

Booters Favored to Beat Spartans to Be Tough Colgate Soccermen Today For Unbeaten Harriers

The Nittany Lion soccer team will attempt to get back on the victory trail when it faces Colgate on the Beaver Field baseball diamond at 2 p.m. today. It will be the Lions' fourth straight appearance at home for the 1952 season.

Although Mark Randall, Red Raider soccer coach, is bringing a veteran team to the Lion booter ground, the Jeffrey men will be highly favored to win their third match of the campaign. The Raiders boast 12 lettermen, eight of whom are seniors.

Randall is also proud of his fine crop of sophomore booters, who saw considerable action last year. Although he will start out with practically all seniors, Randall is expected to substitute with his sophomores quite freely during the course of this afternoon's contest.

The Red Raiders' strong point will be their defense, but their offensive attack has been lacking this season. Against Hamilton College last week, for example, they held their opposition to two goals, but couldn't score more than two goals themselves, settling for a 2-2 deadlock.

Coach Randall believes this year's Red Raider team will improve on the showing of the 1951 squad. Last season the Colgate booters had a log of three 26 wins and four losses.

The Lion defense will remain its usual, effective self with fullbacks Hap Irvin and Paul Dierks as the main line of resistance. The goalie spot will be filled by Red Harris.

At halfbacks Jeffrey will start Captain Kurt Klaus, Frank Follmer, and Ralph Hofmann. At these halfback positions, Jeffrey uses the players with the best field generalship—those booters who can visualize plays in front of them.

The Nittanians will be in excellent physical condition for today's match, with only Hube Kline unable to play. Kline saw action only in the Lions' first tilt with

Paul Dierks (Right Fullback)

Bucknell, sustaining a bad leg injury in a practice session the following week. Jeffrey said that he wants Kline to rest the leg in an effort to have it heal completely, rather than risk possible aggravation of the injury.

The Nittany Lion freshman soccer team will also see action today, engaging the Center Hall booters on the golf course at 1 p.m.

BEAT MICHIGAN STATE!

Rip Engle Picks Best Grid Player He Has Coached

In a recent Saturday Evening Post article, football Coach Rip Engle states that Charlie Tiedemann, a halfback who played under him at Brown University, was the best player he ever coached.

Tiedemann was sent to Brown in 1943 under the Navy transfer program. Although unheralded when he went out for the team, he admitted previous experience at a small Connecticut prep school.

"We weren't overly enthusiastic when we installed Charlie at left halfback in our winged-T formation," Engle says, "but he was never replaced until the second quarter of the Dartmouth game in 1944."

After an injury to Tiedemann, Dartmouth came from two touchdowns behind to nip Brown, 14-13. Brown did not score in the next two games against Coast Guard Academy and Yale. Charlie returned in the next game and led the team to a 13-0 win over Columbia. He also was the main factor in Brown's first win over Colgate in 16 years, 32-20.

Tiedemann starred in basketball and track, both of which Engle coached at the time. Although Tiedemann won sectional football honors, he was limited to two years at Brown and didn't have a chance for an All-America selection.

"When I last heard from him," said Engle, "he was a mechanical engineer for a Boston paper company—and no doubt good at anything else he tackled too."

Touch Football Will Resume Play Monday

Activity in intramural touch football was at a standstill yesterday, but play will resume Monday night.

The schedule for Monday reported by Dutch Sykes, assistant director of intramurals, is: 7 p.m. Mustangs vs. Nighthawks; 7:45 p.m. Acacia vs. Phi Epsilon Pi; 8:30 p.m. Coal Crackers vs. Dorm 25; and 9:15 p.m. Alpha Phi Delta vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Alpha Tau Omega and the Fireballs, defending champions of their leagues, are still unbeaten. Both had to go overtime, however, to protect their unblemished records in their last skirmishes. ATO edged Phi Kappa Tau, and the Fireballs edged the Hep Cats.

Competition is now rougher and of better caliber since all teams have at least two games played; therefore, a better type of football is expected.

Independents posting three wins in tournaments play are the Coal Crackers, Dorm 25, Fireballs, Blue Streaks, Beaver House, Dorm 35, and Dorm 30.

Fraternities registering three wins are Delta Sigma Phi, Delta Upsilon, Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu, Alpha Tau Omega, and Delta Tau Delta.

Jockey Wins 300th

SALEM, N.H., (AP)—Tony Despirito, the 17 year old jockey who was grounded for incompetency after each of his first two races, today became the eighth American rider to bring home 300 winners in a year.

Despirito needed two winners in yesterday's Rockingham Park cards. He collected his 299th win on J. J. Crowley's Printers Devil in the third race and then achieved his ambition by bringing Henry Forrest's Master Brian home in front in the ninth and final race.

