

Judge Says Adlai Gave Him $500 Christmas Gift

CHICAGO (AP)—A university law professor whom Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson appointed to the Illinois Supreme Court said yesterday that Stevenson gave him a $500 Christmas check in 1950 while he was serving as non-salaried chairman of the state Little Hoover Committee.

Justice Walter V. Schaefer said he was drawing full salary from Northwestern University while working with the committee that year. But he said the committee work took up so much of his time he had to pass up other non-university work which had been supplementing his salary for "a number of years."

"We (the Schaefer family) took quite a financial licking—we had to sell every defense bond we owned," he said.

LATE FLASH

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's campaign manager said yesterday the Democratic presidential nominee "will have something further to say" about the controversial fund he set up to supplement the pay of Illinois state officials.

Wilson Wyatt, the Stevenson manager, told a news conference about the governor's plans after the camp of his Republican opponent for the presidency, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, had charged that "apparently the Democratic nominee has something to hide" regarding the fund.

Meanwhile, a Chicago insurance executive, Hermon Dunlap Smith, said that "two or three" of Stevenson's close personal friends contributed a total of between $500 to $1000 to the governor's special salary-supplementing fund. Smith said they transmitted the contributions through him because they wanted to "remain impersonal."

Stevenson has said he used the fund to attract certain competent men from private life to lower-paying state jobs. He said his practice is to make gifts, usually around Christmas time to a "small number of key employees who are making sacrifices to stay in state government."

The governor contends it would be "a breach of faith" to name the officials receiving such gifts. He told newsmen in Springfield Wednesday he didn't think he would have anything to say either about making public a list of donors to the fund.

But later the Democratic nominee's campaign manager, Wilson Wyatt, told reporters Stevenson is planning a "further statement" about the pay-supplementing fund. Wyatt added that he did not know its precise nature or when it will be made.

French End Search for Lost Sub

TOULON, France (AP)—The French submarine Sibylle was given up as lost yesterday. The French Navy said it must have burst under terrific pressure during a practice dive, carrying its 48 officers and men to certain death in 2100 feet of water off the Riviera.

The 1000-ton sub made its ill-fated dive Wednesday during French Naval maneuvers in the Mediterranean and never came up again. An intensive air and sea search throughout the night finally was abandoned yesterday after the searchers found a huge oil slick and debris where the vessel submerged, six miles east of Cap Camarat, near the Riviera resort of St. Tropez.

The submarine's safety buoy was found, but the cable by which it was attached to the undersea boat dangled loose in the water—mute evidence that the Sibylle may have dived too deep, burst open before the men could escape and plummeted to the bottom from which it probably never will be salvaged.

HST Wants Reports Of Officials' Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman, declining to be drawn into discussion of the Nixon or Stevenson funds, said yesterday he still thinks all top salaried government officials, including members of Congress, should be required to file full public statements of their income.

The President was asked at his news conference whether he agreed with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee, that Sen. Richard M. Nixon had completely vindicated himself.

Truman said he had no comment. He hadn't heard Nixon's defense, he said.

In response to another question, Truman said reporters would just have to wait and see whether, in the campaign tour he is scheduled to embark upon on Saturday, he touches on the privately-raised expense fund for the California senator who is Eisenhower's running mate.

Truman also had a no comment

Truman Campaign Tour To Cost Party $21,250

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman's 15-day, 24-state whistle stop campaign tour will cost the Democratic National Committee about $21,250, spokesmen said yesterday.

Committee officials said that was a White House estimate based on an average cost of about $2.50 per mile for the 8,500 mile trip. Truman leaves Saturday night to campaign for Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson.

Iran Proposes Oil Settlement

LONDON (AP)—Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadegh has told Britain she must agree to pay 49 million pounds ($137,200,000) in disputed royalties and accept—or reject—within ten days all other proposals for settling the explosive oil row.

The Premier described as final the four counter-proposals delivered Wednesday to Prime Minister Winston Churchill as a reply to the joint offer by Britain and the United States to effect a compromise settlement. A similar message also went to President Truman.

Ike Calls Military Unification Failure

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower opened a blistering attack on the nation's military program tonight in which he called unification of the armed services a virtual failure.

He appeared, also, to have shelved his support of universal military training while the draft is in operation. He charged there is a "famine or feast" policy toward the military which has encouraged a frenzied arms expansion with "disorder and duplication and waste."

Clark Ends Front Line Conferences

SEOUL (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark wound up Thursday a series of secret conferences with his top commanders in Korea and returned to Tokyo.

The United Nations Far East commander, who huddled with his generals and admirals at a time when rain virtually halted war operations, told correspondents the talks were simply for an on-the-spot checkup.

The Communists, however, have been unusually restless recently, staging raids on Allied hill outposts all along the front. Clark said earlier he thought the raids meant merely the Reds were probing for information.

In the rain and mud, the Communists sent out only small patrols Thursday. Two Chinese Red squads forced Puerto Ricans to pull back from a small outpost in the Kelly Hill sector of the Western Front. To the southwest, Allied defenders on Bunker Hill beat off a small probe.

Allied artillery cut up a Chinese company which tested the Republic of Korea Eighth Division northeast of the Punch Bowl, inflicting an estimated 100 casualties.

Heavy rains which lashed the front kept U.S. Sabres grounded. But light bombers made strikes by radar along the front with unassessed results.

Ending a day of whistle-stopping through West Virginia and Maryland, Eisenhower said in a speech prepared for delivery here that real unification of the armed forces has not yet been achieved.

Ike For UMT Before
And he said that so long as there is a draft of young men into the armed services "we cannot at the same time establish any form of training for our young men."

Previously Eisenhower has been an advocate of universal military training and of putting it into effect despite the difficulties involved. This pronouncement seemed to put Eisenhower directly in line with the views that have been expressed by Republican Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio on this subject.

Criticizes Joint Chiefs
Eisenhower's address followed a day-long whistle stop swing down the Potomac River Valley and into Baltimore.

Indirectly but unmistakably, Eisenhower voiced sharp criticism of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which is now headed by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, one of his top commanders in World War II.

Eisenhower said, "Such unity as we have achieved is too much form and too little substance," he declared.
