

Lions - MSC Tilt—

Paul Dekker
(MSC End)

Depth Is Standout of MSC Team

(Continued from page one)
fensive stalwart Don Malinak will get the call with Jim Garrity in ready reserve.

In addition to bucking what is generally conceded to be the best offensive machine in football today, the Nittanians will be facing a Spartan upper-hand in the series. Not since the first game between these two States in 1914 have the Lions won. The best they could do was a thriller-diller Nittany Homecoming Day tie, 14-14, in 1948.

Last year the Lions surprised the Spartans by leading at half-time, 14-13, on a beautiful 65-yard touchdown punt return by Bob Pollard. But the MSC amazing depth won out, 32-21.

Depth has been the standout feature of the Spartans since their ascension to gridiron power during the last three years. Just last week the Spartans used 61 players to humble Syracuse.

Lion Assistant Coach and scout Al Michaels says "This may be Coach Biggie Munn's best team yet."

Two Fine Passers

This is not far from the truth when one realizes the three-team depth in the East Lansing wrecking crew. In the rout of the Orange last week, the Spartan "Twelve Horsemen" back fields were described as "brilliant running first team, "blinding" speed" second string, and "pin-point passing" third backfield combination.

Two fine passers, Tom Yewcic and Willie Thrower, a New Kensington lad, have three excellent ends as targets in Paul Dekker, Doug Bobo, and Ellis Duckett.

Defensively the Spartans have not allowed more than two touchdowns all year, and then often after victory had been sewed up. One of the big reasons for the stiff MSC defense is All-American backup candidate, Dick Tamburo, brother of Penn State's All-American end, Sam.

Average 6½ per Play

Cold but telling statistics also substantiate the Spartan ranking. In four games the MSC offense has piled up 460 yards for top NCAA ranking in the country. The offense is excellently balanced with an average of 272 yards gained rushing—seventh ranking in the nation—and 188

Dick Tamburo
(MSC Linebacker)

yards in passing—eighth in the nation.

Despite the fact that some may think the Spartans average a first down per try, it isn't so. NCAA statistics give MSC an average of 6.5 per play.

Lion chances naturally are conceded nil against such class, but the 1952 Penn State squad has displayed a fight and a dash which, if aroused today, plus the breaks, could give the Spartans a rough afternoon.

The breaks will be all-important. Should the Spartans get an early jump, they are almost impossible to overtake. Both teams have been consistent second-half ball clubs, which adds to the spice of the game.

16 Leave College

Sixteen students have withdrawn from the College, according to the latest issue of the Faculty Bulletin.

IM Golf Participants To Report Today

Fraternity and independent students participating in intramural golf-medal tournament are asked to report before 1 p.m. today and tomorrow at the caddy house.

Competition in the tournament will be played before 1 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays, Dutch Sykes, assistant director of intramurals, said.

Freshman Gridders To Scrimmage Today

With just one week remaining until he puts his frosh gridders to their first test, Coach Earl Bruce has scheduled a Blue and White scrimmage game for 10 a.m. today on Beaver Field.

Bruce has divided his squad into two groups and will have his eye on individual performances in an effort to find a starting lineup for next week's clash with the Penn frosh. Up until this time, Bruce has made no effort to single out individuals, giving everyone an opportunity to show what he can do.

Collegiate Chatter

There were few changes in Southern Conference football statistics last week. Richmond quarterback Bobby Tyler completed nine passes against Miami to take first place in conference passing. Johnny Gramling of South Carolina, being idle, dropped to second place.

Another South Carolinian, Clyde Bennett, lost his lead in pass-receiving because the Gamecocks did not play. Although he nabbed only one pass against North Carolina, Bob Ondilla of Wake Forest gained the lead with 15 catches.

Ed Midouszewski of William and Mary, held by Navy the previous week to 33 yards rushing and passing, broke loose against Boston U. for 167 yards to maintain his lead over Richmond's Taylor in total offense.

The situation remained exactly the same with North Carolina retaining the lock on punting honors, West Virginia leading all offensive departments, and Duke leading all defensive categories.

Even in trouncing Washington and Lee 31-13 last week, the Mountaineers suffered satistically. They still lead the conference in rushing with 255.5 yards per game, in passing with a 120-yard average, and overall offensively with 375.5 yards per game. W&L is runnerup in rushing and total offense, Richmond second in passing.

Duke's unbeaten Blue Devils kept first place in rushing defense with a 112.6 average, pass defense with a 60.2 yard average, and total defense with 172.8 yards allowed per game. North Carolina, Virginia Tech, and West Virginia trail respectively in these positions.

North Carolina, after a two-week idle period, averaged 47 yards per try to increase its punting average lead to 45.2 yards per kick.

Washington and Lee's Randy Broyles was held to 23 yards by a determined West Virginia team. He, however, managed to keep comfortably ahead of the field in rushing.

Aside from intrasquad scrimmage and work against the varsity offensive and defensive platoons, the Nittany frosh have had no actual organized scrimmage. On the other hand, the Quakers have played two games already, whipping Columbia, 20-6, and tying Princeton, 7-7. So State will be going into the game with a definite disadvantage.

Reich at Center

The game today, however, should give Bruce some idea as to what to expect next Saturday. As it stands now, the outlook is good. He has a fine group of players, budding with size, speed, and spirit. The spirit in particular has made the biggest impression on the frosh mentor thus far.

