

Joint Program For Engineers Is Established

Penn State and Lycoming College have established a joint program for preparing men in the engineering field to help meet the need for trained engineers.

This program is similar to one completed between Penn State and Westminster College earlier this year. This plan will enable students to enroll for a three-year liberal and scientific program at Lycoming, then transfer to Penn State for the final two years.

A bachelor of science degree from Penn State and a bachelor of arts degree from Lycoming will be received by students completing the program.

The program will provide a student with a general education in a liberal arts college as well as a technological education in a school of engineering in five, instead of six or more, years that might be required if both degrees were obtained separately.

The joint program will also permit a student who has not decided on his career to study arts and sciences for three years, and then take more time to determine whether he desires to enter engineering.

Applications would be made to Lycoming College. The student would indicate, when enrolled, his intentions of following the engineering program.

Faculty members of Lycoming would recommend students in their sixth semester who are eligible for transfer to the school of engineering at the College.

Graduate School Marks 30 Years Since Founding

This year marks the 30th anniversary of the Graduate School, but enrollment figures indicate that in 1861, two years after the first students arrived here, two students were studying for advanced degrees of master of scientific and practical agriculture.

Although the school wasn't formally established until 1922, a total of 522 advanced degrees had been awarded by that time.

Dr. Frank D. Kern, first dean of the school, recalls 177 students were enrolled when the school was organized. Today the enrollment totals more than 1400. Dr. H. K. Schilling, dean of the school, succeeded Kern when he retired in 1950.

The total of advanced degrees awarded by the school since 1861 is 8045 including 729 advanced degrees conferred during the past year.

Dr. Marsh W. White, professor of physics, received the first doctorate awarded in 1926. In the past year 113 doctorates were conferred.

Northerners who sympathized with the South during the Civil War were called "Butternuts." The term was suggested by the "butternut" color of the Confederate uniform.

IFC Brochure Given Mention

The Interfraternity Council brochure, a scrapbook listing the activities of Penn State's IFC, received honorable mention at a National Interfraternity Council conference held last weekend in New York City, Arthur Rosfeld, IFC president, has announced.

The book, compiled by Fiorentino Feraco, Tau Kappa Epsilon, was submitted in competition with similar brochures of IFCs throughout the country.

The conference, a non-resolving group, met to exchange ideas and discuss fraternity problems existing on an IFC level on the nation's campuses. Discussions were held on projects such as Greek Week, relations of fraternity systems with the public, and problems in fraternity scholarship.

Knight Will Lecture To Engineers Tonight

Robert A. Knight, division manager of the Pennsylvania Power Co., will lecture to the American Society of Agricultural Engineers on "The Human Side of Engineering" at 7 tonight in 105 Agricultural Engineering.

Engineering students and others interested in electric power are invited to hear the Pennsylvania's utilities executive's discussion, Morris Schroeder, president, said.

Nittany Council To Poll Residents

The Nittany Council will conduct a poll of students living in the Nittany area to determine the possibilities of Korean veterans living together in one or more dormitories. The council will attempt to find out how many students are planning to live off-campus next year. The plan was adopted at a council meeting Monday night.

The council also approved a plan to appropriate funds for the Barons, Nittany-Pollock social organization.

Locklin Will Address Phi Beta Kappa Tonight

Dr. A. Pauline Locklin, associate professor of English literature, will speak at the annual Founders' Day program of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honor society, 6:30 tonight in the State College Hotel.

The subject for Miss Locklin's address will be "Warbling Sea Gulls and Other Literary Lapses."

Phys Ed Honorary To Train Pledges

Phi Epsilon Kappa, national men's physical education honorary, will introduce new pledges to its pledge training program at 7:30 tonight at Sigma Pi.

Plans for the initiation of pledges and for the honorary's semi-annual banquet will be discussed.

Former Prof Named to Head NYU Office

A former administrative assistant to the dean of the School of Liberal Arts and director of arts and science extension at the College has been named head of the newly created Office of Research Service at New York University, effective Dec. 15.

In the new office Dr. John R. Richards, who received his B.A. and M.S. degrees at the College, will coordinate, guide, develop, and promote research activity and serve as assistant to Dr. David D. Henry, executive vice-chancellor of the university.

Richards did administrative work at the College until 1936. From 1946 to 1951 he was professor of business administration and assistant to the president of Wayne University, Detroit. At present he is a special assistant for education to the secretary of the army.

Dr. Henry also is a Penn State graduate. He received his B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees and served as instructor in engineering extension and instructor in English literature from 1926 to 1929. Until recently he was president of Wayne University.

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!

They're made better to taste cleaner, fresher, smoother!

Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke?

You know, yourself, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.

Luckies taste better—cleaner, fresher, smoother! Why? Because Luckies are made better to taste better. And, what's more, Luckies are made of fine tobacco. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco.

So, for the thing you want most in a cigarette... for better taste—cleaner, fresher, smoother taste... Be Happy—Go Lucky!

An apple used to do the trick,
But grades don't bother me—
I give my prof this one sure tip
That L.S./M.F.T.

COLLEGE STUDENTS PREFER LUCKIES IN NATION-WIDE SURVEY!

Nation-wide survey based on actual student interviews in 80 leading colleges reveals more smokers prefer Luckies than any other cigarette by a wide margin. No. 1 reason—Luckies' better taste. Survey also shows Lucky Strike gained far more smokers in these colleges than the nation's two other principal brands combined.
