STATE COLLEGE, PA., TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 7, 1952

FIVE CENTS

Ratio Rises With 11,460 Enrollment

Fall enrollment figures released yesterday by C. O. Williams, registrar, list a total 11,460 students. Of these, there are 8584 men and 2876 women, a ratio of 3.01 men to each woman.

This represents a slight increase in the ratio which was 2.91 to 1 last semester.

This total includes 10,159 undergraduates, 1374 graduate students, and 227 special students.

There are 7656 male and 2509 female undergraduates. The ratio of men to women undergraduates is 3.10 to 1. In the graduate school, 1152 men and 222 women are enrolled. There are 76 men and 151 women special students.

Enrollments Listed

The School of Liberal Arts has the largest number of students registered, 2603. This includes 1856 men and 747 women. The smallest enrollment, 268, is listed for the School of Physical Education, and includes 144 men and 124 women.

Enrollment totals listed for other schools are Agriculture, 1410 total, 1291 men and 119 women; Chemistry and Physics, 763,696 men and 67 women; Education, 1148, 404 men and 744 women; Engineering, 943, 928 men and 15 women; Home Economics, 743, 142 men and 601 women; Mineral Industries, 473, 471 men and two women; and the Division of Intermediate Registration, 506, 424 men and 84 women.

Men Outnumber Women

The highest ratio is found in the School of Mineral Industries, 235.5 to 1. In two schools women outnumber the men. These are the School of Home Economics where there are 4.23 women to every man, and the School of Education, 1.84 to 1.

In the remaining schools, men outnumber women. In the School of Agriculture the ratio is 10.19 to 1; Education, 1.84 to 1; Engineering, 61.8 to 1; Liberal Arts, 2.48 to 1; Physical Education, 1.16 to 1; and the Division of Intermediate Registration, 3.10 to 1.

Young GOP's Sponsor Club

The Penn State Young Republican Club will assist in organizing a Centre County Young Republican Club at 8 tonight in the county court house at Bellefonte.

The local group and the Centre County Republican committee are sponsoring the new club. The meeting will be open to students and persons living in town, Benjamin Sinclair, president of the local organization, said.

Bursar Reports Fees Paid by 95%

More than 95 per cent of students have completed payment of fall semester fees, according to David C. Hogan, bursar.

Hogan complimented the students on their prompt payments and said this was "the best year ever."

He attributed much of the success to a summary of fees which was distributed in the dormitories at the beginning of the semester.

Students who have not yet paid their fees will be charged $1 per day for each day until a total of $10 is reached. This sum will be added to the fees.

Yankees Beat Bums; Series Goes the Limit

BROOKLYN—Vic Raschi and Allie Reynolds double teamed Brooklyn with an 11 strike-out job today to send this homer happy World Series into a seventh game with a 3-2 New York Yankee victory.

Two tremendous home runs by Duke Snider weren't enough to match the desperate Yanks who fought back to tie the series for the third time.

Sparks, Willard Study Rooms List Posted

Lists of empty rooms in Sparks Building and Willard Hall to be used for studying during sandwich hours will be posted today by Douglas Schoerke, Liberal Arts Student Council president.

The lists, which were compiled by Philip Greenberg, were presented at the council meeting last night. The list of available rooms in Sparks will be posted in the first floor lobby.

The Willard list will be posted in the south end of the basement.

Marion Morgan was elected secretary-treasurer of the council and Lenore Kahanowitz was appointed junior member to replace Ann Quigley who left school. Miss Kahanowitz had the highest number of votes among the junior losers in the spring elections.

Richard Kirschner will head a committee to study a faculty evaluation program for the Liberal Arts school. Other members of the group include Carol Adler, John Carpenter, Otto Hetzel, Watson Leese, Kathrine Reynolds, and Donald Seigle.

Greenberg was appointed chairman of a committee to work out a vocational guidance program. Walter Back, Larry Gedrich, Donna Symonds, and Bruce Wagner will assist him.

George Allison and Eliza Newell will work on a plan to have representatives from different clubs affiliated with the school speak to the council.

Schoerke, William Slepik, council parliamentarian, and Back will rewrite the council constitution.

Radio Recruits to Meet

Students interested in the technical and programming aspects of a campus radio station will meet to organize a committee at 7 tonight in 204 Old Main.

Ticket Forms For Penn Game Due Tomorrow

Student ticket applications for the Penn State-University of Pennsylvania football game must be mailed to the Penn State Athletic Association 6:30 a.m. tomorrow to 5 p.m. Thursday according to Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics.

