

How's 'Paper' Chances?

SOPHOMORE GRIDDERS Sam Green, Don Shank, and Don Balthaser (l. to r.), apparently don't believe what the papers are saying about the Lions' chances to beat Penn Saturday. Despite Penn's favored role, these three should be prominent in trying to make the outcome different from what the experts predict. Green and Balthaser are backers up on defense, and Shank is offensive right guard.

Passing Biggest Asset Of Unbeaten Quakers

When you try to figure out why Pennsylvania's football team is still unbeaten as it goes into the Penn State game Saturday, the obvious answer would be defense. But to Nittany Assistant Coach Sever Toretti, passing has been the biggest factor in the Quakers' success.

Tor, who has been scouting Penn, says that in tailbacks Glenn "Bones" Adams and Walt Hynoski the Quakers pose a strong aerial threat—especially in looking back at what Michigan State passing did to the Lions. Backing up Tor are statistics which show that Adams has hit on 28 of 55 passes for 439 yards and two touchdowns. Hynoski has been good with 12 throws in 42 attempts for 467 yards and four TD's.

On the receiving end of the Quaker passing are two favorites, end Ed Bell and wingback Bobby Deuber. Bell, an All-American candidate, has caught 12 passes good for 257 yards and two touchdowns. Deuber has nabbed 15 for 380 yards and two TD's.

Operating from the deeply engrained Coach George Munger single-wings, Adams and Hynoski pass to these receivers on the run if they don't decide to run. Tor says they haven't done much running so far but have the potential to be a threat on the ground.

Although nearly 80 per cent a single-wing team, the Quakers will occasionally use the T with Ed Binkowski under center. Binkowski quarterbacked Penn's unbeaten frosh team in 1950 which used the T.

Tor calls the second offensive strength of the Quakers the full-back spot. Here both Joe Varaitis and Don Zimmer have been consistent ground gainers. Operating out of a buck-lateral series, both big lads have been responsible for nearly 500 yards on the ground in five games.

Defensively, the Quakers have allowed an average of only one touchdown a game, and the reason can be seen by the fact that Tor cannot "single out one performer without doing an injustice to the others." Three of the standouts have been Bell, a nearly 60 minute man; tackle

9 Independent Teams Post Basketball Victories

The IM Basketball season got off to a fast start last night as 18 teams battled for that all important game—the opener.

Highest score of the evening was made by the Trojans quintet who poured in a total of 52 points to the State Club's 5.

A strong second half Corps team made 12 baskets in the last period to win 34 to 15 over East 25. The first half had been a nip-and-tuck affair ending at 7-10 at the half way mark. The Corps held their opponents to only eight points in the last half.

The high scoring honors of the evening went to Robert Morrison of the Bears whose 18 points spearheaded his team to a 44-17 victory over Dorm 8.

Using their big 6'5" Pete Lang as the pivot man, the West 25 squad downed a hapless Rovers five, 43-16. The winners dominated the playing, controlling both boards and scoring from both under the hoop and from the outside. Lang scored seven baskets, mostly on jump shots underneath, to lead his team.

In a game somewhat on the order of the Penn State-Pitt contest last year, the Cadets battled a stubborn McElwain five to a 13-12 win.

Only a one point spread separated Bob Evans, the captain; and guard Chuck Assiff, a powerful 215 pounder.

Despite Penn's role as the favorite, Tor thinks State can win if the team wants to win as much as past Nittany teams have when meeting the Quakers.

rated the Sponges and the Phantoms at half time, but they finally came through to take the Phantoms 16 to 13.

The Devils couldn't hold a seven point lead at the half way mark and dropped their first game to the Grizzlies, 31-27. In the other two games of the evening, the Elms dropped the Penn Club, 36-30, and the Firehouse five lost to the Nighthawks, 25-17.

Booters Must Polish Offense for Cadets

By BOB SCHOELLKOPF

If the Lion soccer team is to have any kind of success against the Cadets of West Point in its crucial tilt Saturday on the Beaver Field baseball diamond, it will have to sharpen its scoring punch.

This observation was made by Nittany Soccer Coach Bill Jeffrey after the Lion booters' 2-0 victory over a mediocre Colgate soccer squad last Saturday, in which the State offense could not capitalize on several scoring opportunities. "Our offensive attack could go only so far, and then sputter out," Jeffrey said. This was not only the case in last week's Red Raider match, but also was evident in the Lions' loss to Navy, where they missed numerous scoring chances and could manufacture only two goals.

Fireballs, ATO Win In IM Grid

Both defending champions of the fraternity and independent leagues, Alpha Tau Omega and the Fireballs, advanced into the semi-finals in the intramural touch-football tournaments last night when they registered their fourth victories of the season.

The Fireballs, the only threat to Beaver House's chance for the independent title, exploded for two touchdowns in the final half to down the Blue Streaks, 19-0. The defending champs were able to make their only extra point after the third TD.

Alpha Tau Omega squeezed through an overtime period in its last skirmish, combined a passing attack and an aggressive defensive unit to eliminate Delta Tau Delta from the tourney. The fraternity defending champions scored once in each half.

Sigma Nu and Sigma Chi battled to 0-0 tie in a closely fought game in which the former team came out on top in the overtime period, 1-0. Sigma Nu advanced the ball on a three-yard run through the middle and then on its third play from scrimmage completed a forward pass to Sigma Chi's 40-yard line. The losers could not penetrate past the 40 and lost the game.

Delta Upsilon scored a 1-0 win over Delta Sigma Phi in another overtime game. The winners on its last try from scrimmage completed a Neil Diehl-to-Jerry Troy

Jeffrey, however, has no qualms about the impenetrable Nittany defense, which has given up only four goals—an average of one per game.

Kline Has Bad Limp

The State defense should cause the Cadets plenty of trouble, as it has had only one bad showing to date—the Navy tilt when the Middies scored three goals. To date the Nittany booters have accounted for two whitewash jobs, one against Maryland and the other at the expense of Colgate last week.

Jeffrey hopes to be able to field his entire team strength Saturday against the Cadets. Hubie Kline, however, who is still limping from a bad leg injury incurred the second week of the season in a team scrimmage, may not be able to play. Kline saw a few minutes' action last Saturday against the Raiders, but was removed from the game because of his bad limp.

Same Starting Lineup

Hap Irvin, who sustained an infected heel in the Colgate game, will probably be fit for action against the Cadets Saturday morning.

Jeffrey intends to stick with his usual eleven men who have won three matches and lost only one. The brunt of the Lion attack will be carried by center forward Jack Pinezich, outside right Bill Norcik, and outside left Lynn Thomann.

Pinezich, who will be seeking his twelfth goal of the season in the Cadet clash, has averaged 2.8 goals per game. He has been held scoreless only by Navy.

Wins Scholarship

Edward P. Godschall, fifth semester metallurgy student, has been awarded a $500 scholarship by the American Brake Shoe Foundation, Inc., President Milton S. Eisenhower announced today.

Varsity Basketball
Candidates for the varsity basketball squad are requested to report to 301 Recreation Hall this week for medical examination cards. Practice for the squad will begin 6:30 p.m. Monday. Candidates bring their own shoes and suit.
