FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 53, No. 45

STATE COLLEGE, PA., THURSDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 13, 1952

FIVE CENTS

Frosh, Soph Elections Today

Polls Open 8 to 5 Today In Lounge of Old Main

Freshmen and sophomores will choose between candidates of Lion and State Party when they go to the polls in Old Main today to elect presidents, vice presidents, and secretary-treasurers for the two classes.

Balloting will take place from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the lounge of Old Main, which will be divided into two sections, one for freshman voters and one for sophomores.

To vote, a student must present his matriculation card.

Taylor Hits Reese, Quits Town Group

Association of Independent Men Town Council member Thomas Taylor resigned from the council last night, charging that the council was apathetic and that if it had any courage it would ask for the resignation of council member Franklin Reese.

In resigning, Taylor charged Reese with using the council for political reasons. Taylor told the council he would be more than willing to aid the council when it was ready to do some work.

Taylor said he sat in on the council last year and the council did not do anything then and probably would not do anything this year.

In calling for the resignation of Reese he referred to what he termed Reese's "ineptitude" as a member of AIM last year. Taylor also admitted he was very disappointed that the council refused to reimburse him for extra work he put in on council's float in the Pennsylvania Week parade.

Reese would not reply to the charges made by Taylor other than that he was ready to answer any questions council members might have. There were no questions.

The first reading of the council's new constitution was made by Otto Standardt. The new constitution will contain some 15 revisions of the old one. Acceptance of the constitution calls for at least two consecutive readings and the approval of three-fourths of the council.

A vacancy in the council's representatives at large to the AIM Board of Governors was created by Taylor's resignation. Jerry Donovan was appointed social committee chairman when that position was vacated by Taylor.

Pitt Game Tickets Remain on Sale

Approximately 300 tickets are still available for the Nov. 22 football game with the University of Pittsburgh, the Athletic Association office announced yesterday. Tickets priced at $3.50 will continue on sale today at the AA ticket office in Old Main.

Walter Hosterman Jr., assistant graduate manager of athletics, announced the possibility of getting more tickets from Pitt if student orders warrant them.

Club Chooses Delegates

Joseph DePetro and William Waters have been chosen to represent the Block and Bridle Club at the national convention the end of this month in Chicago.

Freshmen may vote only for freshman candidates and sophomores for sophomore candidates. No student may vote in place of any other student. The ballot boxes will be watched during the voting by members of the All-College elections committee and members of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity.

Voting will continue during the noon hour.

be determined by a count of ballots by the elections committee. Any violations of the elections code will be considered by the committee and can result in subtraction of votes from the guilty party. The elections committee will meet with the clique chairmen of the two parties after the polls close. This meeting will take place in the student government room in Old Main at 5:30 p.m., according to Ronald Thorpe, chairman of the elections committee.

State Party Clique Chairman Walter Sachs told members of the elections committee Tuesday that illegal sandwich signs were being used by Lion Party campaigners. The committee also said it had received similar complaints about State Party.

The committee said the signs were a violation of the elections code but has not as yet decided upon a penalty. Decisions of this type are made at the committee meeting after the balloting.

Both parties ended their campaigns last night, distributing posters and leaflets around dormitory areas and throughout the town. No campaigning is allowed in Old Main except a poster no larger than 11 inches by 17 inches.

Better Riding Facilities Asked

The Riding Club next week will submit a petition for more recreational riding facilities to Ernest B. McCoy, dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics. Petitions have been circulated among students and posted in dormitories. The petitions seek an indoor riding ring for use during the winter months and inclement weather and ask the College to purchase more horses for recreational riding.

If the plan goes through, students other than those enrolled in physical education riding classes will be permitted to ride, Edna Grabiak, club president, said.

The Riding Club sponsors trail rides each Saturday. All club members are eligible to ride, but only 11 horses are available under the present setup.

Rec Hall Will Open For Coed Recreation

Recreation Hall will be open to all students, men and women, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Sunday for the first of a series of coeducational recreation periods.

Opening Rec Hall for co-recreation is a new plan at the College, established by the School of Physical Education and Athletics under the suggestions and directions of its new dean, Ernest B. McCoy.

