

WRA Conference Begins Tomorrow

Delegates from approximately 50 Pennsylvania colleges and universities will arrive on campus tomorrow for the 15th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Division of the Athletic Federation of College Women.

Mabel Marple, president of the Women's Recreation Association, will be chairman of the convention. The relationship of WRA to fondness for the draft and anything associated with it.

But, more than the military stigma, Stevenson has the basic appeal to the intellectual which Ike definitely lacks. Stevenson, not Eisenhower, begins his speeches with quotations from Shakespeare, Aristotle, and other philosophers. It is not hard to imagine that college students, especially students in the semi-literary field of news writing, would be favorable to this approach.
It remains to be seen, nevertheless, whether this appeal to the intellect will achieve any type of success for the Governor. Eisenhower backers do not try to pass off the General as an intellectual—in fact, he himself has said he doesn't know everything about a lot of issues.
They do maintain that Eisenhower will appeal to more Americans than Stevenson for other reasons than specific knowledge. The country needs a real leader and a striking personality more than a political wizard, they argue. And, the fact remains that thousands of persons all over the United States have been accepting Ike on that basis.
It isn't what he knows, they say, it's what he can do.

WRA Postpones Intramural Play

Women's Recreation Association intramural play, scheduled to start last Monday, will not begin until Nov. 10, according to Marie Wagner, intramural chairman.
Teams may use White Hall for practice, according to the intramural schedule already set up. Intramural play was postponed by the board in order to lengthen the hockey season.
Barbara Wallace, vice president of WRA, has appointed to the WRA social board Nancy Bietsche, Juliana Fees, Nancy Hagy, Winifred Rhoad, Dorothy Robb, Dorothy Rose, and Melinda Thomas.

Mardi Gras Entries Close Wednesday

Applications for booths at the annual Mardi Gras and entries of candidates for Mardi Gras King are due Wednesday, Yvonne Carter, president of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary society sponsoring the affair, said yesterday.
The Mardi Gras will be held 8:30 p.m. to midnight Nov. 7 in Recreation Hall.

To Award Cup
Booth applications should be turned in to Mary Ann Wertman, 212 Simmons, and king entries to Joan Hutchon, 109 McElwain, Miss Carter said. Any sorority or women's group may apply for booths.
An engraved bronze cup will be awarded to the booth taking in the greatest number of 10-cent admission tickets. Admission to Recreation Hall will be 15 cents.

The king will be chosen by penny votes at the Mardi Gras. He will also reign over the Chimes dance Nov. 8, a part of the Mardi Gras Weekend activities.

Sing to Close Weekend
Jack Jenkins will play for the dance from 9 p.m. to midnight in the TUB. Proceeds from the dance will go toward Chimes' projects, and those from the Mardi Gras to the Charlotte E. Ray Scholarship Fund. Tickets to the informal dance are $1 per couple.

The Women's Student Government Association Senate will conclude the weekend's activities with the all-College sing from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Nov. 9 in Schwab Auditorium. No admission will be charged.

Group Talks Of RILW Plans

William Griffith, chairman, will announce a permanent executive committee at All-College Cabinet tonight.

Sponsored by Inter-Religious Council, composed of local ministers and religious counselors, Religion-in-Life Week is observed annually during National Brotherhood Week. The week's activities include panel discussions with visiting religious speakers, informal fireside chats, and teas.

Players' Picture
The Penn State Players' LaVie picture will be taken 6:30 tonight at the Penn State Photo Shop. Men should wear suits, and women plain colors. Frances Stridinger, president, said.

WSGA Senate Passes Change In Constitution

A change in the Women's Student Government Association constitution affecting the election of freshman senators was passed by Senate last night.

The constitutional change legalizes the holding of elections for freshman senators any time up to six weeks after the beginning of the school year rather than the four weeks previously stated. Primaries and elections are slated for Tuesday and Thursday.

Final arrangements are being made for the all-College sing to be held 3:30 to 5 p.m. Nov. 9 in Schwab Auditorium.

Senate members got the idea for the sing at the Student Encampment held at Mt. Alto before Orientation Week. Frank Gullo, associate professor of music, and Hummel Fishburn, head of the Music department, will lead the singing, to be based on the Mardi Gras theme of the weekend.

Plans are being made to present a skit or other entertainment also with the theme of Mardi Gras, Carolyn McElroy, chairman of the committee, said last night.

Recognition Service

The Penn State Christian Association will hold a recognition service for new members at 7 tonight in 304 Old Main. A social hour will follow the service.
