FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 53, No. 54

STATE COLLEGE, PA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 3, 1952

FIVE CENTS

SU Desk To Display Coal Scuttle

The University of Pittsburgh-Penn State "coal scuttle," established as a tradition this year by the Interfraternity Councils of both schools, is on the way to the College and will be displayed at the Student Union desk in Old Main when it arrives, IFC President Arthur Rosfeld said yesterday.

The scuttle, similar to ones found in front of fireplaces, will be awarded annually to the winner of the Pitt-Penn State football game. State, winning this year's game 17-0, will hold the trophy one year.

After a period of display at the Student Union desk, the trophy will be placed in a trophy case in Recreation Hall. Each year that State wins, the trophy will remain on display there.

Both IFCs have agreed to jointly finance the trophy and exchange it. Small metal plaques will be placed on the bucket each year, listing the date, the winning school, and the score of the game.

This new custom will initiate a tradition similar to the one existing between the Universities of Michigan and Minnesota where the winner of the game is presented football's "Little Brown Jug."

Coed Teachers' Gripes Heard At Ed Council

The Education Student Council last night named a projects committee to draw up a statement of the main complaints of women student teachers concerning housing and rooming.

Council members discussed the problem of women student teachers having to pay $1.50 a night to stay in the dorms when visiting campus during the eight-week period. One-half their room and board is deducted from the fees because of student teaching. Another problem discussed was the difficulty student teachers have in getting their original room back when they return to campus.

The council went ahead with plans for a faculty evaluation program, to be underway before the Christmas vacation.

It was also announced that a few places are left for the four-day tour of the United Nations starting Dec. 11. Included in the trip is a guided tour of the UN, a visit to the General Assembly, and lunch at the delegates' dining room. The deadline for reservations is Friday, according to Harry Shank, council vice-president.

The amendment was read in its present form for the first time at the last meeting. In order to go into effect it must be passed by the Board of Governors and two-thirds (three out of four) of the member councils.

He has represented his government on diplomatic missions to London and Toronto as well as Washington and has headed Korean delegations to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration conference in Toronto and the International Red Cross Convention in Toronto.

Meteorologist Sees End of Snowfall

Yesterday's snowfall which continued intermittently during the night is expected to stop this morning, according to Charles L. Hosler, assistant professor of meteorology. About one inch fell last night bringing this morning's total fall to about three inches.

Although the snow is expected to stop, Hosler said it will remain cloudy and cold.

Stormy weather has been reported over most of the eastern states and all of Pennsylvania. The storm center is now off the coast near Norfolk, Va.

Trustee Board To Study Bids On SU Building

Bids for construction of the proposed Student Union Building are expected to be reviewed by the Board of Trustees Friday, according to Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs.

Plans and specifications were made available to contractors for bids about Oct. 18. Plans at that time called for letting of the contract if the bids came within the $2,000,000 allotted.

As of last semester $276,922.50 had been collected for the project, according to the College Accounting office. This fund has been collected through a student assessed fee of $7.50 per semester. It was approved by All-College Cabinet in May 1950.

The building, to be constructed south of Osmond Laboratory, will include a large ballroom, lecture hall, music room for rehearsals, library, coffee shop, soda bar, meeting rooms, offices for student organizations, four lounges, and game areas for table tennis, pool, and billiards.

If a contract is awarded, doubt exists when construction of the building will start. In a statement released Oct. 2, President Milton S. Eisenhower said:

"It is not possible to say exactly when construction can be started, but it should be soon after the contract is let. It is estimated that it will take about 18 months to construct the building."

Nittany-Pollock Men Engage In Snowbattle

Shouting and swearing students living in the Nittany-Pollock area enjoyed a snowball fight last night resulting in seven broken windows in Pollock Circle, a student with a split lip, and another hit by a coal clinker cleverly covered with snow.

The fight was a running, inconsistent affair, allegedly begun by a small group of Nittany residents who challenged Pollock Circle to a round of snowballs. Two Nittany students were caught by Pollock Dorm 4 residents who took down their names to be given to Dean of Men Frank J. Simes. Dorm 4 had two windows broken.

A small group of about 40 from Pollock retaliated by rushing through two or more dorms in Nittany throwing snowballs and shouting.

The vast bulk of the residents in the two areas did not participate in the battle.

One student living in Pollock Circle summed up, "Just like a bunch of high school kids."

College Animals Take Honors at Exposition

Three grand championships, numerous breed championships, and other honors were won this week by Penn State animals in the sheep division of the 53d International Livestock Exposition in Chicago.

Penn's Pride, a purebred Hampshire, was shown by Carroll Shaffner, College shepherd, and his assistant, Carl Everett, to carry the Grand Champion wether honors of all breeds in the show. Reserve Grand Champion Honors went to a Southdown wether, also a Penn State entry.

A pen of three Southdowns won the Grand Championship honors of the Exposition. These same honors were won last year by a pen of Southdown wethers from the College flocks.

Penn State entries in the breed competition won the Cheviot champion wether class, champion pen of Hampshire wethers and champion individual Hampshire wether, after taking first and third prizes in individual Hampshire wethers.

The College wethers also won the individual and "pen of three" championships in the Southdown breed entries. First, third, fourth, and fifth place ribbons went to Penn State wethers. Ribbons were also won by Dorset and Shropshire wethers.

The College has won the wether grand championship five times since 1926. Last year 29 Penn State sheep won 34 ribbons and awards.

Riding Ring Approved By McCoy

Ernest B. McCoy, dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics, yesterday came out in favor of the proposed indoor horseback riding ring.

McCoy will again be unable to attend the meeting of the Riding Club at 7 tonight in 317 Willard. He was to have received the petitions circulated by the club, asking for the ring and more horses for recreational riding.

He said although he was in favor of the ring he did not know if it would be built in the near future.

Several Projects

The ring would be used for physical education riding classes during the winter and inclement weather. Riding students now share the stock pavilion with agriculture students.

"As matters now stand," he said, "there are several projects to which I would give preference over the ring. These will have a more general use among the student body. One of these is men's recreational areas. I think, however, that the ring might be built in conjunction with some other building."

McCoy said he was not sure of the likelihood of obtaining more horses.

Value of Petitions

"I am not too familiar with the situation regarding horses, but I do not think there is enough stable space for any additional ones. Whether the stables could be enlarged, I do not know," he said.

McCoy expressed uncertainty regarding the value of the petitions which will be given him in the near future.

"I do not know how much weight the administration will accord the petitions," he said. "The petitions should be of some value. In addition, I shall speak favorably of the ring in my annual report to the administration."