Activities planned for the evening are badminton, ping-pong, miniature soccer, shuffleboard, volleyball, and table games. At 8:15 p.m. a special demonstration of fly casting will be presented by George W. Harvey, associate professor of physical education.

Admittance Is Free

McCoy, in inviting all students to the event, pointed out that the number of students turning out would determine the future of the activity. McCoy said that the recreation can fill an important need for Sunday evening activities.

There is no admittance charge for the event.

The hall will also be open from 1 to 6 p.m. for the use of men students who wish to use recreation equipment, McCoy said.

Harold B. White and Ray M. Conger, members of the Physical Education school staff, will be at Rec Hall as supervisors. In addition, two graduate students and two undergraduates will be available to direct activities.

Two Other Plans

The opening of the hall for co-recreation is a part of a long-range recreation plan designed by the school and McCoy. Included in the plan are more and better facilities for recreation in the Nittany-Pollock area, the expansion of facilities around Beaver Field, and holding dances in Rec Hall after basketball games and other indoor activities there. The plans for post-game dances call for possible hiring of dance bands and use of records for the dancing with charge for all students.

McCoy has also proposed two plans for Rec Hall seating: one calling for the admittance of approximately 300 faculty, alumni, and townspeople to the hall, and another asking for the division of student tickets during the more crowded games so as to insure seats for as many students as possible.

Teacher Exam Forms Available in Burrowes

Applications for the national teachers' examinations are now available in 8 Burrowes, Dr. Hugh M. Davison, professor of educational research, has announced.

M. C. Stone, class of '49, will speak at a joint meeting of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and Society of Automotive Engineers at 7 tonight in 110 Electrical Engineering.

Pep Rally To Begin With Parade

A pre-Rutgers pep rally, sponsored by the junior class, will begin at 7:30 tonight with a parade starting at Burrowes road and College avenue.

The parade will pass through town and travel to the Lion shrine, where the rally will continue with songs and cheers led by Alan McClesney and members of the cheering squad.

Mummers Parade

Featured in the parade and the rally will be junior members of the varsity football team, the five finalists for Miss Junior Class, Coach Rip Engle, Dean Ernest B.

Victor Parizo, baritone, last night won first place in "Junior Varieties," junior class talent show, and was awarded a free ticket to the Junior Prom.

Andrew Krassowski, magician, placed second and Margaret Crooks, vocalist, third. Both also won free prom tickets.

About 300 attended the show in Schwab Auditorium. Judges were Mary E. Brewer and Patricia J. Thompson, assistants to the dean of women, and Dean of Men Frank J. Simes and Assistant Dean of Men Daniel A. DeMarino.

McCoy of the School of Physical Education and Athletics, Frothy and the Lion. Gerald Maurey will be master of ceremonies.

Floats will be used in a mummers parade, scheduled to precede the Rutgers game Saturday. The parade will assemble at noon on Beaver Field with entries taking position according to assigned numbers.

To Attend Chapel En Masse

Miss Junior Class will receive a loving cup donated by the Blair Shop, silver evening slippers from Simons, candy from the Candy Cane, gloves from Schlow's, and a bracelet from the junior class. Miss Junior Class will be crowned at the Junior Prom.

Dorms to Drill On Fire Safety

This year fire drills will be held in men's dormitories on campus for the first time, according to Lorin J. Elder, supervisor, safety division. The women's dormitories will continue drills as in other years.

Fire drill rules have been posted in each dorm room. Checkers have been chosen to see that all students obey them.

When a fire drill occurs, students are asked to close windows, turn on ceiling lights, close, but not lock, doors, and leave buildings by the nearest exits. In case of bad weather, students should go into the lounges instead of outside during drills.

Elder commended the fraternities because of the decreased number of fraternity fires. He thought this was due to some national fraternities insisting on local fire inspections in fraternities.

No Cabinet Tonight

All-College Cabinet will not meet tonight. The next meeting will take place next Thursday, at which time cabinet will discuss and vote on the Recreation Hall seating plans. The plans were to have been discussed at this week's meeting and voted on next week.
