedaly Charnbury, Frances Crawford, Peggy Crooks, Ann Cunningham, Patricia Ellis, Juliana Fees, Baylee Friedman, Mary Glading, Lorraine Gladus, Louise Glud, Sylvia Grube, Marlene Heyman, Joan Hutcheon, Ruth Israel, Linda Jacobs.

Saturn Still Visible

The ringed planet Saturn may be observed again from 9 to 10:30 tonight at the College Observatory, if the weather permits. The observatory is located northwest of Pollock and Shortlidge roads, near the U.S. Pasture laboratory.

Provost to Speak

Ardian O. Morse, provost, will speak on "Education after College" to Engineering 3 students at 4 p.m. today in Schwab Auditorium.

'Earnest' Tryouts Set

Tryouts for acting parts in "The Importance of Being Earnest," first Players' production for next fall, will be held at 7:30 tonight and Sunday night in the Little Theater, basement of Old Main.

Three sessions of classes have been scheduled: the inter-session, June 10 to June 27; main summer session, June 30 to Aug. 9; and post-session, Aug. 11 to Aug. 29.

Dorms on Campus

In addition to the scheduled courses, the summer school program will include an Institute on World Affairs and International Understanding, June 30 to Aug. 9; Conservation Education Laboratory for Teachers, June 30 to July 19, and July 21 to Aug. 9; the Fred Waring Choral Workshop, June 23 to June 27; Coordinated Conferences in Education, June 23 to June 27; Superintendents and Principals Conference, July 29, 30, and 31; and Workshop in Fund Raising, July 21 to Aug. 9.

Living accommodations for men, women, and married couples will be available on campus. Men will be assigned to Hamilton and McKee halls and women to Thompson, Irvin, Jordan, and Watts halls. Married couples will live in McAllister Hall, and Woman's Building will be set aside for women students attending the Pennsylvania Workshop in Elementary and Secondary Education.

Sessions For Grads In addition to the resident faculty, approximately 40 visiting instructors will conduct classes.

The summer sessions have been planned for graduate students working for degrees; school administrators and teachers who wish to add additional fields to their certificates or take refresher courses; adult special students who wish to take advanced courses; and regular undergraduate students, veterans, and recent high school graduates who wish to accelerate their education.

Complete information concerning the summer school program is available in the Summer Sessions office, 104 Burrowes.

Geffert Wins Highest Award In Ad Contest

James Geffert, a senior majoring in journalism, has received the top award of $25 for "excellence in preparation of plans and copy for a local advertiser" in the 12th annual Interstate Advertising Managers' Association contest for journalism students majoring in advertising. Geffert was editor of the 1952 LaVie.

Other winners included Edwin Steel, second award of $15; LaRue Durrwachter, third award, $5; Jane Musgrave, fourth award, $5; and David Shultz, honorable mention. Winning entrants were presented with certificates.

Donald W. Davis, professor of journalism, received the awards in behalf of the winners at the IAMA convention in Atlantic City, N.J.

Judges for the contest were Clarence Hess, advertising manager of the Tamaqua Courier; Wesley Dodge, advertising manager of the Williamsport Grit; and William Owens, advertising manager of the Mahanoy City Record-American.

College Razes Engineering F

Engineering F, a temporary frame building which has been in continuous use since 1908, is being torn down by workmen.

The long gray building near the President's home was originally constructed as a temporary building, and it was hoped the building could be torn down eventually, according to Walter H. Wiegand, director of the physical plant.

"It has served its purpose, and this is the first opportunity the College has had to dispose of it," Wiegand said yesterday. The building housed offices of the central extension on its lower floors and art classes in the upper floors.

Fireman Blows Out Greek House Fire

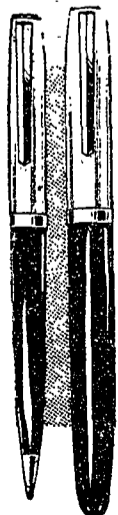

A fireman walked into the kitchen of the Phi Sigma Delta fraternity house with a fire extinguisher late yesterday afternoon, took a look at a grease fire, and blew it out, according to an assistant cook at the house.

Four fire trucks from the Alpha Fire Co. answered the call.
