

Board Declares Joint Customs Day

The Freshman Customs and Regulations Board has designated tomorrow as a day for joint enforcement of customs, James Schulte and Mary Pettigout, co-chairmen of the board, announced yesterday.

Flashcard Throwing Criticized

Although the newly-developed flashcard system showed excellent possibilities at the Temple game, the conduct of some participating students in throwing away cards was a disappointment to those who cooperated in organizing the system, Alan McChesney, head cheerleader, said yesterday.

He pointed out that 50 interested people in addition to five or six campus organizations were involved in setting up the system, and added that to them, as well as to the 268 students who signed up for the section, the destruction of 50 cards was discouraging.

However, McChesney said, the cards will be repaired, participating students will be asked to report to the EH section earlier on game days, and hatmen will protect the section after 12:30 p.m.

McChesney said the section will not be opened to any more applicants, but the cooperation of seniors will be requested in working the system. He pointed out the danger in throwing the cards, reporting that a girl was cut above the eye by a flying card.

Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics, said that he thinks the flashcard system has possibilities and he hopes it can be worked in an orderly manner during future demonstrations. He added that in games both home and away he would like to see a Penn State cheering section show its ability to handle a flashcard system.

Ernest B. McCoy, new Dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics, seconded Gilbert's optimism concerning the system and said that if they will take it seriously, the flashcard system will give students a definite part in the thrill of a ball game.

In commenting on cheering at the game, McChesney praised the freshmen by saying, "It was a real pleasure leading such a responsive group (the frosh) in cheers."

Ag School Mixer Set for Thursday

"Howdy" night, a mixer for students and faculty of the School of Agriculture, will be held at Hort Woods Thursday night.

Invitations for "Howdy" night, sponsored by the Student Activities Committee, have been extended to President Milton S. Eisenhower; H. K. Wilson, dean of men; Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs; Pearl O. Weston, dean of women; and Patricia J. Thompson, assistant to Dean Weston.

Preparations are being made for a special barbecue pit in which to roast weiners. Cider and coffee will also be served.

effect tomorrow only and regular customs will resume Thursday.

Current rulings will also be in effect and upperclassmen and women may enforce customs on either men or women.

The change will enable men to request freshmen women to curtsy, cheer and sing while upperclassmen will be able to make men button, sing and cheer.

Schulte reminded all upperclassmen that customs violators should be turned in at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

The customs board will meet at 8:15 tonight in 121 Old Main to hear violators reported last week. Schulte said that approximately fifteen offenders, all men, have been notified to appear for hearing.

Each case will be reviewed by the board and punishments will be meted out in accordance with the offense.

Miss Pettigout reported that freshman conduct and enthusiasm displayed at the Temple game Saturday hit a new high in school spirit, but that freshmen who participated in the demonstration at the goal posts after the game were a disgrace to the College and the whole customs program.

Lion, State Joint Fund Considered

The Lion Party, at its first steering committee meeting of the semester Sunday, discussed plans for the joint raising of campaign funds with the State Party for the fall elections, William Walters, party chairman, disclosed yesterday.

Although the plans are not complete, Walters said that serious consideration is being given a joint fund-raising campaign between the two political parties. The committee also discussed the general reorganization of the party for the approaching elections.

The steering committee will meet again at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in 104 Willard Hall, Walters said. New Inquiry Slated On Loyalty Issue

By BILL JOST

The Faculty Advisory Council yesterday afternoon approved a proposal by President Milton S. Eisenhower that a special committee be set up to review the College loyalty procedures, it was announced last night by Arthur H. Reede, chairman of the council, at a meeting held by a group to discuss the dismissal of Wendell S. MacRae.

Under the suggestion, the committee which will review the procedures is to be a seven-member faculty group composed of the Tenure Board, the Faculty Loyalty Review

Board, and Dr. Reede.

Members of the Tenure Board are A. Witt Hutchison, professor of chemistry; Corliss R. Kinny, professor of fuel technology; and M. Nelson McGeary, professor of political science. The members of the Faculty Loyalty Review Board are Sheldon C. Tanner, professor of business law; Kinsley R. Smith, professor of psychology; and Paul H. Margolf, professor of poultry husbandry.

