

Meeting of Cabinet. Open to All Tonight

An All-College Cabinet meeting open to all students will be held at 8 tonight in Schwab Auditorium as part of Student Government Day activities.

The meeting will be introduced by President Milton S. Eisenhower, who will speak on student government and how it aids the administration.

Freshmen have been urged to attend the meeting by James

Schulte, co-chairman of the Freshman Customs Board. Their attendance is not required but will be considered in determining the length of the customs period, Schulte said.

Alan McChesney, head cheerleader, will bring up discussion of the flashcard system and cheering at football games. McChesney will explain some of the criticisms of the flashcard and cheering set-up and will ask students to help in clearing up some of the mistakes which have been made.

McChesney said that letters have been sent to the 268 students who have signed up for the flashcard seating plan in the hope that they will better understand the card procedures and arrive at games early.

Discussion of student conduct at football games will also be

Prexy to Conclude SG Day Activities

An All-College Cabinet meeting with an introductory speech by President Milton S. Eisenhower at 8 tonight in Schwab Auditorium will highlight a program of Student Government Day activities.

Cabinet meetings are open to all students. Coeds who sign out for cabinet may stay until the end of the meeting.

Student Government Day is a day set aside by an All-College Cabinet committee to orient new students and better acquaint old students with student government at the College.

Robert Smoot, chairman of the Student Government Day committee, has announced the official schedule listing the day's activities.

Starting off the day's activities is an All-College Cabinet breakfast at 7 a.m. in the Nittany Lion Inn. All present and ex officio members will attend.

During the day, new customs for freshmen will be in effect. Freshman men and women will be required to know the names of All-College President John Laubach, President of the Association of Independent Men William Shifflett, and President of the Women's Student Government Association Joan Hutchon. Upperclass men and women are asked to enforce these customs, James Schulte, co-chairman of the Freshman Regulations Board, said.

The Women's Student Government Association will exhibit a working outline and some of the activities of the association all day in the lobby of Old Main and tonight during the cabinet meeting, in the lobby of Schwab. Nancy White, fifth semester home economics major, is in charge of the display.

Discussion periods between governing bodies of independent and fraternity men and independent and sorority women will be held tonight to talk over problems of student government in general and any problems that they may have in common. The groups will also discuss possible ways of more easily acquainting students with student government and their place in it.

Representatives of the Association of Independent Men, governing body of independent men, and the Interfraternity Council, governing body of 52 Penn State fraternities, will meet at 7 p.m. in Hamilton Hall lounge. A representative

Ag 'Howdy' Mixer Set For Tonight

"Howdy night," an informal mixer for students and faculty in the School of Agriculture, will be held at 7 tonight in Hort Woods.

The mixer, sponsored by the student activities committee, is planned to acquaint the faculty, upperclassmen, and freshmen in agriculture with one another. Faculty and student committees have been working on plans for the mixer since the opening of the fall semester.

President Milton S. Eisenhower is scheduled to speak at the mixer tonight. Others expected to give short talks are H. K. Wilson, dean of men; Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the School of Agriculture; Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs; and Adrian O. Morse, provost.

A singing group composed of Charles Drewson, Earl Sheble, John Burrell, Richard Foster, and Kenneth Tyson, who will play the guitar, will provide the evening's entertainment.

Refreshments of weiners, cider, and coffee will be served at the mixer.

In case of rain, the mixer will be held in the stock pavilion.

LA Council Plans Rating Program

A faculty and course rating program was one of the projects listed for the Liberal Arts Student Council for the coming year by Douglas Schoerke, president, Tuesday night.

Philip Greenberg was appointed to investigate possibilities of permitting students to study in empty classrooms during sandwich hours.

William Slepian was named permanent parliamentarian for the group.

Auto Engineers to Meet

A discussion of the organization of the Society of Automotive Engineers and a movie, "The Fastest 500" will be presented at a meeting of that group at 7 tonight in 107 Main Engineering.

