STATE COLLEGE, PA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 12, 1952

FIVE CENTS

Junior Class Talent Show At 8 Tonight

"Junior Varieties," class talent show, will be presented at 8 tonight in Schwab Auditorium. Free tickets have been distributed by juniors, and a limited number are available at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

The reservation deadline for the junior class breakfast has been extended until 5 p.m. today, Thomas Farrell, Junior Week chairman, said yesterday. The breakfast will be held at 9:30 a.m. Sunday in the Dutch Pantry. Reservations have been made by 27 couples, but 50 couples is the committee's goal.

Junior Participants

The following juniors will participate in "Junior Varieties": Victor Parizo, baritone; Patricia Marsteller, who will sing two numbers from "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes"; Andrew Krassowski, magician; Marian Schwartz, blues singer; Margaret Crooks, vocalist; and Rodney Stegal, impersonator.

Today is the deadline for submitting entries for the Mummies Parade which will precede the Rutgers game. Entrants may register with David Kresge at Delta Chi.

Rally Time Changed

The junior class pep rally will begin at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow instead of 7 p.m. as previously announced. Marilyn Buzby, chairman, said the time change was necessary because junior members of the varsity football team will not be available until that time. The rally will begin with a parade starting at Burrowes road and College avenue.

Miss Buzby requested that members of junior hat societies and the five queen finalists be at the parade starting point by 7:30 p.m.

The jazz band of Phi Mu Alpha, music honorary will give a jazz concert at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in Schwab Auditorium. Distribution of free tickets for the concert will begin tomorrow.

Thesis Play Open To Public Tonight

The second performance of W. Somerset Maugham's three-act comedy "The Circle," a thesis production by William S. E. Coleman, will be given at 7:30 tonight in the Little Theater in Old Main.

Performances will be given for the Faculty Women's Club at 8 p.m. tomorrow and Friday nights. Free tickets for tonight's performance may be obtained at the Dramatics office in Schwab Auditorium.

Floral Agency to Have Service for Prom

The Student Floral Agency will provide corsage service for the Junior Prom this weekend, Manager Joseph Sutovsky, said yesterday.

The agency will provide free delivery service. Salesmen will be at the West Dorm mailroom and the Nittany and Pollock dining halls from 5 to 7 p.m.

Ed Council Will Hold Series of Coffee Hours

The Education Student Council will hold the first in a series of informal coffee hours for students and faculty members of the school of education from 7 to 9 tonight in McElwain Hall lounge. Entertainment will be provided by the Treble Singers.

Senate Group Approves Dating Code Revisions

This Won't Hurt!

—By Boyles

DONALD ROBERTS, fifth semester mechanical engineering major, has his blood pressure taken by Mrs. Bonnie Anthony, registered nurse of State College, in preparation for his donation to the campus blood drive. The Johnstown Red Cross bloodmobile unit handled 100 donors at the TUB yesterday.

Red Cross Pleased At Student Turnout

Johnstown Red Cross bloodmobile officials said yesterday they were "very pleased" with the response of Penn State students to the two-day blood drive. The donation period began yesterday and will end today.

Arthur Koster, center administrator for the Johnstown regional blood program, said that the only regret of the organization is that it has failed to meet the expectations of students at the College. He explained that more than 300 pints of blood, the goal for the drive, could not have been handled in this campaign, because scheduling is done at least six months to one year in advance.

100 Donations Handled

He said, however, that in the future the desires of this campus will be taken into consideration and proper adjustment will be made. Koster explained there are 31 participating Red Cross chapters requiring scheduled visits of the bloodmobile unit each year. Much of the scheduling is done according to the population in a particular area, he said.

The unit, stationed at the Temporary Union Building for the two-day drive, handled 100 donations yesterday. Mrs. Helen Shaffer, chief nurse, said that the unit fell behind schedule because some students did not receive their afternoon appointments through the mail. She attributed it to the fact that yesterday, Armistice Day, there was no mail delivery.

Distributed in 3 Ways

Donors are given a physical examination before donating and receive refreshments following the donation. The entire process takes approximately one hour for each donor.

Blood obtained by the Johnstown unit is distributed in three ways. Part is sent as whole blood to Korea, part is used in hospitals in the region for civilians and part is sent to laboratories to be made into plasma for the armed forces. From donation centers the blood is sent to Johnstown, where it is distributed according to the needs at the time.

The unit is scheduled to return to the campus for a three-day stay in early May.

Sandwich Signs Violate College Election Code

All-College elections committee last night issued a warning to students in general, and campus political parties in particular, that wearing sandwich sign political posters on campus is a violation of the All-College elections code.

The committee based its action on Article 10, section four of the code which lists as a violation: "Campaign poster in any part of Old Main other than those approved by the election committee for use at the polls. Posters may be placed only in the dormitories or TUB."

A complaint that such signs have been seen on campus advertising Lion Party candidates was presented to the committee last night by Walter Sachs, State Party clique chairman. The committee was also informed similar signs advertising the State Party have been seen.

