

PSCA Offers Varied Topics In Workshops

By BAYLEE FRIEDMAN

Assuming that it takes all kinds to make a college campus, the Penn State Christian Association is appealing to a variety of interests—from the arts to politics—in its newest project, the CA Workshops.

The Workshops, now in the final planning stage, will be a series of monthly programs. Thus, when a student joins either the international affairs, music, dramatics, art, news, worship, or "campus problems" group, he meets with the same group one Wednesday each month.

Students may sign up in 304 Old Main before Wednesday, when the first organizational meeting will be held.

An outgrowth of student desire to combine fun and learning, the workshops will be designed to provide the member with a broader perspective of his special activity, Mary Jane Wyland, PSCA program coordinator said. Training in discussion technique will be another by-product of the series, since the members themselves may have a chance to lead their groups if they desire.

To Air Current Issues
Although student members of PSCA will chair the committees, the workshop programs will be planned largely by the participants. Special features may include visiting performers, speakers, or other experts in the fields of the workshop phases.

Students joining the "Know Your World" workshop can expect to focus all discussion on current issues, United Nations developments, and geography. Chairman Harry Shank stresses that this will not be a "longhair" venture. Instead, the group is being organized to develop intelligent attitudes through interesting discussion, he said. Foreign exchange students from various parts of the globe may help lead some programs.

Malin to Head Dramatics
"Music for Listeners" will provide the opportunity to relax to records, according to Andrew Zerbini and Janet Herd, in charge of the Beethoven to Bop programs. They assure that even the record explanation will be presented in fireside fashion.

Stephen Malin, a dramatics major, will be chairman of the Dramatics Workshop. Amateurs taken with the grease paint may join this group and act out simple pantomimes or excerpts from Broadway plays.

Another workshop centering around the arts will be "Art for the Spectator," chaired by Rachael Witherow.

To Publish CA News
For those interested in learning how to conduct religious services and programs, Jane Ifft and LaVonne Althouse are planning a Workshop Workshop.

Under the chairmanship of Eliza Newell, the News Workshop will facilitate the publishing of CA News, official newspaper of PSCA. Members will learn essential journalism techniques as well as many editing hints.

Appealing especially to new students on campus, the "Gripes

Three to Talk On Civil Rights

A panel of three professors will discuss "How Can We Make Our Civil Rights Program More Effective?" at 8 p.m. Sunday at Hillel Foundation, 224 S. Miles street.

Rabbi Benjamin M. Kahn, director of Hillel, will present the speakers, Edward Abramson, assistant professor of sociology; Arthur H. Reede, professor of economics; and Neil Reimer, assistant professor of political science.

This discussion will begin Hillel's 13th year of Town Meetings, non-partisan discussions in which faculty members talk on social, political, and economic issues. After each speaker presents his viewpoint the discussion is opened to the audience for questions.

Over 200 faculty members have participated in the Town Meeting since its inception in 1940.

and Grins" Workshop will provide informal discussions about personal problems met in a large college. Whether those problems concern dating, studying, or religion, an open forum will try to arrive at concrete solutions. This workshop will be led by Richard Schuler and Darrell Ray.

Programs Non-Sectarian
In order to keep the groups small enough to be informal, the number of applicants must be limited.

Open to any undergraduate or graduate student, the workshops will be entirely non-sectarian. Although the PSCA incorporates religion in its program, the workshops are a cultural aspect and will include religion only if the participating members desire.

Newman Club Will Initiate New Members

Newman Club will initiate new members at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, and Dr. Girard McDonough will speak at the second of the Cana Conference series sponsored by the group at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

The initiation ceremony will be held in Our Lady of Victory Church basement. The Newman Club ceremony was written by Dr. Francis J. Tschan, professor emeritus of European history, in 1942. It has since been adopted by the National Newman Club Federation to be used by Newman clubs throughout the country.

The Cana Conference talk will mark the second in a series of seven monthly lectures on the topic "The Catholic Marriage." Dr. McDonough will speak on the physician's point of view.

Following the talk, refreshments will be served in the church basement, and those present will have an opportunity to meet and talk with Dr. McDonough.

The Cana Conference was opened last month by the Rev. Dr. Patrick Harkins of Tyrone. In future months, a lawyer, a nurse, an insurance expert, and an expert on actual planning of the wedding will be heard. The final talk will be given by a Catholic priest who will summarize the church marriage laws.

Father Richard Walsh, Newman Club chaplain, planned the program, the first at the College. Other such conferences have been carried out at colleges throughout the nation.

WRA Board Initiates Four

WRA executive board has initiated Jane Whitney, senior adviser to the board; Mildred McCowan, sophomore representative; Elizabeth Lloyd, freshman representative; and Ruth Kronewetter, freshman representative.

At a short business meeting following the initiation ceremony, the board voted to invite to Playday, Feb. 21, the same colleges that participated in the event last year. Schools which will be sent invitations are Bucknell, Mansfield State Teachers College, Lycoming, Juniata, and Lock Haven State Teachers College.

The board also decided to plan a spring clothing drive, the dates to be decided at a future meeting.

BEAT RUTGERS!

Quartet to Sing At Junior Breakfast

By HELEN LUYBEN

Four men dressed to their necks in plaid vests will sing for your breakfast Sunday morning. That is, if you're planning to attend the junior class breakfast at 9:30 a.m. in the Dutch Pantry.

The vested men are the Mellowaires Quartet—Bob Burns, first tenor; George Georgieff, second tenor; Jack Jenkins, baritone; and Jim Shaw, bass. And they're for hire, they say.

You may have heard them at the Women's Recreation Association convention in October or the all-College sing last weekend.

"They're very comical to say the least," and "They're loaded with expression" were typical comments.

To Sing in Pittsburgh

If you're from Missouri and you have to be shown, why don't you pick up their routine at the breakfast? Tickets are $1.25 a couple, and juniors may sign up until 5 p.m. today at the Student Union Desk.

The Mellowaires have worked up quite a repertoire in the two months since their organization. "We try to learn two new songs a week—we do about 30 now," tenor Burns said. "Practices at Theta Xi and Tau Kappa Epsilon usually turn out to be concerts with the whole house in the basement listening to us."

"You can tell we love to sing—look at the times we practice (11:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. six nights a week.)"

One of the highlights of their 20-minute routine is a comic rendition of Rigoletto. Other specialties are "Margie," "Close Harmony," "Stardust," "Blue Room" and "September Song." "You see, we sing everything," they explained, "—old favorites, novelties, comedy, and popular stuff."

Two Major in Music

Three of the Mellowaires are seniors, so the quartet is bound to join the army soon—unfortunately, not as a quartet. "But we'd love to keep it together and try professional work for awhile," Burns said.

Postal Rule Changed

The postal regulation covering faculty mailing under College Permit No. 1 has been changed to Sec. 34.65 (e), PL&R. Leftover envelopes with the old numbers on them should be corrected, the College advises.

Riding Club Petitions

Persons having Riding Club petitions for improved recreational riding facilities are asked to return them to Jean Lathlaen, 364 McElwain, before Monday.

Just two Mellowaires, Shaw and Jenkins, are music majors. Burns is majoring in hotel administration, and Georgieff, pre-med. But the four are active in either Chapel Choir, Glee Club, or Blue Band.

Jack Jenkins has his own dance band which played for Le Mardi Bal during Mardi Gras weekend. When asked if there was any musical talent in their families, Burns and Shaw would admit to only a piano which "mother plays beautifully."

Although their goal is musical comedy, the men may end up yet singing together as the Mellowaires in hotel-administrator-Burns' "Honeymoon Hotel."