Despirito took his ascension into the ranks of such great 300 winners as Walter Miller, Vincent Powers, Jackie Westrope, and Johnny Longden.

From all reports up East Lansing way, Penn State's undefeated cross-country team will be in for a rough time when it races against one or possibly two of the strongest harrier teams in the Midwest in Michigan and Michigan State today.

The Lion thinclads will definitely run against the Spartans, but the University of Michigan angle is uncertain. If the Wolverines do compete, the meet will enter the books as a triangular contest.

Currently sporting a 2-0 log for the season and a four meet dual winning skein which started last autumn, the Nittany harriers will have to be up to their "Army par" of last week if their record is to remain intact.

4-Mile Race
The harriers will run over a very flat four-mile course. It's the type of course where a distance man has to stay up front with the pack if he wishes to win any of the low scoring slots.

Despite a possible Michigan entry, Coach Chick Werner said his forces would concentrate on beating the upset-minded Spartans.

Victors over Cornell and powerful Army in their first two outings, the Nittany hill-and-dalers hope to duplicate their previous achievements over MSC today. If the opposition has anything to say about it, such wishful thinking will not materialize.

MSC Enjoys Rest
Spartan Coach Karl Schlade-man termed his team's performance against Wisconsin as "very disappointing" and predicted that his club would give the Lions an interesting time when they tangle today.

MSC's distance runners have been enjoying a layoff the past two weeks. That is, only in the sense that the men of Schlade-man have engaged in competition since their opener with the Badgers, Oct. 11.

After they were dealt a devastating 27-28 upset blow by the Badgers, Schlade-man decided that his crew needed plenty of work.

With State's powerful harrier runners providing the opposition today, the MSC squad ran through heavy drills over the campus four-mile course, as well as running up to 35 minutes—without resting—over the hills of a nearby golf course.

Schlade-man Pleased
Last Friday afternoon, an intra-squad time trial was held to determine the success of the workouts. And it seems that Schlade-man was quite pleased with the results, when virtually everyone of the 18 participants turned in their best times of the campaign.

Veteran Dick Jarrett, whose fall at the finish of the Wisconsin tilt cost MSC the victory, showed a definite improvement. He crossed the finish line first with a creditable 20:48.2 clocking, just four and one-tenth seconds slower than Captain Jim Kepford's winning time of a week ago.

John Cook, who became ill and couldn't finish in the Badger race, followed Jarrett with a 21:05.1 timing. Third was letterman Wayne Scutt with a time of 21:15.3 seconds.

The Spartans also have veteran Jerry Zerbe and Kyle Garbe to depend on. Others expected to give the Nittanians trouble are Ed Townsend and Den Barley.

All in all, Schlade-man will field a well-balanced crew, capable of snapping the Lions' four meet win string.

3 Big Ten Games Set For Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Three games matching members of the top 10, including a possible preview of the Rose Bowl, provide the spice for the nation's college football dish today.

The advance peek at Pasadena's Jan. 1 show may be the special offering, though not necessarily of the fans who turn out at Madison, Wis., for the inter-sectional headliner between Wisconsin and UCLA.

Both are prime contenders for respective conference championships which would land them in the Rose Bowl, although they still have a rough road to travel.

To rate the bowl bid, Red Sanders' Uclans must still take the measure of California, whom they meet next week, or Southern California, to be encountered Nov. 22—or possibly both.

Brewster to Address Faculty Luncheon Club

Dr. R. Wallace Brewster, professor and head of the Department of Political Science, will address the Faculty Luncheon Club at noon Monday at the State College Hotel.

He will analyze issues in the presidential campaign.

Dance Class to Begin

The first class in the Latin American dancing course, sponsored by Interfraternity Council, will be held from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday at the TUB. Approximately 200 students have registered for the seven-week course.

Out on a Limb

For the sixth weekend of football predictions the Penn State football coaches, who are still in second place behind Daily Collegian Sports Editor Jake Highton, will have another of their swamis, Jim O'Hora, trying to lift them higher in the grid forecast race.

Highton is currently leading the pack by a comfortable two-game margin with a percentage of .703, while the second-place coaches have .676. Sportswriter Bob Schoellkopf, .662, is third, and Assistant Sports Editor Ted Soens is fourth with .635.

This week the contestants differ in their predictions of 11 games. The two top games of the day, California-Southern California and UCLA-Wisconsin, find Highton alone in his predictions of Southern Cal and UCLA to win. The predictions:

Games	Highton (.703)	Soens (.635)	Schoellkopf (.662)	Coaches (.676)