The Faculty Loyalty Review Board was chosen because the Staff Loyalty Board has already acted in not approving the loyalty of MacRae.

The meeting unanimously approved the action of a committee headed by William L. Werner in drafting a letter which was sent to the President's office. The letter called to the attention of the President facts about the dismissal of MacRae. It also asked for certain changes in loyalty procedures, as well as review of the MacRae case.

The special meeting of the Faculty Advisory committee held yesterday afternoon approved the President's suggestion to have an "impartial" group study the situation. According to Dr. Reede, the President wants the issue to be studied by a committee which has not been appointed by the administration, and by a group which has not yet acted in the case.

The group discussing the MacRae case expressed gratification that the President is willing to have an impartial committee review the case.

The Faculty Advisory Committee will meet again Friday, and at that time may outline suggestions for the special committee.

Reede was asked if the committee would consider the MacRae case specifically. He answered "All documents will be considered in the case," and indicated that this will probably include the MacRae proceedings.

Goal Post Ruin Is Condemned

Goal post destruction by students Saturday was condemned by the College Senate committee on student affairs at an organization meeting last night.

Citing evidence of lawlessness and the reflection of this action on the College, the committee passed a resolution appealing to the students to recognize the situation and to avoid this type of conduct in the future.

The resolution, read by Dr. Henry Brunner, chairman of the committee, said:

"The Senate committee on student affairs, composed of faculty, administration, and students regrets the disgraceful conduct of certain students at the Temple game. Their actions showed poor judgment and had implications of lawlessness. We appeal to the students to recognize this situation and its reflection on Penn State, and to avoid this type of conduct in the future."

Eisenhower To Explain SG Day

President Milton S. Eisenhower will make the introductory speech at an All-College Cabinet meeting open to all students at 8 p.m. Thursday in Schwab Auditorium as part of the Student Government Day program, Richard Neuweiler, member of the SG Day committee, announced yesterday.

President Eisenhower's speech will be brief, according to Neuweiler, but will explain how student government has aided the administration in the past and possibly how it can help in the future.

The President's speech and the cabinet meeting will conclude the Student Government Day program, a day set by All-College Cabinet to better acquaint and orient students to government at Penn State and their place in it.

Other activities listed for the day are a breakfast for cabinet, discussion periods between the independent and fraternal governing bodies, both men and women's, a display to be exhibited by the Women's Student Government Association in Schwab, and the cabinet meeting in Schwab, open to all students.

The possibility of instituting several new customs for freshmen is being considered. Robert Smoot, committee chairman, announced. They will consist of knowing the names of the All-College president, presidents of the independent governing organizations, and the president of the freshman's school council.

Former College Coach Dies from Heart Attack

Former Penn State football coach Hugo Bezdek died Friday night in Atlantic City Hospital. He had suffered a heart attack Thursday night at his nearby Ventnor home. Bezdek was 68 years old.

Bezdek came to the U.S. from Czechoslovakia. He attended schools in Cleveland and Chicago and was one of football coach Amos Alonzo Stagg's greatest players at the University of Chicago.

Bezdek also coached at Arkansas and Oregon. His Oregon team met and defeated the University of Pennsylvania in the Rose Bowl in 1917, and he also took his Penn State team to the Tournament of Roses in 1924, losing to Southern California by a 14-3 score.

Bezdek's coaching career at State lasted from 1918 through 1929. His post-World War I teams ranked very highly and his overall record during his eleven years as coach showed 65 wins, 30 defeats and 11 ties.

Some of State's all-time great football players served under Bezdek, including All-Americans Bob Higgins, Charley Way, Glenn Killinger, and present baseball coach Joe Bedenk.

Bezdek served as a scout with the Pittsburgh Pirates from 1910 to 1917, when he became manager. In 1918, he resigned to become head of the Department of Physical Education at Penn State, and served in this capacity until 1930, when he became Dean of Physical Education.

Bezdek coached the professional Cleveland Rams in 1937 and his last sports position before his death was that of athletic director and football coach at the National Agricultural College.
