

Reds Bare Might In Korea, Germany

'Human Sea' Reds Attack For 2d Night

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Chinese Red infantry assaults, pounding in "human sea" waves for the second straight night, breached Allied hill defenses guarding Chorwon on the Korean Western Front early today.

Seven outlying hill positions along the 100 miles of blazing battle line fell at the first onslaught by 15,000 Chinese in the biggest Red attacks in more than a year, according to reports at Eighth Army Headquarters.

Allied infantrymen counter-attacked early today in an effort to seal off the Chinese penetration into Allied positions on White Horse Mountain. This height, northwest of Chorwon, is one of two commanding the approaches to the main road to Seoul.

Dominate Iron Triangle
The Reds directed the main weight of their limited offensive at White Horse and nearby Arrowhead Ridges, which anchor the Chorwon pivot of the main Allied lines. Tanks and roaring artillery barrages supported the surging Reds.

The hill positions dominate the western edge of the old Communist Iron Triangle, some 20 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

Allied planes throughout the battle were stacked up waiting their turn to blast the enemy in the west.

Reds Lose 1300
Hundreds of dead Chinese littered the battlefields.

Preliminary estimates placed Red losses at 1300 dead on White Horse and neighboring Arrowhead Ridge, and hundreds more elsewhere along the front. Allied casualties were not given.

Throughout the night fighting, Allied flare planes circled the battlefield, lighting up the area with an eerie glow. B26 light bombers hit hard just behind the Red lines.

Communist artillery fire thundered along the entire front. It reached a crescendo when more than 11,000 fell on a single Allied division west of Chorwon, which is 45 miles north of Seoul.

On the Eastern Front, the Reds forced U.N. troops off an advance position west of the Mundung Valley.

Lewis Airs Opposition To Taft, Ike

CINCINNATI (AP) — John L. Lewis thundered disapproval of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) last night and said he couldn't see how anyone could vote for a man "whom Taft may lead around by the collar."

The nearly 3000 delegates attending the opening sessions of the 41st union convention of the United Mine Workers took this as an expression from the veteran union leader against Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee whom Taft is supporting.

Lewis failed to mention Eisenhower by name, however, and did not express a preference between the GOP standard bearer and Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, the Democratic nominee.

"Some more of Taft later, perhaps," Lewis promised the wildly cheering delegates, "and those who look through the same gun barrel as Taft at the problems of the laboring people and the workers of this country."

Lewis may follow the AFL and CIO in coming out flatly for Stevenson before the end of the 10-day miners convention, the union's first conclave in four years. It seemed clear from what he said previously, however, that Lewis personally was opposed to Eisenhower in the coming election.

A message from Gov. Stevenson, saying he was unable to attend the miners' convention and expressing "personal greetings and best wishes," was read to the delegates.

250,000 March For President Of Soviet Union

BERLIN (AP)—Communist East Germany showed a sample of its potential armed might yesterday for a beaming Russian, Soviet President Nikolai M. Shvernik.

In cold, drizzly weather, a quarter of a million men, women and youngsters marched past Shvernik with fists clenched in the air and shouting the praises of Red Russia.

Scattered through the legions were units of the new Soviet zone armed forces, including an air corps.

Highest Rank To Visit
The occasion was the third anniversary of the Communist regime, known as the German Democratic Republic, which rules the 18 million Germans living in the area from the Elbe to the Oder.

Shvernik is the highest ranking Russian to visit Berlin since Prime Minister Stalin came here for the Potsdam Pact in 1945. Shvernik arrived only Sunday night, without previous fanfare. His presence proved how important the Russians regard their fledgling East German satellite in view of the current Soviet party rally being held in Moscow. Stalin sent greetings to the East Germans.

Army To Reach 375,000
The German Reds used the parade to display for the first time how Russianized their new armed forces have grown.

The People's Army, expected to reach 375,000 men next year, was represented by a 4000-man regiment in brand new uniforms. There was nothing German about them. The stiff shoulder boards of the Soviet Army have now been adopted by the East Germans. The soft black boots of the Russians were in evidence everywhere. The old German peaked cap was replaced by the Russian visor job.

Adlai, HST, Ike In Nationwide Talks

DETROIT (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson questioned last night whether Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is seriously interested in rooting the Reds out of government—or only in "scaring the American people to get votes."

The Democratic presidential nominee said in an address prepared for delivery at a rally in Masonic Temple that his GOP rival "has offered only thundering silence about a cure" for the disease of communism. The Democrats, he said, have a record of fighting Communism for 20 years with programs that were "ridiculed and sabotaged" by the Republican Old Guard.

In a prelude to a campaign swing into Wisconsin today, Stevenson also bitterly scolded Wisconsin GOP Sen. Joseph McCarthy as a noisy child who has produced little but loud talk in a controversial campaign against Red penetration of government.

But it was mainly at Eisenhower that the Illinois governor threw a stepped up, day-long attack. He started in at Saginaw shortly after noon, accusing the general of giving comfort to the Soviets by calling American prosperity a war prosperity.

HST Hits Principles

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN (AP)

—President Truman accused Gen. Dwight Eisenhower yesterday of betraying his life long principles and his best friend by embracing "moral pigmies" such as Republican Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and Sen. William E. Jenner.

Tearing up completely his "I like Ike, but—" approach, Truman voiced open contempt for Eisenhower's support of the Wisconsin and Indiana senators who have bitterly assailed former Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

The President acknowledged he once qualified Eisenhower for the presidency. But he said the GOP presidential nominee has brought about "a great disenchantment" and "I am now convinced that I was absolutely wrong."

Specifically Truman charged that Eisenhower has betrayed his principles and his supporters by adopting "reactionary" views on foreign policy and national defense.

"But worst of all," Truman said in a speech prepared for a train side crowd at Colorado Springs, is the general's declared support for every Republican candidate, "whether that man is the blackest of reactionaries, a die hard isolationist or even a moral scoundrel."

It was at this point that he lit into Eisenhower for failing, the President said, to defend his

ABOARD THE EISENHOWER SPECIAL (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said yesterday "we must keep the long nose of government out of private business."

Speaking before a packed house of 5500 people in the Portland, Ore., Civic Auditorium, Eisenhower called for a decentralization of control over business and the economic life of the country.

He said it is a Communist idea that a highly centralized government alone can handle the economic functions of a nation.

"Four-Dollar Word"
"They call it a dictatorship of the proletariat," the GOP presidential candidate told his audience.

"But to most Americans, a dictatorship is a dictatorship no matter what four dollar word you put behind it."

"Isn't that something," Eisenhower exclaimed when told that President Truman has said the general "betrayed every principle about our foreign policy and national defense that I thought he believed in."

Corruption 'International'
He said "not now," when reporters asked him for comment. "What about tonight?" they asked. Eisenhower replied, "I don't know."

Corruption in the government of the United States, he said, has become an international issue, loaded with dynamite.

He called for a change of administration to restore America's influence abroad, and told his audiences it will take 30 million votes to unseat the Democrats. This is eight million more than the Republicans received four years ago, when President Truman defeated Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for the presidency. The GOP polled 21,991,290 in 1948.

Both parties are expecting a heavy vote in November, but this was the first time Eisenhower has said the Republicans need 30 million to win. He bid for support from independents and disgruntled Democrats in citing this figure.

The general closed a campaign sweep through the Pacific Northwest today with a series of talks in Washington and Oregon.
