

Leis Will Sing At Autumn Ball

By HELEN LUYBEN

Casey might waltz with a strawberry blond at the Autumn Ball, but one particular strawberry blond, Pat Leis, will be much too busy vocalizing to Jack Huber's music to do much dancing. Without too much exaggeration it may be said that Pat will be making about her millionth appearance behind the mike when she plays thrush for the Association of Independent Men-Leonides

Philotes Votes To Contribute To Lion Fund

Philotes, independent women's social organization, voted to contribute $5 to the "Dress the Lion" campaign at its meeting Monday night.

Philotes also voted to send women to work with the Penn State Christian Association's bandage-rolling project each Tuesday afternoon. Joan Graaf was placed in charge of scheduling women to help each week.

The group discussed plans for pledging new members in two weeks. All women interested in joining Philotes who attended the meeting were assigned big sisters. Arlene Borneman, president, announced that any woman interested in Philotes is invited to attend the organization's meeting next Monday night.

The group also discussed plans for an alumni dance Nov. 18 and publication of "The Link," a paper which would inform alumni of activities of Philotes and other campus organizations.

350 Couples Attend Drag

Approximately 350 couples decked in blue jeans attended the Dungerees Drag, sponsored, by Cywen's, sophomore women's activities honorary, Saturday night.

Arthur Stone, wearing the prize-winning corsage prepared by his date, Emily Maitresse, was awarded a pair of dungerees. The corsage, consisting of circus features, was dubbed "The Greatest Show on Earth." Nine other couples were awarded prizes for their corsages.

Proceeds, which net close to $250, will go toward the presentation of scholarships for sophomore women as well as support of a Dutch war orphan.

PSCA Will Sponsor Election Issues Panel

A panel of three professors from the Political Science department will discuss issues of the coming presidential election at a meeting of the Penn State Christian Association at 7 tonight in 304 Old Main.

Dr. Elton Atwater will speak on foreign affairs, Dr. John H. Ferguson will speak on business, and Dr. Neal Riemer will discuss employment.

Air ROTC Conference

Dr. George L. Haller, dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics, and Lt. Col. Jack W. Dieterle, professor of air science, will participate in the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps orientation conference to be held at the Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala., today.

dance from 9 p.m. to midnight Saturday in Recreation Hall.

A senior in home economics, Pat started singing with her sister "mostly for church functions" in her home town of Rockton. From her first solo as a high school sophomore she did an imitation of Betty Hutton, she says.

Pat advanced from high school dance bands to college orchestras.

Her biggest thrill came in 1951 when she was asked to sing for the coronation of Miss Penn State during Spring Week as a sophomore. President Milton S. Eisenhower requested the song she sang in Schwab Auditorium.

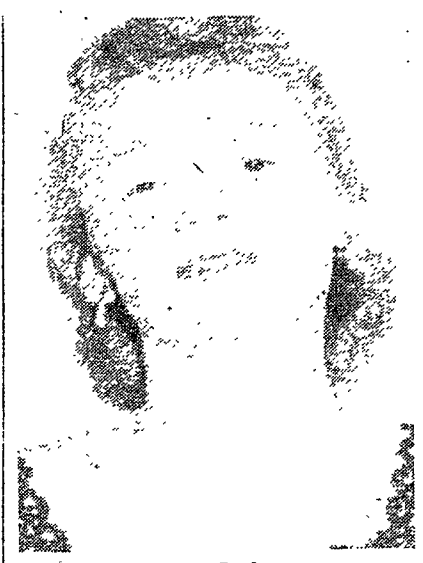

That same week Pat did a Saturday morning breakfast show, broadcast from the Corner Room over WMAJ.

Pat has sung with the Army Taylor, Skip Reider, and Dale Clemens dance orchestra and has appeared in two Thespian shows, "Some Punkins" and "Anything Goes." She placed second in one of the weekly talent contests held at the Cathaum theater two years ago, and entered the finals.

If you missed seeing her at all these places, you may have glimpsed her through the crowds or at least heard her singing at the Harvest Ball last year, at the jam sessions at the TUB, or the AIM-Leonides Mixer for the frosh during Orientation Week, or the Kickoff Dance this year.

She's done a mighty lot of singing for a girl who contends she'll never become a professional who sings simply because "It's fun to sing." She does admit very shyly, that if she should ever sing professionally, she'd like to make recordings. But she wanted it stressed that this was a "very secret ambition."

Autumn Ball Thrush

Pat Leis

Graduate Students Plan Discussions

A group of 31 graduate students from more than 12 countries met Monday night at the Penn State Christian Association to organize an international student club.

This group, according to Mary Jane Wyland, program coordinator of the PSCA, is interested in joining with more American graduate students to sponsor a series of bi-weekly meetings at which they will discuss matters of an educational, religious, and sociological nature.

These meetings will be open to the public. The group will meet again in two weeks to make further plans.

Co-Edits

Chi Omega

New initiates of Chi Omega are Carole Avery, Edith Burt, Constance Collin, Shelia Craig, Tracey Cushman, Lillian Duvall, Neida Fralich, Jane Lewis, Beverly Masters, Jean Marohnic, Nancy McBride, Barbara Rollo, Gail Smith, Mary Selig, and Nancy White.

At the initiation Sunday, Carole Avery was announced model pledge.

Zeta Tau Alpha

Zeta Tau Alpha held a slumber party for its new ribbonees last week. The ribbonees were pledged Sunday and sorority members attended Chapel.

Those pledged are Arlene Borgeson, Dorothea Ebert, Nancy Goodfriend, Grace Hampel, Virginia Harris, Nancy Hecks, Mary Loubris, Norma Reck, Evelyn Riegel, Marjorie Seymour, Anita Slomanson, and Elizabeth Stokes.