No applications postmarked earlier than 6:30 a.m. tomorrow will be accepted, however. Special delivery orders will not be accepted.

Checks or money orders must be drawn payable to the Penn State Athletic Association and for the exact amount of the purchase, he said. Checks and money orders must have the student's address, he added.

May Sit in Groups

Tickets cost $3.90 and $2.60 each. If the demand for tickets in a particular price range should exceed the supply, the Athletic Association reserves the right to substitute tickets in the remaining price bracket or to make all necessary refunds.

Students who wish to attend the game as a group should pin applications together. One check or money order can be sent to cover more than one application.

Tickets will be distributed from 8:30 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 23 and 24 at the Athletic Association ticket office windows in Old Main. Athletic Association books must be presented at distribution. Signatures on the books must match those on applications submitted. One person may pick up a group of tickets if he has the books for ticket identification, Gilbert said.

Plan To Avoid Line

The game will be played Nov. 1 at Franklin Field in Philadelphia. It was explained by the committee on seating arrangements that this system was set up in order to avoid the line that formed in 1948. At this time a line was formed from Old Main to Cook's restaurant (now the Dutch Pantry).

Maurice Grosser To Discuss Art

Maurice Grosser, artist and author, will speak on "Art, Money, and Painting" at 8 tonight in 121 Sparks. His lecture will be the first in a series sponsored by the division of fine and applied arts of the Department of Architecture, and is open to the public.

Grosser, whose works have been exhibited in The Hague, Amsterdam, and Paris, has pictures in the permanent collection of the Museum of Modern Art in New York. He is the author of two books, "Painting in Public" and "The Painter's Eye."

Appointment of Lawther Approved by Trustees

Appointment of John D. Lawther to the newly created post of assistant dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics in charge of resident instruction was approved Friday by the executive committee of the Board of Trustees.

The position was created to consolidate and strengthen the administrative functions of the school, according to Ernest B. McCoy, dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics.

McCoy added that the position was created to lay the groundwork for more efficient operation in academic fields.

Lawther will assume his duties immediately.

Serving for 13 years as head basketball coach, Lawther resigned in 1949 to devote his full time to teaching.

Last year he took a six-month leave to tour Mexico as a teacher-coach for the National Sports Federation. An evening school, founded at Orizaba and dedicated to the fundamentals of basketball, was named in his honor.

During this period "Psychology of Coaching," a physical education textbook written by Lawther, was published.

Lawther was graduated from Westminster College in 1919 and returned to his alma mater in 1926. During the interval following graduation from Westminster, he taught and coached at high schools in Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York. He came to the College in 1936.

IFC Bans Fraternities' Early Bids

Freshmen and new students were warned yesterday not to pledge or accept bids for fraternity houses for next semester until the official pledging dates are announced by Interfraternity Council.

IFC president Arthur Rosfeld said that students cannot accept bids for next semester until freshman grades are released. He added that houses cannot legally extend bids until that time.

Rosfeld explained that the fraternity rushing program was not one of "first come-first serve." He urged freshmen to visit as many of the 52 Penn State fraternities as they could before deciding which house to pledge. Houses which extend premature bids are houses that must do so without competition to fill their quotas before the legal pledging period begins, he said.

The IFC has set up a committee which will contact all freshmen and new students this semester, asking them to list their fraternity preference. The program will get underway Oct. 15 when the magazine "Penn State Fraternities" is sent to all frosh and new students with the preferential cards. The student will be contacted by that fraternity and rushed.

Rosfeld added that if a house is really interested in a student, that student will receive a bid during the legal pledging period and not prematurely.

4 WD Students Named to AIM

Richard Acciavatti, Robert Hance, Robert James, and Andrew Jaros were selected last night by the West Dormitory Council as temporary representatives to the Association of Independent Men Board of Governors which meets tomorrow.

These men were chosen according to council's decision to send the four members with the highest class standing to the AIM meeting.

Elections were scheduled for the next meeting to be held Monday night, after a motion to hold elections during last night's meeting was declared unconstitutional. The council constitution provides that officers be elected "within two weeks following the first meeting."

342 Will Receive Skin Tests Today

A mass injection will be conducted today for the 342 students who failed to complete their skin tests, Dr. Herbert R. Glenn, director of College Health Service, has announced.

These students are to report from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. to the dispensary, 3 Old Main, for injections. They will report Thursday for the test reading.

Students who fail to complete the skin test will be excluded from classes and fined, Dr. Glenn said.
