

Workshop Group Favors Radio Station Assistance

The Interfraternity Council Workshop discussion group on public relations will recommend that the IFC give financial assistance to the establishment of a campus radio station, according to William Wagner, chairman of that group.

The meetings last night of the discussion groups closed the third annual IFC Workshop. These workshops were organized to study and try to solve common fraternity problems and make recommendations to IFC.

The public relations group, meeting as part of a ten group Workshop, will make this recommendation at the next IFC meeting, Wagner said. Other recommendations to be made by that group are that IFC try to get an extension on the time limit for girls in fraternity houses on week days, have fraternities give more support to community service projects such as Greek Week, and that fraternities initiate help weeks instead of hell weeks.

The groups were divided to cover ten phases of fraternity life. These were chapter advisers, rushing chairmen, house managers, treasurers, pledge masters, social chairmen, public relations, scholarship, alumni relations, and house presidents.

The group discussing rushing will recommend that the pledging fee due each semester for each man who pledges a fraternity be due the first Wednesday after the Saturday marking the beginning of formal pledging. Joseph Connolly, chairman of the group, added that plans for an extensive spring rushing program were also discussed.

The pledgemasters emphasized the importance of teaching pledging the effective use of time, studying during the pledge semester instead of activities and to develop a favorable attitude towards pledging.

A recommendation that the outstanding fraternity cup, a cup established by IFC for the outstanding house of the year, be awarded on the basis of an average of points per man in the house instead of total points, will be made by the house presidents, according to chairman John Kaufman.

That group will also recommend that groups soliciting in fraternities notify IFC in advance so that house presidents might establish a schedule to receive them.

The social chairmen will recommend that fraternities have more exchange dinners and parties with each other. That group discussed fraternity social budgets, and how these exchanges could be carried out as cheaply as possible. Entertainment and types of food were suggested to cut costs.

That group will also recommend that IFC set up a band pool for fraternities for house parties and big weekends.

1st Honor Rating Awarded LaVie By Press Group

The 1952 LaVie has been awarded a first class honor rating by the National Scholastic Press Association.

The top All-American rating was awarded to the 1951 yearbook and five other copies of LaVie since 1934. Six previous books including the 1950 LaVie have held the first class honor rating.

The 1952 yearbook, however, was not judged on the same standards as those of previous years. A new rating guide was used which lowered many ratings, Fred L. Kildown, director of NSPA, explained.

A rating of excellent was given to 19 divisions, very good to 15 divisions, and good to six divisions of the book. Three divisions were rated fair.

James Geffert edited the yearbook and Shirley Vernon was art editor.

'Ike' Poll --

per cent were uncertain last April. Compared with sentiments of voters throughout the nation, Penn Staters are more enthusiastic about General Eisenhower and his running-mate, Senator Richard Nixon.

A survey by Dr. George Gallup's American Institute of Public Opinion last week included the question of preference for individual candidate, rather than party. Ike chalked up 53 per cent, a decided increase from the 47 per cent calculated by Gallup last August.

Stevenson received 41 per cent in Gallup's survey, a slight raise from the 38 and 39 per cent of his polls last summer. Undecided voters amounted to six per cent.

Gallup's poll reported for the second time that fresh surveys show Democratic sentiment gaining on Republican. But the GOP is still ahead. A substantial body of voters had not yet made up their minds.

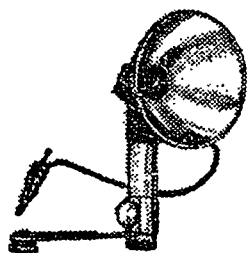

Statistically, the Gallup poll calculated a Republican vote of 49 per cent, a drop from the 51 per cent in polls Sept. 5, 21, and Oct. 1.

The Democrats, according to Gallup, showed 45 per cent, a steady increase from the 43 per cent in the poll Sept. 5, the 42 per cent Sept. 21, and the 44 per cent Oct. 1.

Campus Chest Drive Begins November 4

The student Campus Chest campaign to raise $12,000 for charity groups will start Nov. 4 and end Nov. 18, Joseph Haines, solicitations chairman, said yesterday.

An annual affair to combine drives for several organizations into one, Campus Chest is expected to provide funds for nine organizations. More groups may be added to the nine now scheduled.

"All the begs in one askit," is the slogan for this year's drive. Last year the slogan was "Give once, serve all."

To Describe Recipients

The nine recipients are Penn State Christian Association, World Student Service Fund, State College Welfare Fund, Salvation Army, Heart Fund, National Scholarship and Service Fund for Negro Students, Cancer Society of Centre County, Penn State Scholarship fund, and Women's Student Government Association Christmas Fund. Operating expenses of the drive will be deducted from proceeds.

A series of articles will be run in the Daily Collegian explaining the services of the chest fund recipients.

$950 Raised at Dance

Posters and two movie trailers will be displayed during the drive. The State and Cathann theaters will show the trailers during week-ends until the campaign ends. Trailers are filmed advertisements inserted between the regular features.

The Kickoff Dance, held after the Temple pep rally, collected about $950 for the Campus Chest, according to Walter Sachs, chairman of the dance committee.