Blue team coaches, Dick Bestinak and John Kozar, will have Jim Siehl and Jim Ryan at ends, Walt Wampler and Ray Pottios at tackles, and Frank Reich at center. Lerue Stellfox and Earl Shumaker will hold down the guard positions for the Blues. Walt Hochberg is slated to quarterback the squad, and Frank Della Penna will be at the fullback spot. Halfbacks Ray Soffa and John McEachern round out the Blue backfield.

Play Navy Next

At the terminal slots on Chuck Beatty's and Ed Glicky's White team will be Walt Cook and George Supplee. Dwayne Martin and Bill Rinkin will be at tackles, and Dick Bobo and George Obradovich will be at guard slots. Ed Kleist will take care of the center duties. Bob Hoffman is expected to quarterback the White squad, with Chuck Blockson at fullback and Lenny Moore and Bill Straub at the halfbacks.

The Penn contest is scheduled at 10 a.m. Nov. 1. Following that game the Nittany juniors travel to Annapolis to take on the Navy plebes. The Navy contest will be played Nov. 8.

Bop Session Tomorrow

A jam session featuring bop will be held at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow in the TUB. The session will be sponsored by the resident counselors' service through the Dean of Men's office.

Sports Briefs

Case of Fear!

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia was busy fearing Army and Army was busy fearing Columbia at the weekly press luncheon on the Columbia campus.

Paul Governali, a great Columbia passer of other years, spoke in purple phrases of the Army juggernaut that must be faced today.

"On defense they're a pack of ravenous wolves," he said. "That Attaya, darkly handsome, is a dynamic back. And that Mischak—flames come out of his nostrils. If Ernest Hemingway were around he would call him a bull as he paws the ground waiting for a punt."

There was more of the same, with a little less thumping on the bass keys, when Army's scout, Bobby Dobbs, reported on the Columbia team in its loss to Penn.

"That quarterback Mitch Price is a great passer," he said. "He can thread that needle. He runs the ends or up the middle and makes up his mind quick."

"To me Price is invaluable," he said. "I don't know of anybody playing college football, I'd rather have. There might be better ball players someplace. But not for our needs. He is an excellent all-around football player. Directs the team well. Does a great job passing. Runs. And has a tremendous competitive desire."

Annual Turkey Shoot Scheduled for Today

The Dairy Science Club will sponsor its fifth annual turkey shoot at 1 p.m. today at the Penn State Trailer Sales, two miles west of State College on Route 322.

No optical sights or high powered rifles will be allowed in the shoot. Twelve gauge and .22 caliber rifles and ammunition will be available to contestants. Personal guns and ammunition, however, may be used.

BEAT MICHIGAN STATE!

Starting Lineups

PENN STATE	MICHIGAN STATE
Don Malinak	LE..... Doug Bobo
Roosevelt Grier	LT..... Gordon Serr
Don Haldeman	LG..... Ferris Hallmark
Jim Dooley	C..... Jim Neal
Don Shank	RG..... Bob Breniff
Gene Danser	RT..... Larry Fowler
Jesse Arnelle	RE..... Paul Dekker
Tony Rados	QB..... Tom Yewcic
Buddy Rowell	LHB..... Don McAuliffe
Don Eyer	RHB..... Vince Pisano
Matt Yanosich	FB..... Wayne Benson

Penn State's defensive starters: Ends—Don Malinak and Dave Simon, Tackles—Roosevelt Grier and Stew Scheetz, Guard—Don Barney, Backerups—Joe Gratson and Sam Green or Bob Smith, Halfbacks—Don Eyer and Don Bailey, and Safety—Jack Sherry.

All-Americans?

NEW YORK (AP) — A flock of backs and ends and a small but sturdy group of linemen loomed yesterday in the first Associated Press review of All-America football candidates based on the recommendations of boards of experts in the nation's eight major collegiate regions.

Strongest support came for the following:
Ends—Ed Bell, Pennsylvania; Frank McPhee, Princeton; Tom Scott, Virginia; Howard Pitt, Duke; Buck Martin, Georgia Tech; Ed Luke, Michigan State.
Tackles — Dick Modzelewski, Maryland; Doug Atkins, Tennessee;

see; Bill Turnbeaugh, Auburn; Charles Lapradd, Florida; Roger Zatkoff, Michigan; Bill Forester, Southern Methodist.

Guards—Steve Eisenhauer, Navy; Harley Sewell, Texas; Bob Kennedy, Wisconsin; Marvin Matuzak, Tulsa.

Centers and linebackers — Tom Catlin, Oklahoma; George Morris, Georgia Tech.

Backs — Jack Scarbath, Maryland; Paul Giel, Minnesota; Tommy O'Connell, Illinois; Ted Kress, Michigan; Alan Ameche, Wisconsin; Johnny Olszewski, California; Don Heinrich, Washington; Paul Cameron, UCLA; Harry Agganis, Boston U.; and Eddie Crowder, and Billy Vessels, Oklahoma.

Check in at the

Belle Hop Ball

TONIGHT - 9 to 12 - REC HALL

INFORMAL $2.40 Per Couple

Featuring: Jim Erb and his Penn State Blue Notes

Refreshments... Buffet Style