

5176 Men, Women to Occupy Dorms on Campus This Year

2316 Women To Be Housed In 7 Dorms

Approximately 2316 women will be housed in the seven women's dormitories and cottages this year. The freshmen will be housed in Thompson Hall, Woman's Building, McAllister Hall, and five of the cottages.

Thompson Hall, which was originally built as a men's dormitory, was taken over by the women in the fall of 1951 due to a drop in the male enrollment. It will be used as a women's dorm again this year, but it is expected that it will be returned to the men eventually. Those living in Thompson will have their meals in the West Dorm dining commons, Thompson Hall, the newest of the women's dormitories, was completed in 1950.

Built As Faculty Homes
The freshmen living in McAllister, Woman's Building, and the cottages will eat in the McAllister dining room. The cottages are only temporary housing quarters. The women living there will be moved into the other dormitories when vacancies occur.

The cottages were originally built for use as faculty homes. During the building of Simmons and McElwain halls they were taken over by several of the 19 sororities. They were not considered sorority houses, however, because they were the property of the College.

Of the freshman women, 432 will live in Thompson, 137 will live in McAllister, 80 will live in Woman's Building, and 62 will live in the cottages.

3 Sororities in Grange
The upperclass women will live in Atherton, Simmons, and McElwain halls and Grange Dorm. Five hundred and eight women, mostly sophomores, will be housed in Atherton, Simmons and McElwain will house 532 and 475 respectively. Sixteen of the 19 sororities have suites in Simmons and McElwain. There are eight suites in each of the two dorms. The suites consist of a living room, kitchenette, and the bedrooms in the adjoining hallway.

The other three sororities, the student teachers, and the 24 women living in the home management houses for an eight-week

Two Professors Attend Conference

Two School of Home Economics faculty members participated last week in the Conference of the National Council on Family Relations at Rutgers University.

Dr. Ruth R. Honey, professor of family economics and housing, was chairman of the national committee on economic bases of family life and Dr. William M. Smith, Jr., professor of family relationships, discussed the implications of research on family crises for the college teacher of family relationships.

period will live in Grange, named after the Grange agricultural group who helped with the financing of the building. There will be a total of 94 women living in the dorms.

Have Laundry Facilities
Simmons Hall was named for Lucretia Van Tuyl Simmons, who was at one time a professor at the College. McElwain was named for Harriet A. McElwain, first "lady principal" of the College. Francis Atherton Hall was named for the wife of Dr. George Atherton, a former President of the College.

All dormitories have laundry and drying room facilities, some have lounges in addition to the main lobbies, some have kitchenettes, and all have recreation rooms. The individual rooms are furnished with beds and linen, desks, chairs, and bureaus. Study lamps are provided in some of the dorms. Matching draperies and bedspreads are standard equipment in all the dormitories.

Any questions or problems pertaining to housing should be taken to Mrs. Cordelia L. Hibbs, assistant to the dean of women in charge of housing, 105 Old Main.

East Dorms To Hold Most Number of Men

Of the 2860 men living on campus this year, 1164 will live in the West Dorm area which consists of Hamilton, McKee, Watts, Jordan, and Irvin halls. The remainder, 1797 will live in Nittany and Pollock dormitories. The rooms are assigned proportionally to classes.

The West Dorm area also includes Thompson Hall, which was originally planned to be another men's dormitory. However, in the fall of 1951 it was turned over to women due to the increased female enrollment.

All men's dormitories have furnished rooms, with bed linen supplied. Recreational rooms and laundry facilities are also provided.

A snack bar is also a part of the West Dorms. Men living in Hamilton, McKee, Watts, Irvin and Jordan will eat in the West Dorm dining commons, while those living in Nittany and Pollock dormitories eat in the Nittany dining commons.

 - d. Drinking.

Minor infractions of rules will result in "blackmarks." These may be given by hostesses for failure to sign in or out, untidy rooms, extreme noise, and four-minute lateness on ten, eleven or one o'clocks.

Minor violations such as a few minutes' lateness have specific penalties and offenders are notified by phone calls when their punishments will begin.

Freyberger Presenting Paintings at Center

Dr. Ruth M. Freyberger, professor of art education at Illinois State Normal University, is presenting a show of her paintings at the Byndenwood Mountain Center, Wernersville.

Many of the 21 water color paintings in the show are of Centre county scenes, made while Dr. Freyberger was working for her doctorate at the College.

ing a stricter penalty than a strict weekend campus. If a woman under any penalty wishes to defend herself she may go before Judicial and plead her case. Judicial, acting as a jury, hears both sides of the question and decides whether the penalty should be invoked.

Infringements are recorded by checkers in each living unit, who are appointed by the College. Each week they turn in reports to Judicial so that it may mete out punishments.