Although the committee did decide the signs were in violation of the code, no penalty for the violation was determined.

The committee will meet with party chairmen after the polls close tomorrow following the freshman-sophomore class elections.

'Engineer' on Sale

The November Penn State Engineer is now on sale at the Corner Room and the Student Union Desk in Old Main. The magazine features an article on the new United Nations buildings and Robert Brooks, The Engineer Boy of the Month. This issue contains 72 pages.

Attendance of first and second semester women at registered and chaperoned fraternity events and chaperoned dating in the West Dormitory lounges, except for an amendment in hours, were approved yesterday by the Senate committee on student affairs, according to Wilmer E. Kenworthy, secretary.

Originally the Interfraternity Council requested that first-semester women be allowed to attend registered and chaperoned events and that second-semester women come under the IFC Unchaperoned Dating Code.

Kenworthy said the committee recognized the improvements made by most fraternities in recent years and "the outstanding job being done by IFC in administering fraternity affairs."

Rules formerly in effect did not permit first semester women to go to fraternities at any time, and second semester women were allowed to attend registered and chaperoned events.

Lounge Dating

Dating in the lounges of McKee, Hamilton, and Irvin halls and the recreation rooms on Level A in McKee and Hamilton halls will be permitted between the hours of 7 p.m. and 1 a.m. Fridays, 2 p.m. and 1 a.m. Saturdays, and 2 p.m. and 10 p.m. Sundays. The dating code applies only to weekends.

Previously dating had been permitted only in the main lounge of the West Dorms. The West Dorm Council had asked for dating permission from 2 p.m. to 1 a.m. Fridays. The committee explained that supervision could not be provided before 7 p.m. Fridays.

In the code, the West Dorm Council assumes responsibility for the enforcement and operation of the code. The code also states that dating is permitted during regular semesters except during vacation periods and specifies that women guests must enter and leave by the entrance adjacent to the lounges mentioned.

Committee Formed

Point 3c of the code says: "A committee will be formed by the West Dormitory Council to work in conjunction with the resident counselor as chaperons."

Violations of the code will be referred to the executive committee of the West Dorm Council, and that group will refer its recommendations to the student affairs committee for proper action. The executive committee of the West Dorm Council consists of the resident counselor adviser to the council, the president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer of the council.

200 Demonstrate On Vacation Rule

About 200 men students took part in a mild demonstration in the West Dormitory area between 9 and 10:30 p.m. last night as a protest against the Council of Administration's rejection of an All-College Cabinet request for a change in vacation dates.

The men stood in groups, occasionally raising a cheer at the sound of encouragement from onlookers in the West Dorms. One group centered around Dean of Men Frank J. Simes who was explaining the reasons for the council's refusal of the holiday change.

Tribunal Places Student Driver On Probation

Tribunal placed a student driver on probation last night for incurring five traffic violations prior to his first appearance before the men's judiciary committee.

In other action taken 17 $1 fines were levied for illegal parking, six $1 suspended fines were meted out and nine cases were dismissed with a severe warning by John Donnal, acting chairman.

The student on probation will be required to report at the next two meetings of Tribunal. If he is charged with violations during the probation period disciplinary measures will be taken.

Two students placed on probation two weeks ago were removed from the probation list.

A student charged with three violations reported he no longer needed his parking permit and gave it to another student who incurred a violation. Donnal emphasized that permit stickers may not be passed from one driver to another. He instructed students who were issued permits but no

Political Parties Enter Final Day of Campaign

Both Lion and State parties will make the final burst toward the finish line today in the last efforts of campaigning for their freshman and sophomore class officer candidates.

Tomorrow is election day.

"Whether you vote State or Lion, be sure to get out and vote," is the opinion of leaders on both sides of the political fence. Barry Kay, campaign manager of State Party, said yesterday, that from his view of the campaigns everything seemed to be running smoothly. Kay said he is hoping a greater percentage of students vote than last fall, when only 27 per cent came out.

Sachs Makes Statement

Lion Party clique chairman Richard Kirschner said he feels that the freshman response this year has been especially good, and that much freshman political activity, formerly latent, has developed in this campaign.

Walter Sachs, State Party clique chairman, expressed hope for a record vote, saying that the recent national record may carry over into the campus political field.

Lion Party campaign materials, including "Vote Lion" signs, will be available to any students who want them in the West Dormitory lounge today. Women Lion Party workers will set up a small table booth there for this distribution. Lion Party will also distribute posters with candidates' pictures and qualifications in the living areas.

Sophomores to Visit Fraternities

Both parties will make final visits to fraternities today with their sophomore candidates speaking at houses in the evenings as well as at noon meals. Lion sophomores, including presidential candidate Richard Mercer, will visit Alpha Phi Delta, Alpha Chi Sigma, and Sigma Phi Alpha at noon today and Theta Xi, Alpha Sigma Phi, Phi Kappa, Alpha Tau Omega, and Alpha Chi Rho.

State sophomores, including presidential candidate Robert Homan, will visit houses in the same areas tonight.
