

Formal Sorority Rushing To Begin With Registration

By LIX NEWELL

Formal rushing for the 19 sororities on campus begins tomorrow with registration from 8 to 11 a.m. in Atherton Hall lounge. It will be followed by a meeting for all prospective rushees at 11 a.m. in 121 Sparks.

A typographical error in Wednesday's Daily Collegian reported the meeting for 1 a.m. Saturday.

Marlene Heyman, Panhellenic Council president, and Janet Herd, rushing chairman, will conduct the meeting and discuss rushing schedule and rules.

Open Houses Set

Only upperclasswomen with a 1.0 All-College average or better are eligible to rush.

Open houses will be held both tomorrow and Sunday from 1:15 to 5:15 p.m. in sorority suites. Rushees need no invitations and may wear suits or afternoon dresses and hose. In case of an overflow of visitors, the room nearest the chapter room may be used.

Final registration will take place from 8 a.m. to noon Monday in Atherton lounge. No coed may go through the rushing program if she has not registered.

Invitations Issued

Transfer students who have been initiated into a national sorority but have not yet affiliated with their Penn State chapter may attend open houses in the capacity of a rushee.

Personal invitations will be issued for all activities after Open Houses and will be handled through the Panhellenic post office. No contact may be made between a sorority and a rushee other than through the post office.

Coke Dates will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. and 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday. School clothes will be proper attire.

To Alternate Party Nights

At Homes, which are similar to Open Houses, will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sept. 21. No rushee may accept more than four invitations to At Homes and she may not stay longer than an hour at the same sorority.

It was decided at yesterday's Panhel meeting that each sorority would hold four parties on two alternate nights from Sept. 22 through Sept. 25. The sororities will be divided into two groups with one group holding its parties on Sept. 22 and 24 and the other half, Sept. 23 and 25. This will allow rushees to accept four party invitations, Miss Herd said.

Coffee Hours Formal

Hours for the parties on all nights will be from 6:30 to 7:45 p.m. and 8:30 to 9:45 p.m. An invitation to a party automatically means that the rushee may attend open Coke Dates on days alternate to the sorority's parties. Two rooms other than the chapter room may be used for these Coke Dates.

Formal Coffee Hours will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m. and 8:30 to 10 p.m. Sept. 26. This is the only rushing activity in which cars may be used or that entertainment may take place anywhere but in the sorority suites.

For those rushees who have decided which sorority they prefer after Coffee Hours, there will be a Panhel representative in Atherton lounge from 10 to 11 p.m. Sept. 26 so that they may sign preferential bids.

All others may sign their preferential bids from 8 to 12 a.m.

Sept. 27 in 105 Old Main.

Bids will be distributed by the Panhel Council at 5 p.m. Sept. 27 and ribboning will follow at 6:30 p.m. in the sorority suites. Strict silence shall exist between the sorority and the rushee from the time of the Coffee Hours until ribboning.

Mary Brewer, assistant to the dean of women, is the Panhel adviser and asks that rushees come to her for financial information and for answers to any other questions they may have.

Red Rose Named In Ike's Honor Presented to Wife

A small boost to Dwight D. Eisenhower's campaign for the Presidency has come in the form of a rose named in his honor and presented to his wife by Mrs. James H. Duff, wife of Pennsylvania's senator.

According to a communique from the Charles Blum Advertising Corp., Mrs. Duff presented a bouquet of the variety of American Beauty red roses to Mrs. Eisenhower before the Convention Hall rally in Philadelphia.

The announcement stated that the flower "is one of the few great roses American in origin."

It is claimed that the red rose came to the Western World when Thibaut, Count of Brie and of Champagne, returned from a crusade in Syria, bringing with him some of the flowers. The announcement cites the parallel with the general's noted "Crusade in Europe."

Three national commissions—educational, student, and international—administer the NSA programs. The international affairs group promotes cultural exchange through its delegates on the United States commission in UNESCO, the World Student Service Fund, and placement of exchange and displaced person students in this country.

The educational affairs commission is concerned with the educational process and legislation affecting education, student economic welfare, and discrimination.

Penn State Represented On USNSA

Penn State, through a permanent committee of All-College Cabinet, is a member of the United States National Student Association, an organization representing college students through their student governments.

NSA operates on three levels—local, regional, and national. James Plyler is chairman of the local chapter. William Klisanin, former chairman of the College chapter, last year served as president of the Pennsylvania region. There are 24 geographical regions in the country.

Discuss Educational Crisis

The local group organized the Campus Chest with its combined charities plan, circulated a petition to legalize absentee voting in Pennsylvania, and secured reduced train rates for students and better transportation to and from the College at vacation time.

Last month NSA held its fifth annual National Student Congress at Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind. John Laubach, All-College president, Plyler, and Klisanin represented the College. Taking the theme "The Student and the Crisis in Education," the congress discussed universal military training, selective service policy, intercollegiate athletics, the 18-year-old vote, and international student relations. A four-day college newspaper editors' conference and a student body presidents' conference preceded the congress.

The College was the site of the second annual student government clinic, sponsored by NSA last April. More than 100 delegates representing 25 Pennsylvania colleges and universities discussed topics including publicizing and promoting student government, school spirit, honor systems, and faculty rating systems.

Gray-Hatted Coeds Assist Newcomers

Have you noticed a sudden rash of gray hats on campus? The busy coeds under those hats are members of Cwens and Chimes, sophomore and junior women's activities honoraries.

A total of 40 members of Cwens and Chimes and presidents of important women's organizations moved back to the College Saturday to help with the orientation program for new women students.

Counselors themselves had a training period when they met last spring with Patricia Jo Thompson, assistant to the dean of women, to discuss plans and procedure.

Since their arrival, the newcomers' helpers have given instructions for registration, helped hostess parties in women's dormitories, and given skits explaining functions of the Women's Student Government Association and sorority and independent groups.

Other duties include distributing literature for various campus organizations, aiding with registration at Recreation Hall this week, and assisting at orientation programs such as the Sing in Schwab Auditorium and the Women's Recreation Association open house at White Hall today.

New women students have been broken up into discussion groups of from 15 to 18 students with each group headed by a member of the orientation crew. The groups will meet for question-and-answer sessions on campus matters for the next three or four weeks.

According to Miss Thompson, who has been coordinating the week's activities for women, this year's crew has been "wonderful, and so easy to work with."

WRA Open House Scheduled Tonight

A White Hall Open House will be held for all coeds from 6:45 to 9 tonight to acquaint freshmen women with the building's facilities.

Patricia Colgan, Women's Recreation Association club chairman, announced that bowling, swimming, modern dance, ping pong, badminton, and volley ball will be open for new women. The evening will be topped by refreshments and a dance and swim demonstration with guides present to usher the coeds through the program.

Every Saturday night is White Hall Play Night with swimming at 7:30 p.m. and refreshments served.

Industrial Safety Discussed at Institute

New approaches in industrial safety purposes were discussed at the five-day Industrial Safety Institute held this week at the College.

Thirty-two persons in the field of safety engineering and personnel attended the institute, which closes today.
