

Grid Ticket System Changes Announced

The system for allocating student tickets for the Penn and Pitt football games has been revised by the Athletic Advisory Board in a general policy for future away games with those teams, graduate manager of athletics Harold R. Gilbert has announced.

The board's stand on floats and parades during athletic events, use of the loudspeaker for play-by-play description and announcements during games, team complimentary ticket policies, and College participation in cross-country meets was clarified and re-defined at a recent meeting of the board.

The method to be used in the future seat allocation will give students seats in the bottom rows, extending along the entire Penn State section, Gilbert said. This plan will be similar to the method employed this year at the Pitt game.

Application Blanks

The price of tickets will be the same throughout the entire proposed student section. Approximately 200 tickets for cripples and cardiac cases will be excluded from this number, he said.

Starting this spring, students will be given application blanks for tickets to the Penn and Pitt football games. The applications will be distributed before commencement and probably collected during the summer, Gilbert said. These applications are similar to those alumni must fill out for game tickets. The receipt of these blanks will act as a reservation for ticket preference and give the Athletic office some idea of the ticket demand.

Present Policy OK'd

Student members of the board will screen requests for parades and floats on the Beaver Field track during games. Requests must be submitted in writing to the Student Union desk one week prior to the Friday noon preceding the game. Requests will be submitted for final approval to Hummel Fishburn, professor of music education, and Ernest B. McCoy, dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics. Weather conditions, however, will be the deciding factor on the day of the game, Gilbert said.

The board voted to sustain the present policy of not using the loud speaker for play-by-play description of the games. Complaints on the part of paying customers was the reason offered by Gilbert when asked why no speaker would be used.

Loud-Speaker Announcements

He added that facilities were such that it would be impractical to use such a system.

Announcements relating to student, alumni, faculty, and College functions to be made over the loud-speaker system must be submitted to the Student Union desk by Friday noon prior to the game. These announcements will be screened by student members of the board.

Prexy to Study Government Setup

President Milton S. Eisenhower has been named to a committee to study possibilities for streamlining the executive branch of the government, by his brother, President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower.

According to the New York Times, the two other members of the committee are Nelson A. Rockefeller, chairman, and Dr. Arthur S. Fleming. Rockefeller was formerly assistant secretary of state and coordinator of inter-American affairs. Fleming is president of Ohio Wesleyan University and chairman of the manpower policy committee.

Bernard L. Gladieux, who is associated with the Ford Foundation, will be an adviser to the committee.

Committee to Study Hoover Work

President Eisenhower was not available for a statement yesterday on how, if at all, this appointment would affect his status with the College. Unofficial sources said they believed the appointment would have no effect on his present duties.

The committee will study the work of the Hoover Commission as well as independent studies on improving the efficiency of the executive department of the government. One of the independent studies is being carried on by Temple University. Dr. Robert L. Johnson, president of Temple, has offered the study when it is completed for use by the Eisenhower administration.

Prexy, Ike Meet

The Temple study is being financed by a special fund subscribed to by citizens. The principal object of the Temple committee will be to make recommendations for simplifying the structure of the government.

President Eisenhower, along with two other college presidents, met with his brother over the weekend, apparently to discuss the structure of the government. The group included two men who worked on the citizens committee for the Hoover Report.

'Keyston Idea' To Be Given First Preview

"The Keyston Idea," a newspaper story produced by the College's motion picture and recording studio, will have its first public preview at 8 tonight in the State College High School auditorium.

The 25-minute sound and color production features several State College residents and several locations in the town. The story of the film is based on a community newspaper editor's deciding to stop publication of his newspaper, and the resulting action to have him change his mind on the part of the community. State College residents enact the roles of citizens in the fictitious town of Keyston, Pa.

Ross Lehman, assistant executive alumni secretary, plays the leading role of editor. James Ambandos was the writer and director of the film, and Frank Neusbaum, the producer. Cameraman and editor of the movie was Delmer Duvall.

Following tonight's preview, the film will be shown to service clubs, fraternal groups, and other organizations in all parts of Pennsylvania and the nation.

G. A. Harshman, general manager of the Sharon Herald, will introduce the film. Harshman represents the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publisher's Association, which sponsored the project. There is no charge for the movie, and the public is invited to attend.

Concert Performer

PIANIST Constance Keene will present the second Community Concert program at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in Schwab Auditorium. The program will include compositions by her husband, Abram Chasins, as well as the works of 18th century composers.

Grad Student, Mauled by Bull, Much Improved

Robert Amole, graduate counselor in Nittany Dorms 21 and 22, was reported much improved yesterday after being trampled by a bull on his father's farm near Pottstown Wednesday night.

Amole, who served as State Party clique chairman while an undergraduate at the College, was reported suffering from a fractured neck and temporary paralysis below the waist by the Jefferson Hospital in Philadelphia. His condition is still considered serious.

He has regained some feeling in his legs, however, a member of Alpha Sigma Phi, Amole's fraternity, reported yesterday.

He was found lying in the bull's stall by an aunt shortly after he had returned home from the College for the Thanksgiving vacation.

