FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 53, No. 43

STATE COLLEGE, PA., TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 11, 1952

FIVE CENTS

Symphony to Open Community Concerts

The National Symphony Orchestra of Washington, D.C., will present the opening program of the 1952-53 Community Concert series at 8:30 tonight in Schwab Auditorium.

The orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Howard Mitchell, will present works of 19th and 20th century composers.

The program will open with the Ballet Suite of "The Wise Virgins," composed by William Walton. Symphony No. 5 in C Minor, Opus 67, by Ludwig van Beethoven, will complete the first half of the program.

Undergrad Regulations Revised

One of the four changes in undergraduate regulations made by the College Senate tightens restrictions on students who register for a course but cease to attend classes without dropping that course.

The rule, M-4c, now says: "When a student registers for a course but ceases to attend class without officially dropping the course, he shall be given a grade of -2 in the course and render himself liable to discipline."

Previously the rule affected students who attended courses for four weeks or more of a semester or one-sixth or more of any summer session and then ceased to attend class.

Rule H-4 has been dropped. The rule said: "A student in the School of Liberal Arts may not be registered with higher than sophomore classification so long as he remains in the lower division." The rule was dropped because the lower division no longer exists.

Regulation M-4b has been dropped. It says: "When a student attends a course less than the first four weeks of a semester or the first one-sixth of any summer session, but no official drop notice has been received by the

ROTC to Lead Armistice Day Ceremonies

The Armistice Day ceremonies conducted by the campus ROTC units will begin at 10:30 a.m. today when the Air Force Band, Air Force Honor Guard, Pershing Rifles and Navy ROTC students march from Willard Hall to the flag pole in front of Old Main.

At 11 a.m. the flag will be raised from half mast, taps will be played, and the units will move off and march back to Willard Hall.

The responsibility of the Armistice Day activities is rotated among ROTC units. This year Captain David Wirshorn, AROTC is in charge.

Bellefonte will observe the occasion with a parade and a speaking program at 11 a.m. on the Diamond.

Col. L. E. Boldoc, head of the Army ROTC units, will speak.

College offices will be closed to the public today, President Milton S. Eisenhower has announced. Classes will be held as scheduled.

Penn Haven Club

The Penn Haven Club entertained Delta Zeta Sunday. Dancing followed the presentation of skits and a crazy hat contest. Refreshments were served.

Following intermission the orchestra will play Tchaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet (Overture-Fantasy)" and "Adagio for Strings" by Samuel Barber. "The Firebird Suite" by Igor Stravinsky will complete the program.

Director Howard Mitchell, who succeeded the organization's founder, Hans Kindler, in 1948, is one of the few musicians in history to rise from the ranks of a major symphony group to its full conductorship.

Dr. Mitchell attended the Peabody Conservatory and the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia. In 1933 he was accepted into the National Symphony as first cellist. When he was named conductor of the orchestra he was 37.

Nittany Council Will Restrict Vote on AIM

Nittany Council resolved last night to forbid its representatives on the AIM Board of Governors from voting on issues raised under new business and upon which the council has not taken prior action.

The council, at the same time, rejected a proposal which would have forced its representatives to vote as instructed by the council.

A controversy arose last week when the authority of the AIM board was questioned in its action on the McCoy seating plan. At that time, the board rejected the plan even though two of the dorm councils had not taken any stand on the proposal.

The council then voted unanimously to reject both parts of Dean McCoy's plan. It had received a letter from McCoy previously explaining the plan, but had refrained from taking any action on it because the AIM board had already voted on it and had rejected it.

The council also voted in favor of the newly proposed plan for the establishment of an AIM Judicial Board of Review.

A discussion on the possibility of appropriating funds for the Barons, the Nittany and Pollack social organization, has been tabled for the next meeting.

Vacation Extension Vetoed by Council

The Council of Administration yesterday disapproved a request from All-College Cabinet to extend the Thanksgiving recess and to shorten the Christmas recess, according to Richard C. Maloney, secretary.

The request asked that the Thanksgiving recess begin 11:50 a.m. Nov. 22 instead of 11:50 a.m. Nov. 25, and that the Christmas recess end 8 a.m. Jan. 5 instead of 1:10 p.m. Jan. 6.

Committee Will Discuss Dating Rules

The revised West Dorm dating code and the Interfraternity Council letter requesting an extension of dating privileges for freshman women will be the two main discussion topics when the College Senate committee on student affairs meets at 9 a.m. today.

Action on the code was postponed last week pending an investigation by Dean of Men Frank J. Simes. Points for investigation were the suggested schedule of hours and the organization and responsibilities of the proposed executive committee. Simes will report on his findings at the meeting today.

The letter requesting an extension of dating privileges for freshman women sent to the committee by the IFC was withdrawn until this week by All-College President John Laubach, acting in the absence of IFC president, Arthur Rosfeld. The reason for the withdrawal, as explained by Rosfeld, was the negative approach that committee members might have taken to the request after an article explaining the letter appeared in the Daily Collegian. The tone of the article was not conducive to passage of the request, he explained.

The letter asks that freshman women be permitted to date in fraternities with chaperons for their first semester and that they be allowed privileges under the IFC unchaperoned dating code their second semester.

The proposed dating code would permit dating in the lounges of Hamilton, Irvin, and McKee Halls and in the recreation rooms of Hamilton and McKee between 2 p.m. and 1 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays and between 2 and 10 p.m. Sundays. The code provides for chaperons to be provided by resident counselors.

