STATE COLLEGE, PA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 22, 1952

FIVE CENTS

Class Queen Entries Due On Monday

Entries for Miss Junior Class may be submitted from 8 a.m. today until noon Monday at the Student Union desk in Old Main, Irvin White, selection committee chairman, has announced.

Photographs may be 5 by 7 or 8 by 10 inches. The name and address of the entrant and the sponsor's name should be placed on the back of each photograph.

Entries for Miss Junior Class may be sponsored by groups or individuals. Contest rules require that entrants be regularly matriculated juniors at the College.

Fifteen outstanding juniors have been named to a committee to select ten Miss Junior Class finalists. They are David Arnold, Marilyn Buzby, Robert Carruthers, Margaret Crooks, Thomas Farrell, Martha Heckman, Donald Herbein, David Jones, Edwin Kohn, Richard Lemyre, Gerald Maurey, Beverly Morgan, Nancy D. White, Marian Ungar, and Chairman White.

The committee will interview contest entrants, narrowing the field to ten finalists. Finalists and the selection committee will be introduced at "Junior Varieties," junior class talent show, Nov. 12.

White has announced that balloting for the selection of Miss Junior Class from the ten finalists will be conducted Nov. 12 and 13 at the Student Union desk. He explained that fifth and sixth semester students may vote at that time by presenting matriculation cards.

Hat Council Rejects Soph Men's Society

Hat Society Council voted last night to defeat the proposed sophomore men's hat society and organized a committee to draw up a tentative constitution for a senior women's hat society.

James Plyler, council president, said a definite vote regarding the senior women's society will not be taken until further recommendations are made by the committee.

In previous meetings, Blue Key, Androcles, and Skull and Bones opposed the sophomore society, which would tap outstanding freshman men. Council suggested freshman men be recognized by Druids, sophomore men's hat society for athletes, but Druids protested it would be impossible to change the tapping procedure of their charter.

Druids volunteered to sponsor a pep rally tomorrow night before the football team leaves for Michigan State.

A discussion was held concerning hatmen forming an honor guard at the game with the University of Pennsylvania. Action was tabled until next week. Women's hat societies turned down the suggestion that hatwomen should participate in the honor guard at home football games.

Radio Guild to Meet

The Radio Guild will meet at 7 tonight in 304 Sparks. A series of meetings will be held concerning phases of acting, producing, continuity, and announcing. Studio shows will be produced later in the workshop program.

Didn't Hurt a Bit

MRS. HELEN SHAFER, assistant chief nurse of the Bloodmobile unit at the TUB yesterday, shows Charles Brouse, a College employee, the pint of blood he has just donated. About 115 State College residents, College employees, and students gave blood yesterday.

Lion to Dress Well Next Year on $500

Penn State's Lion won't need to be ashamed of himself next year. He'll have a new suit to wear.

Contributions made to the Lion suit fund yesterday have brought the total to $500 and, according to Arthur Rosfeld, Interfraternity Council president, IFC will donate whatever more is needed to purchase the new suit.

A collection sponsored by the West Dorm Council netted $79.79, Nittany Dorm 26 contributed $2.75. Approximately $24 more has been received from fraternities where Androcles hatmen solicited during their "Dress the Lion Day" drive Oct. 9. The drive netted a total of $131.55, including $32.70 from campus and Corner Room booths and $98.85 from fraternities.

The selling of men's kits in fraternity houses by IFC provided a fund from which the money for a new suit may be taken, Rosfeld said. If the total collected during the drive is not sufficient, IFC will make up the difference in cost, Rosfeld explained.

The exact cost of the new suit is not known, but, according to Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics, the quality of the suit will be determined by the amount of money collected.

A new custom-made suit may be ordered in December, Gilbert said. After football season, the old suit will be sent to the designer in order that he may examine the most-worn parts. This should enable him to make a better suit, Gilbert explained.

The present suit was purchased two years ago for $400. It will take at least three months to have a new suit made.

Violators Fined By Tribunal

Twelve students were fined last night by Tribunal, men's judiciary committee, for violations of campus parking regulations. Five $1 fines were collected, seven $1 fines were suspended, and two cases were dismissed after warnings.

John Donnal, treasurer, warned students that disregarding postal cards instructing them to appear before Tribunal would be taken into consideration when they appear. If the cards are continually ignored, the cases may be turned over to the dean of men's office, he said.

Suspended fines will be invoked upon the occurrence of a second offense, it was announced. First offenders were warned any second offense would be handled more severely by the group.

State Week Group To Plan for 1953

Suggestions for Pennsylvania Week activities for 1953 will be discussed at a meeting of the joint student, faculty, and staff Pennsylvania Week committee at 4 today in 201 Old Main, Fred M. Coombs, chairman, has announced.