He had apparently entered the stall of the dehorned bull and been knocked against the barn's stone wall and then trampled.

Campus Chest Total Reaches Half of Goal

Contributions for the Campus Chest have raised the total to $6400, only a little more than half the goal of $12,000, according to Joseph Haines, solicitations chairman.

Haines said compilation of returns has not yet been completed for student contributions. The same situation exists concerning faculty contributions, according to A. H. Imhof, faculty-administration solicitations chairman.

Approximately $5100 has been tabulated from student cash contributions or pledges. The faculty-administration tabulations have reached $1300.

Haines said solicitors should turn in the International Business Machine cards for money pledges as soon as possible whether or not students were contacted.

Disappointment was evidenced by officials when at one point in the drive only $2800 had been collected as compared to $6000.

collected last year at a corresponding point in the drive. Last year's drive reached 99 per cent of the goal.

Nine service and charity groups will be recipients of drive funds. These are the Penn State Christian Association, the World Student Service Fund, the Women's Student Government Association Christmas Fund, the State College Welfare Fund, the Salvation Army, the Heart Fund, the American Cancer Society, the Penn State Scholarship Fund, and the National Student Service Fund for Negro Students.

Infirmary Functions Explained

Students should go to the College Infirmary only for emergency treatment on Saturday afternoons and Sundays, according to Dr. Herbert R. Glenn, director of the College Health Service.

Glenn said students are coming to the Infirmary in increasing numbers Saturday afternoons and Sundays for non-emergency treatment as a matter of convenience. The Infirmary is provided to handle accidents and illness after examination and diagnosis at the Dispensary and to handle emergency cases when the Dispensary is closed.

The Dispensary is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 8 a.m. to noon Saturday. Students should report to the Dispensary before going to the Infirmary, Dr. Glenn said.

The College Health Service is organized to provide for examination, diagnosis, and treatment of minor accidents and illness, he said. Going to the Infirmary on weekends for non-emergency treatment places a burden on the staff that is not in the operational plan, interferes with the care of students in the Infirmary, and places responsibility on nurses. He said no doctors are on duty unless called in emergency situations.

Glenn said the fee charged for this service has not been increased for several years and is below that charged for similar service at other institutions. He said he hoped the situation can be controlled so that an increase in the fee or making a charge for non-emergency weekend treatment can be avoided.

White Elected CPC President

Irwin White was elected president of Cabinet Projects Council at the group's meeting last night. It was the council's first meeting since its constitution was approved by All-College Cabinet nearly two weeks ago.

John Carpenter was elected vice president of the council. The president of the council must be a junior and the vice president a sophomore according to the council's constitution.

The council elected Otto Hetzel recording secretary and Lorraine Gladus corresponding secretary. The council's constitution does not call for a treasurer since all monetary work is handled through All-College Cabinet by the Cabinet Projects Council board of directors.

Executive secretary of the council, All-College vice president James Plyler, named Marian Ungar and Lenore Kahanowitz to assist in the publication of evaluation booklet about the student encampment held at Mt. Alto in September.

Firemen Fight Blaze In Borough

A fire, which apparently started in the basement, brought 50 members and five fire trucks of the State College Alpha Fire Company to the residence of Russell Howell, 324 E. College avenue, last night. The house is located on the east side of the Nittany Dell.

Hampered by 25 degree weather, the firemen fought for an hour and a half before getting the blaze under control. By the time the alarm was received, the flames had spread from their source up through the hollow walls on the east side of the wood-frame structure, and thick smoke billowed from every opening on that side of the house.

Working mostly from the inside, the firemen smashed through the walls, and poured streams of water on the flames. The fire had climbed to the third floor of the building, and appeared to be out of control, but tons of water from about 25 hoses finally extinguished the blaze.

While the majority of the men worked to extinguish the blaze, others, including some unidentified students, were busy removing clothing and bedding from the second story rooms.

Damage could not be estimated at the time, but it is known to be considerable.

Christmas Mailing Rush Expected

Unless you want your Christmas cards to arrive just in time for New Year's Day, plan to mail them early.

The Centre County postmasters, expecting a record-breaking Christmas mail, have issued a few suggestions to make the load easier for Uncle Sam's post office:

Send Christmas cards first class, and if out-of-state, by Dec. 15. Allow at least a week for local delivery. Tie your cards in bundles, one for local and one for out-of-town delivery. Packages for out-of-town delivery should be mailed by Friday; local delivery by Dec. 10.

January Grads To Order Gowns

The schedule for ordering caps and gowns and invitations for January graduation exercises has been announced by George Donovan, director of associated student activities.

Seniors in agriculture will sign up for caps and gowns today at the Athletic Store; education and engineering seniors tomorrow and Thursday; chemistry-physics and mineral industries seniors Friday and Saturday; and home economics, liberal arts, and physical education seniors Monday and Tuesday.

Invitations and announcements may be ordered at the Student Union desk in Old Main according to the above schedule. The cost is 10 cents each.

The deposit for cap and gown is $5. Students should know hat size when ordering.

Those who will graduate in military uniform should not sign up.
