

Permanent 'Suit' Fund Approved by Cabinet

A permanent fund for the Lion suit was set up by approval of All-College Cabinet at its meeting Thursday night. The proposal was presented by David Pellnitz, chairman of the Board of Publications.

The Lion suit, which is used as a Penn State symbol at football games, will be replaced this year through the results of a fund drive sponsored by various student groups. The drive totals reached about $500.

The permanent fund approved by cabinet will eliminate the need for such a drive, Pellnitz explained, by supplying a continuous source of money for the suit. George B. Donovan, Student Union director, told cabinet the fund could be operated through Student Union. A new suit is needed about once every two years, Donovan said.

Three of four proposals made by Pellnitz concerning College communications problems were approved by cabinet. The proposals were the result of a subcommittee report on the activities of the recent Student Encampment.

One of the proposals approved will provide for the enlargement and combination of the present office services division of the College with the proposed student press. This combination was asked because it was felt that the student press is not feasible at the present time, and more complete facilities for production of printed materials are needed.

Another proposal asked that a permanent committee be set up to provide a means for constantly analyzing, evaluating, and establishing improved methods, materials, and techniques of communication. This was approved with an amendment that the committee be made up of nine persons—three students, three faculty, and three administrative personnel.

Voting on a proposal for financial support of the student radio station was tabled until cabinet could hear a report of the Radio Guild.

The proposal also recommended that the President's committee on the radio station be asked to develop a plan for this financing.

Cabinet approved the subcommittee's proposal asking for cooperation among College organization officers in presenting pertinent information before the members of their groups.

Motorcade Changes Suggested

Recommendations for changes in the operation of the Pennsylvania Week motorcade program will be made to the 1953 Pennsylvania Week committee through action taken by the present Pennsylvania Week committee Wednesday.

Fred M. Coombs, chairman of the committee, listed three problems which arose at the parade, held before the Homecoming football game Saturday. If these problems are not solved, he said, the parade should be canceled.

They include, according to Coombs, the reluctance of officials to have floats parked on the field in back of Beaver Field before and after the ending of the motorcade; keeping the motorcade from interfering with the football teams' entrance to the field; and separation of the parade from the time allotted to the Blue Band.

The committee recommended that floats be lined up for inspection by spectators after the game, and that the height of floats be limited. One motorcade entrant had difficulty moving its float because of its height, Coombs said, and arrived after the other contestants had finished.

The 1953 committee must decide next spring if it will hold the motorcade, the committee decided. Fraternities must be notified if the motorcade will be held by the beginning of the semester next fall, the group said.

Unless the regulations used for last week's program can be changed, the parade will have to be held on the campus and downtown, Coombs told the committee.

A downtown parade, with the best floats moving around the Beaver Field track shortly before gametime for judging, was suggested.

Journ Group Will Initiate 17 Tomorrow

Eleven undergraduates and six professional members will be initiated into Sigma Delta Chi, men's national professional journalism fraternity, tomorrow afternoon at Alpha Sigma Phi.

Seventy-five editors, publishers, and news executives from Pennsylvania and nearby states will attend the annual fall banquet marking the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Penn State chapter.

John L. Carson, of the National Broadcasting Co., New York City, will serve as toastmaster at the dinner to be held at 6 p.m. at the Nittany Lion Inn. A 1932 Penn State graduate, Carson was president of the founding chapter of the fraternity.

Undergraduate members to be initiated are Harry Carroll, Marshall Donley, Barry Fein, David Jones, Robert Krittr, Donald Lambert, Charles Mathias, Charles Oberance, James Peters, Richard Rau, and Robert Schoellkopf.

Professional members to be initiated include John Philip Sousa III, education director for Time-Life publications; Edward J. Lynett, publisher of the Scranton Times; Edwin F. Russell, publisher of the Harrisburg Patriot-News; J. Thomas Barber, editor of the Lancaster Sunday News; James S. Lyon, general manager of the Washington, Pa., Observer and president of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association; and Thomas R. Brislin, superintendent of bureaus, International News Service, New York City.

Riding Club Entered in Horse Show

The College will be represented in the $35,000 Pennsylvania National Horse Show in Harrisburg when John Morgan will show My Surprise, a jumper owned by Edna Grabiak, president of the Riding Club. The show will run from today to Nov. 1.

The horse will be competing against the top performers in the nation, including the U.S. Olympic Dressage team. The Blue Band will give an exhibition Wednesday.

Margaret Warner, '51, former president of the Riding Club and now riding instructor at Penn Hall Junior College, will be on the program. She will ride John Bogar's Belle-Flag, with whom she went into the hunter championship finals last year.

Miss Grabiak has won champion hunter and jumper ribbons on her horse, a past Midwest champion whose high jump mark is 7 feet, 4 inches. She is unable to compete in the Harrisburg show because of an accident suffered while riding last week.

One of the features of the show will be Hildajo Rojo, a famous trick horse owned by the governor of the state of Puebla, Mexico. The mounts of the colorful international jumping teams of the U.S.A., Canada, Mexico, Ireland, and France will be on hand at each performance.

The Riding Club is sponsoring a trip to the show Friday.

IFC Open House To Climax Rushing

Interfraternity Council rushing will reach a climax when Penn State's fraternities hold open house from 2 to 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Houses will be open to all students, IFC President Arthur Rosfeld said, but the principle of holding the open house is to acquaint new students and freshmen with the fraternity system and life in the fraternity.