Fire Department Called To Professor's Home

The State College fire department was called early Saturday morning to the E. Prospect avenue home of Neil Riemer, assistant professor of political science, when hot ashes ignited a cardboard container in the basement. Smoke damage was reported.

In a letter to John Laubach, All-College president, Maloney said: "Members of the Council of Administration expressed the opinion that the proposed changes would disrupt a considerable number of plans that have already been made in the area of instruction, such as the scheduling of speakers, films, examinations, and field trips."

Proposal Introduced Thursday

Of the 20 members of the council, there were 11 regular members present and nine substitutes. Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs and member of the council, said the proposal was discussed thoroughly.

Kenworthy added that the short time between the date the proposal was introduced and the dates it would affect was a factor in the decision.

The proposal was introduced at cabinet by Arthur Rosfeld, president of Interfraternity Council, in the form of a motion Thursday.

Loss Affects 2d Proposal

Another proposal asking for a half-holiday on the day of the Penn State-University of Pittsburgh football game, Nov. 22, contained a conditional clause. The request asked for the half-holiday "if the football team wins its next two (Syracuse and Rutgers) games."

The loss of the Syracuse game Saturday would therefore negate this proposal.

College Rejects Pitt Telecast

A spokesman for the Athletic office said yesterday that an offer made by the DuMont television network to telecast the Pitt-Penn State game can not be considered because of National Collegiate Athletic Association rules.

The College will abide by the NCAA rules which say that that group must designate the football games to be telecast, the spokesman said. He expects a similar refusal from Pitt.

The invitation to televise the game came from the president of the DuMont network, Dr. Allen B. DuMont, who sent the invitations to the Naval Academy and nine colleges and universities, including Penn State. The spokesman for the Athletic Association pointed out that the offer is an attempt by the television industry to break through the bounds of NCAA rulings.

Lion, State Campaigns Near End

Lion and State political parties started the final lap of the freshman-sophomore elections race this week with visits to living areas, more distribution of campaign literature, and the erection of huge "Vote State" and "Vote Lion" signs in downtown State College.

Campaigning will end tomorrow as required by All-College election code rules. The election of freshman and sophomore presidents, vice presidents, and secretary-treasurers takes place from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday.

All members of the freshman and sophomore classes may vote in the election. It was erroneously reported last week that only first and third semester students are allowed to vote. Voting takes place in the lounge of Old Main. Students must present their matriculation cards when voting.

Election Committee To Meet

"Both the members of the All-College election committee and the leaders of the State and Lion parties urge all eligible students to get out and vote," Richard Kirschner, Lion Party campaign manager, said yesterday.

Members of the election committee will meet with party clique chairmen at 8 tonight in 204 Old Main.

Kirschner announced a meeting of Lion Party section leaders at 7 tonight in 314 Willard.

The sophomore candidates of both parties will continue their campaigns today and tomorrow in College fraternities. State Party sophomores will visit Phi Mu Delta, Phi Sigma Kappa, Theta Chi, and Delta Theta Sigma at noon today. Tonight they will speak at Delta Upsilon, Beaver House, Triangle, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Kappa Sigma, and Phi Kappa Sigma.

Both parties have planned advertising campaigns through the advertising pages of the Daily Collegian. All-College elections code rules allow the expenditures of $150 on political campaigns.

Violations of the elections code are dealt with by subtraction of votes from parties found guilty of activities contrary to code rulings.

2 Professors Featured At Ceramics Meeting

Dr. E. C. Henry, professor and chief of the division of ceramics, and F. A. Hummel, associate professor of ceramics, will be featured in Penn State Night at the eighth annual joint meeting of the Pennsylvania Ceramics Association and the Pittsburgh Section of the American Ceramic Society to be held at the Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh today.

Henry will report on the ceramic activities of the School of Mineral Industries. Hummel will speak on "Thermal Expansion of Glasses."

Skull and Bones to Meet

Skull and Bones, senior men's hat society, will meet at 8:30 tonight in 101 Willard.

Ag Council to Meet

The Agriculture Student Council will meet at 7 tonight in 103 Agriculture.

Childs Hopes for Communism Study

By DICK RAU

Hope that a high-level commission will be appointed by President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower to study problems of communism was expressed last night by Marquis Childs, Washington news columnist.

Childs, who opened the Community Forum series before an audience of about 400 in Schwab Auditorium, said that the commission would have to consider two main problems: first, whether the security of the country is being threatened, and, second, whether the freedom of the American people is being threatened by accusations of guilt by association.

The columnist decried the use of communism as a "political football" and said that the important question was not one of catching communists, but one of the American people re-discovering their own faith.

The question of what to do about Korea was listed by Childs as one of the most important issues of the recent political campaign. General Eisenhower must find a new approach to the war in Korea where, possibly, there is no new guide to its solution, he said.

Childs condemned the use of the Korean war issue in the political campaign. He said that the war was an obnoxious issue in the minds of the American people and that its appeal was one for the emotions.

Military men were distressed, the columnist said, with Eisenhower's statement that South Korean troops should be used to replace United Nations forces in Korea. Childs said that 50 or 60 per cent of the South Korean troops were combat trained and that two or three inexperienced divisions would be added to replace combat trained UN troops.

Childs expressed a fear that eventual withdrawal of all American troops from Korea and the resulting turn-over of combat responsibilities to the Republic of Korea would tend to remove Korea and its problems from the American mind.

The campaign issue of prosperity was described by the columnist as "the phoniest issue of the campaign." Childs said that the issue was "phony" for both major political parties.

In describing Eisenhower's early campaign moves, Childs stated that Eisenhower said the people had to be reached through emotions—that there was no time for reason. In this respect, the columnist described the campaign as a
