ing served as a captain in the U.S. Army coast and field artillery from 1941 to 1946. He saw action in the Philippines and Okinawa.

"Living in State College is very enjoyable," said Simes, who resides with his wife at 110 E. McCormick street. "I grew up in a small town, Brockport, N.Y., and I like the atmosphere of a small town. It's more friendly, with less confusion and hustle-bustle."

He pursues his favorite recreation, golf, at the Centre Hills Country Club. He said he usually scores in the high 80's, while his best score is 85. He also attends the Presbyterian Church in State College.

Likes to Fish

Asked his favorite hobby, Simes replied, "My wife and I are embryo antique collectors. We attend auction sales around the county to buy early American pieces and refinish them, especially cherrywood. We're not so interested in antiquity as we are in appearance."

Other "likes" of the new dean of men are freshwater fishing in Canada, reading historical novels, traveling through the United States, symphonies by Beethoven and Bach, plays at Center Stage, and College sports events.

He is a graduate of the University of Michigan; member of Phi Kappa Sigma, social fraternity; Phi Delta Kappa, professional education fraternity; Psi Chi, psychology recognition society; and the American College Personnel Association.

He received his M.A. in education from New York State College for Teachers, and his doctor of education degree from Penn State. His wife, the former Mary Alice Stever, of Honeoye Falls, N.Y., attended the College.

Pennsylvania is first in production of cobalt ore, enameled sanitary ware, slate, and mineral pigments.

Motorcade Has One Registrant to Date

Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Chi Omega have combined to become the only registrant for the competitive motorcade to be held Saturday before the Homecoming football game, George Donovan, director of Student Union, announced yesterday.

Fred M. Coombs, chairman of the Pennsylvania Week committee, said the Student Union desk in Old Main has not been accepting nominations due to a misunderstanding. The misunderstanding is now corrected, he said. The deadline for entries in the motorcade, sponsored by the Pennsylvania Week committee, is 5 p.m. Thursday.

Floats entered in the motorcade will follow the Pennsylvania Week theme, "Pennsylvania Defends Freedom." No horse or tractor-drawn floats will be permitted on the Beaver Field track. Cars, trucks, or trailers are acceptable, Coombs said.

There will be no limit to the amount of funds an organization may spend on individual floats. People and animals may be used.

Floats must be assembled in the Hort Woods parking lot by 11 a.m. Saturday, Coombs said. The motorcade will leave the parking area at 12:15 p.m., and circle the field once. All floats must be off the track by 1:10 p.m.

In case of inclement weather, floats will not be permitted on the Beaver Field track, Coombs said. The motorcade will leave Hort Woods parking lot at 11:15 a.m., and parade on College avenue and the campus.

Criteria for judging will be appropriateness to the theme, originality, eye-catching appeal, beauty, amount, and quality of work involved, and general artistic worth, Coombs added.

Philip X. Rice, associate professor of electrical engineering, will be marshal for the parade.

Pollock to Appoint Committee Chairmen

Pollock Council will meet at 6:30 tonight in Nittany Dorm 20 to appoint chairmen of standing committees and representatives-at-large to the AIM Board of Governors.

With the value of her mineral production running well over a billion dollars annually, Pennsylvania ranks second only to Texas in mineral production.

PSCA to Discuss Election Issues

The Penn State Christian Association will hold the second in its series of discussion programs on the coming national elections at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 304 Old Main.

Three professors from the Political Science department will be featured in a panel, discussion about party stands on important election issues. Dr. Elton Atwater will speak about foreign affairs, Dr. John H. Ferguson will discuss business, and Dr. Neal Riemer will speak about employment.

David Lewis, chairman, will conduct worship services.

An informal open discussion will follow the panel.
