

22 Scholarships Go to Students In Ag School

Twenty-two students in the School of Agriculture have been awarded scholarships, Dr. Russell B. Dickerson, director of resident instruction, has announced.

Recipients of the $100 Sears and Roebuck Foundation scholarships are Francis Obusek, Forrest Fenstermaker, Jack Park, Darwin Braund, James McFalls, Delbert Eckhart, Philip Caton, David Cromley, Robert Brown, Donald Weidner, Edwin Dull, Joseph Vary, George Morton, Irving Buck, George Silvis, and Albert Carey.

The $100 Kroger scholarships have been awarded to Jeanne Bertholf and Richard Weaver. Clara Thiessen is the recipient of the $150 Charles R. Gerth award.

David Morrow received the $100 Esso Standard Oil scholarship, Dwight Putman the $100 Dairy Fieldman's scholarship, and George Alleman a $300 Borden Agriculture scholarship.

At 13, Miss Keene was brought to the eminent pianist composer Chasins, whom she married in 1949. Chasins, impressed with her talent, offered her a scholarship and taught her composition as well as piano.

During the war she played throughout the country under USO-Camp Show auspices for the Army and the Navy, as well as at hospitals and canteens. Miss Keene has made many radio appearances over the NBC and CBS networks.

Only members of the Community Concert Association in State College will be admitted to the concert.

Murals --

Cooperating in making the film were Frank Neusbaum, administrative head of the motion picture and recording studio, producer-director; Henry L. Miller, associate specialist in motion picture production, writer-narrator; Delmer P. Duvall, cameraman-editor; Eric Sjolander, recording engineer; and Edwin W. Gamble Jr., instructor in music, composer of the original score.

Dr. Dickson served as consultant, and Theodore K. Karhan, associate professor of music and music education, conducted the 1952 summer sessions orchestra, which provided the music.

Talk About a Monopoly --

The NCAA has been quick to reply, however, that the department is familiar with NCAA operations and has expressed no objections. Countercharges have been made though that political influences prevented justice department action against the NCAA in an election year.

Broadcasting-Telecasting also points up signs that the recent election may deprive the NCAA of its high level influence in Washington, and also indications that some NCAA members believe that "all education and all college sports will suffer if public indignation continues to mount."

Some restraint on TV football coverage is a necessity to protect gate receipts, yet it appears clear the NCAA has satisfied neither side in either its 1951 or 1952 formulas. This year's NCAA monopoly was sold for $1,125,000, split among participating teams.

Francis T. Murray, Penn athletic director, has strongly advocated that colleges be permitted to make their own TV arrangements next year.

Fritz Chrisler, who holds a similar position at Michigan has come out for allocation of games

Names for WD Offices Due

Nominations for two representatives-at-large to the Board of Governors of the Association of Independent Men from the West Dorm area must be turned into the Student Union desk in the main West Dorm lounge before 5 p.m. tomorrow, Hugh Cline, elections committee chairman, has announced.

Nominations may be made by in eight separate districts rather than in a single nation-wide package. Moose Kraus of Notre Dame joins in a call for a change.

Chrisler points out that he could have sold the TV rights to the Michigan-Michigan State game for $100,000 but all the university got was $3050, the regular two-hour rate under the NCAA formula.

It appears now the NCAA is going to be tackled from both the university side and from the TV industry side before it comes up with a policy for next year. All-time record gate receipts this year despite the weekly NCAA-allowed telecast will be a big arguing factor in limbering up the NCAA code. We'll watch the battle with interest.

a self-initiated petition signed by 50 residents of the West Dorm area. Elections for the two positions on the AIM board will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday. Students must show their meal ticket and matriculation card to vote.
