Nittany Booters Meet Foreigners Today

For Idle Penn State Kickers

By BOB SCHOELLKOPF

In a game billed as a match of ball handling skill and fun, the Penn State soccer team will meet a squad of booters from "countries that play the head-and-toe sport" today at Beaver Field. Starting time is 2 p.m.

Although yesterday's rain did away with the snow on the play-

Coach Jeffrey looks forward to the game each year and says it provides a wonderful opportunity to see soccer played as it should be played. Always an advocate of the heady type of soccer played in countries like Great Britain, Brazil, and Iran, Jeffrey says the smart antics of the foreign students and faculty members that comprise the team should prove to be very interesting.
