

SU Desk in Old Main Is Information Center

A lost freshman soon learns to use the Old Main tower as a guiding landmark, but if he is still confused as to directions, his best bet is to make his way into Old Main where he will find the Student Union Desk in the first floor lobby. Here is the general information center of the College where both maps and verbal directions may be obtained.

The SU also maintains a lost and found department for all articles—other than freshmen—which may be lost. This desk is also the distribution point for most campus publications including the humor magazine Froth, the literary magazine Pivot, and Penn State's newspaper, The Daily Collegian.

Another phase of Student Union is its function of selling tickets to campus events, including Players' and Thespians' dramatic productions, the community forum series, dances, concerts, and recitals.

Up-to-date train and bus schedules are available as well as the telephone directories of 10 major cities in the East and 17 minor ones in Pennsylvania.

George Donovan is director of the Student Union of which the underlying function is to "correlate and federate all student activities and student funds."

The site for many of these activities is the Temporary Union Building, or TUB, which is located on Shortlidge road behind the Infirmary. Being used as a social center until the planned Student Union Building is constructed, the TUB is open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday. The hours are extended from 8 a.m. to 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday and cut to 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday.

The TUB was moved to State College in 1948 from Lebanon where it served as a USO center during the war.

Its many facilities include a large ball room that contains a juke box, and a stage where band concerts, variety shows, and jam sessions are often held.

The central lounge is equipped with a soda fountain-snack bar and is winged by a reading room. Games such as ping pong, checkers, pin ball machines, cards, and chess can be found in the recreation room.

The book exchange, commonly known as the BX, is located in a small room flanking the ball room, and is open as announced for students wishing to buy and sell used books.

Registration-

(Continued from page one) up will be returned by the dean's representatives if they are not needed by the student.

On the south balcony, where registrants go after leaving the main floor, students will pick up master name cards, have their cards checked and collected, and receive their Athletic Association books.

Students attending College under the G.I. Bill of Rights must complete veterans registration after receiving their AA books.

Graduate students may register at any time, regardless of alphabetical designation. Two year Agriculture students may register anytime tomorrow afternoon and Friday.

Special students will not register until next week.

Registration for all students will be completed with the payment of fees Oct. 2 and 3 at the Bursar's office, basement of Willard Hall.

Froth Features Lighter Side Of College Life

If some cold, drizzly day this fall you spy a dauntless group of very wet "foolish gentlemen" shouting the merits of their product, you'll know that once again it's Froth Day.

Froth, Penn State's humor magazine, includes light and satirical fiction, cartoons, photographs, and jokes—corny jokes, funny jokes, and "ah ha, read-this-one" jokes. It is published eight times a year.

Regular monthly features include "Old Mania," the announcements of recent pinnings, engagements, and marriages; "Dope Sheet," a review of movies coming to local theaters and comments on nearby restaurants; and Froth's Girl of the Month, a picture and "statistics" of one of the best-looking gals on campus.

A variety of themes including a parody issue, Froth's take-off on a nationally known publication, is used throughout the year. Last year's themes included "Stay Loose," advice to still-loose men; "The Shape of Things to Come," a look into the year 1972; "This Reek," a parody of "This Week" magazine; and an exchange issue including material from other college humor publications.

A call will be made shortly for candidates for the editorial, art, advertising, promotion, circulation, and photography staffs. Promotions, on the basis of ability and interest, will be made to boards corresponding to class standing at the end of the fall semester.

year Skull and Bones awards a scholarship to a varsity athlete who has maintained a 1.5 All-College average and contributed to the expense of his own education. The society was founded in 1913.

Blue Key was organized in 1923 for recognition of outstanding junior men in campus activities. Members are tapped in their fourth semester and must have at least a 1.0 average. First managers in athletics, men in publications, and general activities men are eligible for tapping.

Androcles, junior hat society, was founded in 1950 to distinguish men not recognized by other hat societies. Members are selected for their service to the College. The name was taken from the slave in Aesop's Fables who was cited by the emperor for outstanding service.

Coordinated by Council Druids, the only sophomore hat society, has been in existence on the campus since 1907. Since then the organization has spread to seven other colleges. Membership is limited to 20 sophomore men who are varsity letter hold-

Board Coordinates Student Councils

The Interstudent Council Board, composed of the presidents of each of the eight undergraduate student councils, has been established to coordinate the activities of the councils.

The measure passed last year by the College Senate restricting textbook changes is an example of a project started by one council and then, through the ISCB, worked on by all the councils. Most of the councils hold elections at the same time due to ISCB.

ers with a 1.0 average or better.

The hat societies are coordinated by Hat Societies Council, chartered in 1944 by the Senate committee on student welfare. Individual hat society presidents and secretaries represent their organizations on the council.

Hat society members are tapped at scheduled times each year with special ceremonies at the Lion Shrine or on the steps of Old Main. Informal initiations are held later. Most groups also hold an annual spring banquet for old members and tappers.