Observatories Open Tonight

Weather permitting, observatories at the College will be open from 8 to 10 tonight and tomorrow night to observe the moon.

The two-night program this week is the first of a series of public observations to be held during the fall semester.

Members of Alpha Nu, astronomical society, will be present at the observatories during the public programs to operate the telescopes.

The observatories may be reached by entering parking area No. 50, east of the Temporary Union Building, and walking north from the area.

Recreational Riding Plan Presented

Students who wish to take part in recreational horseback riding will meet and be classified according to riding ability from 4 to 4:20 p.m. today and at 9:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Saturday at the College stables.

Because of the interest in riding expressed by the student body, a plan for group riding has been formulated, according to G. A. Gagarin, assistant professor of physical education.

Through this plan, Professor Gagarin said, students will be offered the opportunity of group horseback riding on College-owned horses, in addition to instruction from advanced riders.

Present plans call for groups to hold a trail ride Saturday mornings and afternoons at the College riding stables. The hours, however, are not set and will depend upon the number of interested students and the available advanced riders to lead the groups.

Students must first join the Riding Club to participate in this plan. A fee of $1 per hour of riding will be charged.

Riders will be divided into two groups, beginners and intermediate-advanced. Advanced riders will assist the beginners.

Those interested in participating in the program may call Jean Lathlaen, 364 McElwain Hall, before tomorrow, stating their riding experience and whether they have taken riding at the College.

Hat Societies To Hold Rally

Thomas Farrell, president of Androcles, junior men's hat society, announced last night at Hat Society Council that his group is sponsoring a pep rally at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in front of Old Main.

Sam Nowell will emcee the demonstration that will feature the Blue Band, head Lion football Coach "Rip" Engle, and possibly some members of the varsity squad.

James Plyler, president of Hat Council, asked the presidents of the various men's societies to instruct their men to gather at Beaver Field by 12:30 p.m. before the Purdue game in order to help save the hat card section for its occupants.

The group also discussed the possible establishing of another sophomore men's society and a second senior women's group.

Customs Enforcement Group To Distribute Questionnaires

Members of the sophomore class customs enforcement committee will distribute customs questionnaires to freshmen today in conjunction with the Student Government Day exercises.

The examinations are comprised of 25 general questions concerning the identity of administration officials and locations of sites on campus.

Freshmen taking examinations will not be required to put their names on their tests, and individual scores will not be recorded.

According to Thomas Kidd, co-chairman of the enforcement committee, the test is being given in an attempt to measure the true effect of customs.

As a customs innovation for the day, freshmen will be required to know the names of All-College President John Laubach, President of the Association of Independent Men, William Shifflett, and Women's Student Government Association President Joan Hutchon.

James Schulte, co-chairman of the customs board, has asked upperclassmen and women to enforce the custom.

Four Grants Received By College

Four grants, two totalling $20,000 as partial support for projects conducted in Central Extension, and two supporting research in the School of Agriculture, have been received by the College, President Milton S. Eisenhower has announced.

The inter-university education committee has provided $17,500 to continue experimental work begun last year in labor education. The committee, sponsored by the Ford Foundation, is composed of representatives from the College; the Universities of California, Chicago, Wisconsin, and Illinois; Cornell and Rutgers Universities; and Roosevelt College.

Toward support of the Motor Vehicle Fleet supervisor program of the Institute of Public Safety, the American Trucking Association Inc. has contributed $2500.

A grant of $1500 per year for three years from the American Potash Institute Inc. will continue a research fellowship for work on potassium fixation studies of the soil of Pennsylvania. Director of the work will be Dr. Charles D. Jeffries, professor of soil technology.

A research grant of $1000 has been established by the New Holland Machine Division of the Sperry Corp. for a study of methods and equipment needs for pasture renovation and the application of a vertical elevator for filling silos. Prof. A. W. Clyde, acting head of the Department of Agricultural Engineering, will direct the study.

'For the Glory ...'