The rushing program started Oct. 13 with the distribution of the magazine "Penn State Fraternities" to new students. The magazine explains the fraternity system and lists some fraternity activities.

Accompanying the magazine is a reply card for students who are interested in joining a fraternity. Cards will be collected by dormitory counselors, and given to IFC to be compiled into lists for distribution to fraternity house presidents and rushing chairmen.

A movie, "A Toast to Our Brother," was shown Wednesday and Thursday as part of the rushing program. Attendance and question-answer periods following were satisfactory, Thomas Schott, IFC rushing chairman, said.

The aim of the movie, he said, was to arouse interest in the fraternity system. He added that it would help dispel false impressions existing about the fraternity system.

Rushing chairmen of the 52 fraternities and an IFC committee designed the program to increase the source of available men for fraternities.

Forum to Hear UN Correspondent

Thomas J. Hamilton, chief United Nations correspondent of the New York Times, will speak to the weekly journalism forum at 11 a.m. Monday in 121 Sparks.

Hamilton, first president of the United Nations Correspondents Association, will discuss newspaper coverage of the UN. He has been a correspondent for the Times in London and Madrid. Before joining the Times, Hamilton was with the Associated Press in Washington. The forum is open to the public.

Campus Blood Campaign Sets Goal at 300 Pints

A goal of 300 pints of blood has been set for the Nov. 11 and 12 blood drive when the Johnstown Red Cross bloodmobile arrives on campus, Ronald Zimmerman, publicity chairman, has announced.

The bloodmobile will be at the Temporary Union Building from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the two-day stay.

Pledge forms may be picked up in 112 Old Main. Persons between the ages of 18 and 21 who wish to give blood must obtain a release form to be signed by their parents, Zimmerman said.

The deadline for turning in forms to 112 Old Main is Nov. 5. A schedule will then be compiled and donors will be informed of their appointments by mail.

The campus Red Cross unit, under the chairmanship of Ruth Minkel, will serve orange juice and doughnuts to the blood donors. Miss Minkel, who is organizing the drive, has asked women students to help with the canteen during the drive. Volunteer workers are asked to contact Roberta Jones, 214 Woman's Building, or Kay Brainerd, 235 Atherton.

Other committee members for the drive include Marie Wagner, Donald Douglass, Donald Ludwig, Rhea White, Betty Buchanan, Barbara Gwin, Robert Hance, Eleanor Horvitz, and Carolyn Pelczar.

Junior Class Queen Entry Deadline Set

The deadline for submitting entries for Miss Junior Class has been extended until noon Wednesday, Irvin White, selection committee chairman, said yesterday.

Photographs may be 5 by 7 or 8 by 10 inches and should be turned in at the Student Union desk in Old Main. The name and address of the entrant and the sponsor's name should be placed on the back of each photograph, White said.

Groups or individuals may sponsor entries for the contest. Entrants must be regularly matriculated juniors at the College.

Personal interviews will be held 7 p.m. Monday through Wednesday to determine five finalists. White said entrants will be notified when to appear. Interviews will take place in 204 Old Main.

The five finalists will be presented, along with the selecting committee, at "Junior Varieties," junior class talent show to be held in Schwab Auditorium Nov. 12.

Balloting for the final selection of Miss Junior Class will be conducted Nov. 11 and 12 at the Student Union desk. Fifth and sixth semester students may vote by presenting matriculation cards.

Councils Close Nominations

Nominations for next week's freshman student council elections will close at noon today in the Schools of Engineering, Home Economics, Liberal Arts, and Mineral Industries.

Engineering students may nominate themselves in the offices of their department heads. Home Economics nominations may be deposited in a box in the lobby of the Home Economics Building.

Liberal Arts students wishing to nominate themselves may submit a petition signed by 25 Liberal Arts freshmen to 132 Sparks.

Mineral Industries freshman nominees may sign a list posted on the bulletin board in the lobby of that building.

State Group To Discuss UNESCO

The best methods of disseminating information concerning the United Nations Educational, Social, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) throughout the state will be discussed by the Pennsylvania Association for the United Nations today at the Nittany Lion Inn.

Dr. David W. Russell, professor of education and president of the association, said that about 25 will attend the day-long conference.

In addition to discussions on dissemination of UNESCO information, the group will discuss the enrollment of Pennsylvania colleges in the Collegiate Council for the United Nations, and will review actions taken at the association's convention in September.

The association, founded in 1950, has become affiliated with the American Association for the United Nations. It enlists the aid of educators, religious leaders, and others in promoting the UNESCO program.

State officers of the association will attend the conference. Faculty members who will be present include Ernest W. Callenbach, professor of poultry husbandry; Dr. William H. Gray, professor of history; James F. Keim, associate professor of agricultural extension; and Dr. Palmer C. Weaver, assistant dean of the School of Education.

IFC Banquet To Conclude 3d Workshop

The Interfraternity Council banquet, concluding the third annual IFC Workshop, will be held at 6:30 tonight in the Nittany Lion Inn.

Highlighting the banquet will be a workshop report and evaluation by IFC President Arthur Rosfeld. Workshop groups met three times this week to uncover, discuss, and try to solve fraternity problems. They exchanged ideas on fraternity rushing, social functions, scholarship, and public relations.

Guests who will attend the banquet, according to John Burrell, banquet chairman, include Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs; Frank J. Simes, dean of men; H. K. Wilson, director of the Division of Intermediate Registration; Kent Forster, IFC adviser; H. W. Perkins, assistant to the dean of men; and William Shifflett, president of the Association of Independent Men, and chairmen of the workshop groups.
