

Nixon Asserts Innocence, Will Remain a Candidate

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sen. Richard Nixon, Republican candidate for vice president, in a nation-wide address last night asserted his innocence of wrongdoing in accepting $18,000 from his supporters for political expenses.

His face intent and in vigorous language, the young California senator placed his case to stay on the GOP ticket with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to millions of Americans by television and radio.

Nixon read an opinion by a firm of attorneys retained by Eisenhower national headquarters that he did not obtain any money for himself out of the contributions by California friends.

He said the decision on whether he would remain on the GOP ticket is not his, and he pleaded with a nation-wide radio-television audience to let the party's leaders know whether he was right or wrong in accepting $18,000 in political expenses.

Gives Background

Only Nixon and his wife were in the studio, save for NBC staff men. James Bassett, press secretary, watched from the adjoining sound control booth.

Nixon began his speech by recounting the background of the controversial fund.

"Not one cent of the $18,000 ever went to me for my personal use. All of it went for political expenses," he began.

Extra Expenses Named

He went into great detail about the expenses incurred while maintaining the office of senator in Washington.

"There are other expenses that are not covered by the government," he asserted, adding:

"The taxpayer should not be expected to finance expenses that are not strictly governmental," he said.

He said he could have put his wife on the government payroll, mentioning that his opponent, Sen. Sparkman, has put his wife on the payroll.

Pat Not on Payroll

His wife, Pat, sat at his side, smiling slightly, as he pointed out that she is an experienced stenographer.

"I am proud to say tonight that in the six years I have been in the House and Senate, Pat Nixon has never been on the government payroll," he said.

He read from an independent audit of the fund which absolved him of any personal gain from the fund.

He said he averaged $1500 a year from speaking engagements during his term as a congressman.

He challenged Gov. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, and Sen. Sparkman to "come before the American people and make a complete financial statement as I have."

Stevenson, Eisenhower Blast Inflation in Campaign Talks

Adlai Outlines Fiscal Policy

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson last night outlined an anti-inflation program calling for wage, price and rent controls "until prices stop going up," and for taxes to be kept on a pay-as-we-go basis as nearly as possible.

The Democratic presidential nominee's four-point program also calls for cuts in non-essential federal spending "to the bare bones of safety" and for government curbs against "excessive private borrowing."

In a prepared speech at Baltimore's 5th Regiment Armory, the Illinois governor declared:

"The time has come for us to draw a line and say to the forces of inflation, 'you cannot cross that line.'"

Stevenson accused Republican congressional leaders of sabotaging every anti-inflationary measure in Congress during the past two years.

"It is hypocrisy for these men to present themselves now as the defenders, or even the friends, of your dollar," he said.

Stevenson said the first necessity is cutting "non-essential expenditures to the bare bones of safety." The government, he said, "must spend every penny as though it were a five-dollar bill, and it must not spend a single penny for anything that is not needed right now."

"This is going to mean a strict auditing of every payroll in the government, and slashing every piece of administrative fat . . ."

"This is going to mean no pork-barreling while our economy is in its present condition. I've vetoed more appropriations in Illinois than any governor in our history."

"We offer you a four-point program of strict government economy, of a tax program kept as nearly as possible on a pay-as-we-go basis, of restraints on excessive private credit and of direct price, wage and rent controls as temporary pontoon bridges between abnormal and normal times."

Chaplin Says He Has No Communist Ties

LONDON (AP)—Comedian Charlie Chaplin yesterday declared, without being asked, that he is not a Communist and never was.

Chaplin, who earlier shed tears at a joyful welcoming by a crowd of about 1000 of his fellow British citizens, volunteered his remark: "I am not a Communist, nor have I ever been a Communist."

"This, I believe, is the usual 64-dollar question," he added. "Everyone ought to know it by now."

2 Schools Denied More State Aid

HARRISBURG (AP)—State financial aid to two nursing schools was delayed yesterday for not certifying their employees as non-subversive under the 1952 Loyalty Act.

Heads of St. Joseph's Hospital, Reading, and St. Vincent's Hospital, Erie, were informed the aid was cut off Sept. 1 because proper certification of employees was not submitted.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Robert L. Kunzig emphasized that the delays were procedural and not because of any refusal to comply with the law. He said he anticipated full compliance from the hospitals soon.

Democrat Club To Plan Drive At 1st Meeting

The Young Democratic Club of Penn State will hold its first meeting of the semester at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 102 Willard, Kenneth Doverspike, club chairman, has announced.

Students interested in joining the group are invited to the meeting, Doverspike said. He pointed out that students who are not yet old enough to vote can still take part in political actions in their communities.

Arthur H. Reede, professor of economics, will discuss what Young Democrats can do in connection with the present political campaign. Reede addressed the group last semester, describing political methods and organization to the members.

Doverspike said that a "Students for Stevenson" drive will be launched by the Young Democrats in the near future. Committee appointments and introductions will be part of tomorrow's meeting.

Adlai Gets First AFL Endorsement

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Federation of Labor for the first time in its 71-year history yesterday endorsed a presidential candidate—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic nominee.

Scraps of torn paper fluttered like confetti as the 800 convention delegates shouted their approval of the Illinois governor, who went on record before them Monday for repeal of the Taft-Hartley law.

The endorsement was coupled with a plea that 8,000,000 AFL members get behind the Democrats—financially as well as politically.

Stevenson's rival, Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican candidate, was dismissed by the AFL Executive Committee as a man who had been "built up as the champion of liberalism in the Republican party" but who had embraced "a sorry aggregation."

'Cheap Money' Policy Attacked

CLEVELAND (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower accused the administration yesterday of pursuing deliberately a "cheap money" policy that he said "has begun to plunder our future."

He said there could be a "substantial savings" in arms cost and a tax cut would boost consumer buying. He insisted a savings in arms production could be achieved without slowing the speed or cutting the size of the arms program.

The GOP presidential nominee hit at inflation in the prepared text of a speech which he delayed delivering so he might hear for himself Sen. Richard M. Nixon's television-radio explanation of an $18,000 private expense account.

Eisenhower is expected to reach a decision after the broadcast as to whether Nixon remains on the ticket as his running mate. All signs aboard his special train were that Nixon would stay.

"The inflation we suffer is not an accident; it is a policy . . . The resort to 'cheap money,' like the resort to cheap politics, is not new."

He argued that while everybody "likes the comforting feeling of more money in his pocket," this feeling really is an illusion.

Ike Reception Lukewarm
The report named Republican Sens. Taft of Ohio, Kem of Missouri, Cain of Washington, Brickner of Ohio, Jenner of Indiana, and McCarthy of Wisconsin.

Eisenhower got a lukewarm reception last week when he went before the convention to oppose repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, while favoring its amendment.

On the other hand, Stevenson's plea Monday for Taft-Hartley repeal was roundly cheered. The 71st convention closed yesterday.

Green Re-elected

Theoretically, the convention endorsement puts the entire strength of the AFL behind Stevenson. Actually, however, the Executive Committee conceded that it cannot enforce the decision member by member.

William Green, re-elected during the day to his 29th term as AFL president, has said the organization will be "a very deciding factor" this November.
