

WRA Learns Procedure

MABLE MARPLE, WRA president, is coached in parliamentary procedure by Joseph F. O'Brien, professor of public speaking, at the 15th annual Women's Recreation Association regional conference held at the College last weekend. At Miss Marple's left is Dr. Mildred A. Lucey, associate professor of physical education. Others on the panel are delegates. Approximately 50 Pennsylvania colleges and universities were represented at the three-day workshop conference. Co-educational recreational activities and effective publicity techniques as well as correct parliamentary procedures were discussed.

Poultrymen Honor Dossin At Surprise Testimonial

Carl O. Dossin, professor of poultry husbandry extension, was honored for 25 years service by poultry producers of 19 southeastern Pennsylvania counties at a surprise testimonial dinner at the Reading Country Club last week.

Representatives of various phases of the poultry industry praised Dossin for his educational leadership and presented him with a substantial purse and a bound volume of testimonial letters.

Kindergarten --

play money) to the highest orange-crate shelf is 22 inches high, "the standard height for kindergarten," according to Jan.

The kindergarten, taught by Mrs. Graffius, is located in a four-room apartment at 132 S. Pugh street. College men rooming in the same apartment house, when asked their opinion of the onrush of 5-year-olds into their domicile each week day at 9 a.m., expressed the opinion that "the children will no doubt get a liberal education."

'Homey Atmosphere'

The kindergarten class often comes up on campus for recess. "They take nature walks and have great fun watching the ROTC drilling," Jan said. "They like to hear Old Main chime and want to know if it goes 'tick-tock'."

The "homey atmosphere" of the apartment-kindergarten, with its fireplace and windows low enough for the children to look out, makes it easier for the boys and girls to adjust to school life, Mrs. Graffius said. Jan, too, feels that the adjustment to working with a group and learning to listen to a teacher is much easier for the children "when school looks more like home, and teacher seems more like mother or grandma."

The women will assist Mrs. Graffius with an open house she plans for this year. They are presently observing the classes each week and keeping the furniture in repair. "We are always introduced as 'the girls who made the furniture,'" Jan said.

J. Martin Fry, director of agricultural and home economics extension, said the work of Dossin reflected the lives of the poultrymen he serves.

W. F. Greenawalt, Bucks County agricultural extension representative, spoke for the county agents with whom Dossin has been working for 25 years.

Raymond N. Miller, Lancaster, was toastmaster.

Dossin has played a major role in the organization and development of four egg and poultry co-operatives, now a $15,000,000 annual business in southeastern Pennsylvania. The Pennsylvania quality egg program, widely accepted by the poultry industry, developed from a series of recommendations Dossin made for the proper handling of eggs.

Two Home Ec Profs To Attend Conferences

Mary Brown Allgood, associate professor of home equipment and commercial consumer services, and Dr. Kathleen A. Johnson, associate professor of family economics and housing, will attend the National Home Vacuum Cleaning conference today and the National Home Laundry conference in New York, N.Y. tomorrow and Friday.

Ag Honorary to Meet

Coaly Society, agriculture honorary group, will meet at 8:15 tonight in 103 Agriculture.

This State College kindergarten is proof that orange crates definitely have their place in education—that is until they can be replaced by something better.

Honorary Plans Political Panel

An analysis of the current presidential campaign as a case of political competition will take the form of a panel discussion at 7 tonight in Simmons Hall lounge.

The discussion, sponsored by Pi Gamma Mu, social science honorary, is the first of a series on various phases of competition. Members of the panel are Lee E. Corter, instructor in political science; Neal Riemer, assistant professor of political science; William N. Leonard, professor of economics; and Lester P. Guest, associate professor of psychology.

2 Frosh Named To MI Council

Ronald Wertman, geology and mineralogy major, and Edwin Tocker, ceramics major, were elected freshmen representatives to the Mineral Industries Student Council Monday.

The men, elected by closed ballot in Dean Edward Steidle's freshman lecture class, will hold office for four years unless they fail to maintain a 1.0 All-College average. They also forfeit the position if they advance their class standing by attending summer sessions.

Marching Band To Give Exhibit

The Penn State Marching Blue Band will give an exhibition tonight at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show in Harrisburg as part of Penn State Night at the show.

James W. Dunlop, director of the Blue Band, said it will be much more difficult marching in an arena where there are no football yard lines to use as guides than on Beaver Field.

On entering the arena tonight, the band will use a formation that received much applause last year. After one-half the band has entered and is in the center of the arena, the second half will appear from the opposite side.

Arrangements have been made

Minister to Lead Alcohol Discussion

The Rev. Norman Dettra of the Pennsylvania Temperance League will speak at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium at the annual symposium on alcohol sponsored by the School of Physical Education and Athletics.

Two members of Alcoholics Anonymous and a representative of the governor's safety committee will also speak.

The symposium is open to students and townspeople.

Psychology Tests

Psychology tests taken by men students during Orientation Week may now be interpreted at the psychology clinic.

for the exhibition by the Penn State Club of Harrisburg.