The committee will review activities of this year's celebration and will make recommendations. Plans for activities that can be integrated into the programs of participating organizations will be discussed.

Formation of New AIM Board Seen

Possible formation of an independent board of control will be discussed by the Association of Independent Men's Board of Governors at 8 tonight in 102 Willard.

William Shifflett, AIM president who announced the meeting, said the board may also discuss and take action on the Recreation Hall seating plan.

If formed, the board of control will operate similar to the Interfraternity Council board of control. The AIM board would have charge of discipline problems and activities of the independent groups somewhat the same as the IFC board has over the fraternity groups.

The AIM Board of Control was suggested at the first annual Student Encampment held Sept. 4 to 6 at the Mont Alto Forestry School.

The board of control would relieve the administration of many of the activity and disciplinary problems of independent groups, Shifflett said.

The seating plan, suggested by Dean Ernest B. McCoy of the School of Physical Education and Athletics, would provide for 300 seats to be set aside in Rec Hall at indoor sports events for townspeople, alumni, faculty members and others. These tickets would be sold by the College.

At present 150 tickets are distributed through the players. This plan and another, one

Talks, Forums Mark Opening Of IFC Workshop

By CHUCK OBERTANCE

Dinner-meetings, brief talks by faculty and administrative personnel, and question-answer discussions at ten fraternities last night opened the third annual Interfraternity Council Workshops for Penn State's 52 fraternities.

The forum-type talks will continue at 7 tonight and tomorrow with the Workshop banquet Saturday at the Nittany Lion Inn concluding the program.

Meeting to uncover, discuss, and try to solve fraternity problems, the groups outlined topic areas for their next meetings. Each fraternity sent delegates to each meeting. The groups will exchange ideas and adopt recommendations to make to the IFC at its next meetings.

Pledge Studies Outlined

The discussion groups are subdivided into ten different areas of fraternity life: chapter advisers, rushing chairmen, house managers, treasurers, pledge masters, social chairmen, public relations, scholarship, alumni relations, and house presidents.

Pledge masters heard Raymond T. Pierce Jr., instructor of agricultural and biological chemistry outline three points for pledge masters to keep in mind during pledge training. They were to teach pledges the effective use of time, emphasize studying during the pledge semester instead of activities, and develop a favorable attitude towards pledge training.

Scholarship Problems Outlined

House advisers discussed the duties of chapter advisers in chapter service, how chapter and adviser relations could be improved, and problems causing the most concern to advisers. A mimeographed report of counselor duties was distributed.

Scholarship chairmen heard Dr. Marsh K. White, professor of physics, outline the difficulties of study and scholarship problems in today's fraternities. White said the fraternity scholarship average was not good nationally, because it was below the men's college average. He outlined several of the hindrances to study hours of pledges, listing hell week, pledge duties, fraternity activities, and the tendencies of brothers to "let the pledge do it."

New Plan Proposed By Council

A plan enabling a greater number of students to take an active part in student government and student affairs was proposed at a meeting of persons interested in student government Monday night.

The plan, Cabinet Project Council, was first discussed at the recent Student Encampment at Mont Alto, but no definite plans were made at that time.

Cabinet Project Council was originated for the purpose of representing the National Student Association on campus. It was felt that the local chapter of NSA, whose main purpose is to evolve and transmit better methods of student government, was too remote from campus student government to be effective.

The College will continue to be a member of the organization, but all NSA affairs will be channeled to appropriate committees by way of the Cabinet Project Council.

In addition, Cabinet Project Council will be made up of committees which will work on such matters as improvement of Orientation Week, Spring Week, cabinet committee work, freshman smokers, and surveys of college elections.

A constitution will be drawn up and various committees formed at a meeting next week. Any student may then volunteer to work with these committees.

PS Club Plans Theater Party

Tentative plans are underway for the Penn State Club's first theater party of the year. The club plans to attend the Players' production, "The Importance of Being Earnest" Nov. 8 at Centre Stage.

The group also has a tentatively planned mixer with Thompson Hall, and is beginning to lay the ground work for its annual All-College Talent Show.

At a meeting held last night, committees were appointed to investigate the possibilities of the purchase of a new record player, and subscriptions to several magazines for the club room in Old Main.

Fifty-three new members were initiated into the club last Tuesday, swelling the total membership of the organization to 125.

Blue Key to Meet

Blue Key, junior men's hat society, will meet at 8 tonight in 104 Willard to choose fall tappees.

LaVie Deadline Today For Engineers' Photos

Today is the last day Engineering seniors may have their pictures taken for the 1953 LaVie.
