First semester freshmen may nominate themselves for school council elections from Tuesday to Saturday, according to Lincoln Warrell, Interschool Council Board president.

To get his name on the ballot for any of the eight school council elections, a student must sign a list for nominations in his school. These lists will be posted in various classroom buildings.

COME TO CHURCH

In contrast to the Marxist conception of "religion as an opiate," the monotheistic religions to which we adhere constitute a challenge to the personal integrity, social conscience and intellectual curiosity of every truly religious person. Our religions demand that we strive for self-improvement in every way possible; that we seek to apply in a practical way the ideals of religion to overcome the ills of modern society; and that we educate ourselves in the traditions and the fundamental concepts of our respective religions. These three requirements are three marks not only of a religious person, but of a wholesome and integrated personality.