Alpha Phi Delta

Alpha Phi Delta recently initiated Donald Civitella and Russell DiMarco.

Aye See

The local alumnae club of Pi Beta Phi entertained the Aye See colony of Pi Beta Phi with a buffet dinner at the home of Mrs. Milton S. Eisenhower Monday. A get-acquainted period with the singing of Pi Phi songs followed the dinner.

Delta Sigma Phi

Delta Sigma Phi has initiated Robert Campolongo, Rudolph Dutzman, John Freed, John Hampford, Jerome Harrington, Richard Kepple, Thomas Lozaw, Paul Mastroocco, Kenneth McGuire, Courtney McMahon, Charles Myers, Thomas Poslosky, Russell Provenzano, Leonard Ruzko, James Seton, and William Sidorow.

Finns Think Fork Needs Knife's Aid

By HELEN LUYBEN

Did you know the Finns eat with both knife and fork and think it highly rude to use just the fork, holding it in the right hand?

"Why, it is not done in Finland—only very small children of pre-school age eat with the fork in their right hand," Mrs. Kirsti-Liisa Cronhjort, here from Helsinki to study methods of business education in the United States, explained recently.

Senate To Discuss Frosh Fee

Women's Student Government Association Senate will vote on the proposed freshmen assessment for LaVie at its meeting at 6:30 tonight in the WSGA room in White Hall.

The proposal, passed at the first reading in All-College Cabinet, asks that freshmen be assessed $2 per semester as are the other classes.

Senate will also discuss a proposal that $200 be allocated to the Chess Club for expenses in intercollegiate competition. The motion was tabled in accordance with the All-College constitution concerning allocations over $100.

Judicial's recommendation that junior women receive six 11 o'clocks per semester instead of four and that senior women receive eight instead of four 11 o'clocks will be up for final vote tonight. It was passed at the first reading last week.

In an attempt to get the senators' view-points on the proposed senior women's activities honorary society, a discussion on it will be held.

Suggestions for songs on the Mardi Gras theme will be presented. They will be sung at the all-College sing Nov. 9 in Schwab Auditorium. It will be led by Hummel Fishburn, head of the Music department, and Frank Guillo, professor of music.

Applications Are Due Friday for Blue Key

Blue Key, junior men's hat society, will receive applications for fall tapping until 5 p.m. Friday at the Student Union desk in Old Main. Fourth and fifth semester students with a 1:0 all-College average are eligible for membership.

Applicants will be screened on a point system according to extra-curricular activities, Edwin Kohn, Blue Key president, announced.

Ed Honorary to Meet

Kappa Phi Kappa, men's education honorary, will hold its orientation meeting at 7:30 tonight in 204 Burrowes. Cards have been sent to those qualified to attend the meeting.

"I tried at first to use just a fork as you do, but I have given up. I must use both a fork, held in the left hand, and a knife in the right hand, with which to put the food on the fork."

Like McElwain

It is also considered very improper to transfer the fork to the right hand to put food in the mouth. Mrs. Cronhjort explained that she cuts a piece of meat, then puts small portions of potatoes and vegetables on it with the knife, and eats everything in one bite.

Mrs. Cronhjort and Maija-Liisa Ahtela, a horticulture teacher who is also here to observe American teaching methods, are living in McElwain Hall for the semester. "We would like to stay here longer," Mrs. Cronhjort said. "It's a first-class hotel. We are very happy, and the girls are lovely."

But the women are getting too much to eat, they say. They are accustomed to just one meal a day, in the evening, with just a piece of bread and coffee for breakfast and lunch.

Government Sponsors Trips

In Finland one just doesn't end a meal with a glass of milk, either. When milk is served, it is always taken at the start of the meal. Another custom in the country is for salt-fish, usually herring, to start the meal each day. The Finns have more starches, of course, as vegetables and fruit are very expensive. Yet the women had never tasted sweet potatoes or squash before eating them at McElwain.

The United States government finances these trips for 70 to 80 persons from Finland each year.

"Finland has been the only country to pay back its war loan, and your country is using this money to bring persons over here to study," Mrs. Cronhjort explained.

The women were surprised to see so many automobiles in America, too. "We have just a small number in Finland and hardly any American cars," she said. "We call the American cars 'dollar-smiles,' because it takes so many dollars to buy one in Finland and the grills in front look like big, broad smiles."

Dance Applications

Students applications are being accepted at Student Union for the South American dancing class sponsored by Interfraternity Council. The class, which will start Monday, will be taught by Rosario de Murillo, Bolivian student. A $1 fee will be charged.

The TAVERN

ITALIAN SPAGHETTI
with MEAT SAUCE

MIXED SEAFOOD PLATTER

BEEF MARZETTI

CALF'S LIVER & ONIONS

PRIME SIRLOIN
STEAKS

Be Neat, be vogue; be the envy of your roommate

Own a Penn State Book Shelf

Blue and White, 12 and 18 inches long

Reduced to 79c and 89c

Get yours, right on campus, at the BX in the TUB

$5 in Sales, you get $1.00 FREE

OPEN DAILY 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m.
OPEN TONIGHT AND EVERY WED., 7 - 9 p.m.

PENN STATE BOOK EXCHANGE

Non-Profit — Student Operated — School Supply Store

GET YOUR TICKET
TODAY FOR THE
FIRST ALL-COLLEGE DANCE OF
THE YEAR. THE ...

Autumn Ball

THIS SATURDAY NIGHT

REG HALL - 9 to 12

Jack Huber's Orchestra

TICKETS . . . $2.00

REFRESHMENTS — INFORMAL

Don't Miss It!