

College to Host WRA Meeting

The Women's Recreation Association will host delegates from 56 colleges and universities at the Pennsylvania division of the Athletic Federation of College Women's convention to be held Oct. 24-26.

The theme of the convention is "WRA and its Relationship to the College Campus." Convention workshops and workshop leaders at the convention are as follows: co-educational techniques, Harold White; parliamentary procedures, J. F. O'Brien; and publicity techniques, E. L. Matill. Barbara Wallace, convention chairman, announced that all workshops are open to the student body.

The afternoon of Oct. 25 will feature a playday among the 56 colleges at the convention. That evening a formal banquet will be held at the Nittany Lion Inn. Mary Jane Draper, acting head of the Department of Physical Education of Ohio University, will be the guest speaker. Marian Ungar will act as toastmistress at the banquet, while pianist Robert Klug and the Jim Show quartet will entertain.

Following the banquet, a mixer will be held in the Sigma Pi fraternity house. Jack Jenkins and his orchestra will provide music for dancing. The mixer is also open to all students, Miss Wallace said.

Mabel Marple, president of WRA, also serves as president of the PDAFCW. Committees for the convention include Gwen Griffith, publicity and registration; Nancy Lusk, banquet; Virginia Hinner, housing; Jane Whitney and Patricia Colgan, playday; Carol Avery and Eleanor Gwynn, mixer; Jane Larpenteur, correspondence; Margaret Lamaster, general program set-up; Miss Marple, business program; and Jane Bianco, information.

Women to Play Role Of Florists for 'Drag'

Women students will have a chance to play the role of florists when they make novelty corsages for their dates for the Dungere Drag, an annual informal girl-ask-boy affair sponsored by Cwens, sophomore women's activities honorary.

In the past corsages have ranged from plain leaves to elaborate fruit displays. The ten most original and unusual corsages worn will warrant prizes.

The dance is scheduled from 9 p.m. to midnight Oct. 11 in Recreation Hall. Proceeds from the affair will go toward scholarships for sophomore women in need of financial aid. Last year's Drag proceeds provided three such scholarships.

Baylee Friedman, chairman, announced that tickets, priced at $1.50 per couple, are now available from active members of Cwens. Tickets will also go on sale Monday at the Student Union desk in Old Main, and at stands in front of the Carnegie Hall bulletin board, the West Dormitory area, and the Corner Room.

Cider and pretzels will be served free, and Jack Huber and his orchestra will provide the music.
